Truman Rules Out Stalin Talk Outside Of U.N.

President Endorses Acheson's Rejection Of Premier's Offer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — President Truman said positively today that this government won't spurn the United Nations for separate talks with Russia or any other country.

Mr. Truman told a news conference that Secretary of State Dean Acheson's detailed rejection of Prime Minister Stalin's indirect "peace" talk offer had his full endorsement.

Asked if this nation would meet with other powers outside the United Nations, Mr. Truman replied flatly that it would not.

The questions about Stalin and Russia came thick and fast. They were prompted by Stalin's offer — in reply to a newspaperman's written questions — to meet the President in Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Truman recalled that he had given the Soviet Premier an invitation to Washington at the Potsdam conference. He said he is willing to see him here any time.

Alaska Query Brings Laughter

But he made it clear that there would be no ignoring the United Nations in any discussion that might result from such a meeting here.

He was asked about Acheson's analysis of the Stalin interview in which the Secretary of State emphasized we would not talk with Russia about matters concerning other nations. Mr. Truman said he thought that the Stalin statements were completely and fairly answered by Acheson and that no further statement is needed.

What if Stalin would be willing to come as far as Alaska? Mr. Truman's answer was lost in the laughter.

"Did you say Nome?" the reporter asked. Mr. Truman chuckled and said he didn't answer.

Other news conference developments:

1. The President said Gen. Lucius Clay would remain in control of American military government in Germany.

This was prompted by a question whether he planned to transfer control of administration in the American zone to the State Department. The Army is known to have made an urgent request for the change.

2. Mr. Truman hopes that no agencies of the government are exempted from reorganization authority which he has asked of Congress.

Moves Reported On Foot

A reporter told him there were moves on foot to write a hands-off order into the pending bill to prevent his dealing with the Interstate Commerce Commission, The Federal Trade Commission and other bureaus. Mr. Truman seeks the authority to make reorganizations throughout the executive department as he sees fit. They would be effective unless Congress vetoes his orders.

Cardinal Mindszenty Appealed To U. S. Envoy To Help Him Flee Hungary, Prosecution Claims

American Minister Has No Knowledge Of Written Appeal

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 3 (AP) —The prosecution charged tonight that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, now on trial for treason, had attempted to get United States Minister Selden Chapin to help him escape prison and flee Hungary by plane.

The court recorded Cardinal Mindszenty as acknowledging that attempt after he made a reply which was barely audible. The court then adjourned until 10 a. m. (4 a. m. EST) tomorrow.

(Reached by telephone from Prague, Chapin said he had no knowledge of any letter written by the Cardinal asking his (Chapin's) aid in helping him escape from prison. "Not only did I never receive such a letter, I never knew it was written," Chapin said.)

Hungary's Roman Catholic primate pleaded partial guilt earlier to the government charges against him. He firmly denied, however, that he had plotted to overthrow Hungary's Communist-dominated regime.

All of the things charged against him, the Cardinal said, occurred early in 1947, "when many people thought that a third world war was inevitable."

Offers To Withdraw

Cardinal Mindszenty said that in the future he would have regard for the sovereignty of the Hungarian government. He also offered to withdraw from his office for a time if such a move would help establish peace between the government and the Catholic Church.

Cardinal Mindszenty and six other defendants went on trial today on charges of treason, spying and black market money dealings.

(In Washington, the United States State Department reiterated tonight its flat rejection of Hungarian charges against American Minister Selden Chapin in the Mindszenty case.

(This government's basic position on alleged American involvement was stated by the department's press officer, Michael J. McDermott, in a news conference on January 25.

(The Hungarian government had just published a "yellow book" on the case. McDermott said that telegraphic summaries of the document indicated that it "endeavors to impute improper activities to the United States minister to Hungary, Mr. Selden Chapin."

Pay Tax Rate "Freeze" Bill Sent To Lane

Governor Is Sure To Sign Measure And Prevent Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 3 (AP)—The General Assembly gave Maryland taxpayers the news they've been waiting to hear tonight—they owe the state only two per cent of last year's income.

The house made it final, concurring in some minor amendments attached to the tax "freeze" bill by the Senate.

As soon as Gov. Lane signs the measure, it will become law and prevent a rise of one-half per cent in the personal income rate.

Lane is sure to approve. He announced it would be a good idea to maintain the two per cent rate as soon as it became clear the treasury surplus, now more than $20,000,000, would be even larger by June 30.

The act repeals a 1947 law which boosted the tax on earned income with returns due this April 15.

Forms To Be Changed

Chief Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker said printers are prepared to make an immediate change in the forms they have been turning out. Thousands setting the rate at 2½ per cent have already been distributed, McCusker said, but the vast majority of taxpayers will receive correct blanks.

Effect of the "freeze" will be to cut about $3,215,000 from revenues expected this year, McCusker said. Lane drew up his 1950 budget with that in mind.

Before the measure came up in the House there were rumors some delegates unhappy about the extent of a tax cut would try to work it over again in a conference committee. Nothing happened, however, and nobody voted against it.

Sen. Storm (D-Frederick) refused to yield in his attempt to lower the tax bill on unearned income. He lost yesterday, when the Senate rejected an amendment to the tax bill, so he introduced a separate measure today.

It would require a two per cent return on the first $1,000 of unearned income and five per cent above that. The rate is now a flat five per cent.

School Issue Arises

The Senate also got into a discussion of how much money should be spent to build new schools.

Sen. Stromberg (D-Howard) declared this "is the biggest question facing the Legislature and the state." All county schools must adopt a 12-year system by next year, he said, and previous legislatures have failed to provide for the increased demand for classroom space.

Fiscal affairs took up most of a quiet day in the State House.

Former Sen. Joseph M. George, now a member of the State Roads Commission, told the Senate Finance Committee that $800,000,000 will be needed for roads in the next 15 to 20 years. Under the current highway program, $200,000,000 will be spent in the next five years.

Sen. Carter (D-Balto 3rd) asked the Legislature to urge Congress to cut down federal spending.

If the proposed $42,000,000,000 budget goes through, he said in a resolution, "Maryland's share of this tax burden will be more than five times the next tax receipts of the state in 1948."

12-Year-Old Bride Held

Etta Long (above), 12-year-old bride and soon to be a mother, is being held in the juvenile home at Mason, Mich., while officers investigate the stabbing of her husband, a 23-year-old unemployed sawmill worker. Etta told Sheriff Allan MacDonald she cut her husband with a knife during a quarrel. She was taken into custody while ice-skating with her former sixth grade playmates. (Story at bottom of page.)

President Says He Has Powers To Halt Strikes

"Very Suggestion Is Threat To Liberty," Sen. Taft Declares

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Truman said today he has ample powers to halt national emergency strikes — and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) replied that "the very suggestion is a threat to the liberty of the American people."

At issue in the hot argument was whether new labor legislation, now being considered on Capitol Hill, should contain a provision enabling the President to seek injunctions to prevent strikes imperilling the public welfare.

Labor union leaders are fighting against such a provision, which was contained in the Taft-Hartley Act the administration is seeking to repeal. Taft and other Republicans say it should be in the new legislation.

Mr. Truman told a news conference it is unnecessary to put it in the bill because he has plenty of power as Commander-in-Chief and President.

Taft spoke out at a night session of the Senate Labor Committee, which is studying the administration bill to replace the Taft-Hartley Act with an "improved" Wagner Act.

He said that in time of peace, the President has no power, without a specific statute, to seek a strike-halting injunction or to seize strike-bound plants.

Truman Stands By Clark

"The very suggestion that any such power exists is a threat to the American people," Taft said.

"There is no authority anywhere to create a prima facie case of such powers on the part of the President."

The President stood by his Attorney General, Tom Clark, who had said in a letter to the Senate committee that the President's "inherent powers" would take care of the situation.

Clark's letter had stirred a hot controversy. Taft, an author of the Taft-Hartley bill which the administration measure would repeal, denounced the letter as an attempt to face two ways.

He said the administration was trying "to please the people" by saying there is power to halt strikes, and "please the labor unions" by leaving such power out of the labor bill.

The Taft-Hartley law authorizes the government to seek 80-day court orders to block critical strikes. The administration bill would substitute a 30-day cooling off procedure. The President would call on the disputing parties to stay on the job while emergency boards tried to work out a settlement.

Taft, in a talk to a luncheon meeting of GOP women, said the authority should be in the law. He predicted that before Congress gets through with the bill.

"It will contain most of the provisions" of the Taft-Hartley law.

"At least that's my hope," he added.

Morse Changes His Mind

The administration measure, besides repealing the Taft-Hartley law, would revive the New Deal Wagner Act with "improvements."

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) said at a stormy meeting of the Senate Labor Committee that the administration bill "hasn't a ghost of a chance" in

Italian Inventor Claims Apparatus "Annuls" A-Bomb

VENICE, Italy, Feb. 3 (AP)—Edoardo Vecchiato, a 50-year-old inventor of Vicenza, Italy, claimed today he has developed a secret defense mechanism against the atomic bomb.

He told reporters details of the mechanism were delivered to Italian government last January 8 and later handed over to "a western power."

Vecchiato was quoted as saying the apparatus could be installed aboard an airship to arrest automatically the vertical movement of an atomic bomb and "annul its effects." He gave no other details.

Navy To Stress Defense Against Undersea Attack

Reshuffling Will Cut Expenditures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Navy today put new stress on "anti-submarine readiness" as it ordered 72 ships mothballed to make way for other vessels better adapted for defense against undersea attack.

Secretary of the Navy Sullivan disclosed the slimming down operation has the added objective of trimming fleet expenditures to come within the $15,000,000,000 budget ceiling President Truman set for the armed forces. The Navy was allotted $4,600,000,000 for the next fiscal year starting July 1 as compared with nearly $5,100,000,000 for the current period.

Sullivan said 15 major ships — three 27,000-ton aircraft carriers, nine light cruisers and three anti-aircraft cruisers — had been ordered to the reserve fleet. The other 57 are smaller auxiliary craft such as minesweepers and amphibious and patrol vessels.

He said these reductions, however, will be offset by additions of 30 fighting ships to the operating fleet. These include 24 destroyer types, one light carrier, one 27,000 ton carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser and two submarines.

Sullivan said these swapovers will bring the operating fleet down from 755 to 731 warships and supporting vessels.

The exchange, however, indicates no loss of fihting power but rather a shift of emphasis on faster, lighter, vessels in line with the "anti-submarine readiness" program Sullivan said the Navy plans to stress in the coming year. For example, he reported the Navy will operate 170 destroyer types in comparison to the 146 now on fleet duty.

The Navy Secretary also said the budget retrenchment made it necessary to reduce Navy personnel by 30,000 and to cut back air strength by about 400 planes. In addition he said nine air stations, mostly in the Pacific, would be shut down, with three others put on a stand-by basis.

By making these reductions now, he said the Navy will be able to operate at the full strength authorized in the new budget.

For the next fiscal year Mr. Truman set these ceilings: 288 combat vessels as compared with 290 now; 7,450 planes, as compared with 8,580 now, and a manpower total of 527,000 for the Navy and Marines. At present the Navy has 420,000 men and the Marines 84,000.

Norway To Make Its Own Decision

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 3 (AP) — Foreign Minister Halvard Lange, discussing the possibility Norway will be invited to join a North Atlantic alliance, said today Norway alone will decide her answer.

Lange denounced Norwegian Communists. He charged they have given Moscow erroneous information about Norway's politics.

Without referring to a recent Russian note asking clarification of Norway's attitude, Lange told Parliament:

"When we take our stand, it cannot be decided for us by what other nations want us to do or not to do. The deciding element must be our own estimation of what secures Norway's interests and best contributes to prevent war."

Lange said the breakdown last weekend of talks on a Scandinavian defense pact means that Norway, Sweden and Denmark will have to solve security problems in the way each believes best serves her own purposes. Sweden sought an alliance based on neutrality. Norway favored affiliation to a wider security system, within the framework of the United Nations.

Snow Squalls Halt Haylift In Nevada

[By The Associated Press]

Winter slapped down the Nevada haylift Thursday but pulled its punches in the Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming snow disaster area where steady relief progress was made.

Other sections of the nation had much less trying conditions. Rain and snow fell in the Midwest and the Pacific coastal area. It was unseasonably chilly in the East. And the South recovered somewhat from recent unprecedented cold.

In Congress, a second $500,000,000 appropriation was passed to pay for the Herculean task of reviving snow-choked expanses of the West.

Truman Appoints Mon Wallgren To Head Vital Resources Board

M. C. WALLGREN

The post has been temporarily filled by Assistant to the President John Steelman.

The vital resources board was set up to chart the path of United States preparedness for another war. It was empowered to blueprint the nation's needs and resources, both as to manpower and material goods, to meet any new emergency.

After working on the problem for many months, the board asked for power from President Truman to enforce its decisions on all other branches and agencies of the government.

President Truman rejected the request and restrained the board to its original purpose of surveying and making recommendations on the nation's resources.

In making the appointment today, the President said he felt that Wallgren was particularly well fitted for the $14,000-a-year job.

Wallgren, a member of the House of Representatives from 1933 to 1941, served in the First World War, rising from a private to first lieutenant.

In November, 1940, he was appointed to the Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Lewis B. Schwellenbach, who resigned to become Secretary of Labor. Wallgren was elected to a full Senate term from 1941 to 1947.

However, Wallgren resigned his Senate seat to become Governor of the State of Washington in January, 1945.

Israel-Arab Talks Planned By Bunche

RHODES, Feb. 3 (AP)—A United Nationsl spokesman said today Mediator Ralph J. Bunche hopes to start armistice talks by next Wednesday between Israel and all Arab nations opposing her, despite the snag in Israeli-Egyptian negotiation over boundaries.

(Haifa sources said Israel has declined to grant further concessions in the Rhodes bargaining and threatened to withdraw Friday unless Egypt yields. This was not confirmed in dispatches from Rhodes.)

The Israeli-Egyptian talks are now in their fourth week. Egypt has demanded withdrawel of Jewish troops from territory assigned to Arabs under the United Nations partition plan; Israel insists on holding strategic points gained in her October and December offensives.

Giant Navy Plane, Carrying 90 Persons, Spans Nation In Nine Hours, 35 Minutes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Navy's giant Constitution landed at National Airport at 9:30 p. m. (EST) tonight, nine hours and 35 minutes out of San Francisco, nonstop, with the largest passenger load ever to span America by air.

The 72 passengers and 18 crewmen covered the 2,557-mile airways route at an average speed of 268 miles an hour.

The 184,000-pound transport was eased on to the runway so skillfully that some passengers were not aware it was down.

The flight was the first regular operational trip in a six months series of transcontinental runs to be made as part of the Navy's evaluation of the largest aircraft it ever has owned. The Constitution, largest in the Lockheed family of planes, will be used regularly as a passenger transport between Patuxent River, Md., Naval Air Station and Moffett Field, near San Francisco.

The passengers were accommodated entirely on the upper deck, capable of seating 92, in a cabin with grey walls, rose carpet and dark blue seats.

They had coffee and cookies for a takeoff snack, T-bone steak and all that goes with it for lunch, sandwiches and ice cream before landing.

The plane can accommodate 168 passengers if used entirely for personnel, but in its normal operation the two vast holds of the lower deck will be used for cargo. The Navy has two ships in the Constitution class.

The Constitution was readied immediately for a ferry flight to Patuxent where it will be given an inspection in preparation for the return flight to Moffett Field scheduled for 9 a. m. Sunday. The plane already has had more than 600 hours of test flying, including a trip to Washington and New York last summer.

Although the Constitution is the largest transport to go into scheduled service, it is drarfed by the Air Force XC-99, a 300,000-pound behemoth developed from the B-36 bomber. The XC-99 is now in the early stages of flight testing at the Consolidated Vultee plant at San Diego, Calif.

Today's flight set neither a speed nor air lift record, but is distinguished by the fact it carried the most passengers ever hauled on a regular transcontinental flight operation.

18 Million New Homes Needed, Foley Asserts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Raymond M. Foley, Federal Housing Administrator, told Congress today the nation needs between 17 and 18 million new dwellings within the next 10 years.

He said the government must provide outright grants as well as loans to cities to help them clear and redevelop slum areas.

Testifying before the Senate Banking Committee, Foley said:

"In city after city, the rates of infant mortality, disease, juvenile delinquency, crime and fires are at least twice as great in slum and blighted areas as in the city at large."

He mentioned Boston and Newark, N. J., as examples of the need for a nationwide slum clearance program.

Acting Chinese Leader's Peace Efforts Stalled

President Virtually Without Government

Nanking, Feb. 3 (AP) — Acting President Li Tsung-Jen was virtually without a government today.

His efforts to beg peace from the Chinese Communists were stalled and the Nanking offices of his government were almost all closed.

Only at the Foreign Office, where Vice Minister George Yeh was still keeping office hours, was there any semblance of activity.

Foreign correspondents who went to the Information Ministry for the usual weekly press conference found it locked. At the Defense Ministry, an attendant told inquirers for the military spokesman, "he's gone away."

Sun Going To Canton

An informed source said leaders of the government's control and legislative yuans had asked Premier Sun Fo to return to Nanking from Shanghai but Sun replied he was going to Canton and advised them to do likewise.

The government has announced it will be open for business in Canton Saturday (February 5). However, Chinese press reports quoted the new governor there, Hsueh Yueh, as saying he had received no instructions on such a move.

(Hsueh, in his first press conference in Canton, expressed impatience at the influx of government personnel. He said officials carried large amounts of gold yuan and were causing serious inflation.

(Hsueh added he had asked Nanking to limit the transfer of currency southward hereafter. He also declared there was too much authoritarianism and feudalism in China's political fabric, which he said badly needed rehabilitation.)

Garrison Taking Control

As the time approached for the announced opening in Canton, it appeared that the Nanking garrison was taking fuller control of this capital.

An informed source said the garrison commander had ordered the arrest of Wang I-Tung, unofficial Nanking representative of the anti-government Marshal Li Chi-Shen. Wang was accused of "illegal activities seeking a local peace settlement." Last week he openly urged a Nanking city delegation to go north to Communist territory to beg a local surrender.

Board Will Again Try To Settle Rail Dispute

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—A presidential emergency board will try a second time Monday to iron out a 10-month dispute between the nation's railroads and their 1,000,000 non-operating employes.

Negotiators for the carriers and 16 unions said Dr. William M. Leiserson, chairman of the fact-finding board, which made earlier recommendations for settlement, has promised that the three-man board will interpret and clarify the report it made to President Truman December 17.

Woman In 60th Year Gives Birth To Sixth Child

HELENA, Ark., Feb. 3 (AP)—A 59-ylear-old Helena woman has given birth to her sixth child. She described the event as "an answer to a prayer."

The mother is Mrs. Fred J. Turley, a nurse whose other five children all are dead. The father is a 65-year-old barber.

The baby, born Saturday night, is a five-pound, four-ounce boy who's doing fine.

Mrs. Turley, a native of Nevada, will be 60 in April.

Two of her daughters were killed in a bus accident in 1941. A son and two daughters died in service in World War Two.

Five Scientists On Missing Plane

INYOKERN, Calif., Feb. 3 (AP) — Five civilian scientists and two crewmen aboard a Navy plane are missing and feared to have crashed on a flight from the naval ordnance test station here to Alameda, Calif.

The scientists were all employed at the test station and resident of California, according to Commander W. G. Whitley, of the Inyokern station. Names of the scientists and crew members were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

A spokesman at 11th Naval District headquarters in San Diego said the plane carried only four hours fuel supply and it "must be down somewhere."

More than 60 planes, including Hamilton Field and March Air Force base rescue squadrons and 50 carrier-based craft from Alameda Naval Air Base, began a search of the mountainous territory near Inyokern. Four Coast Guard planes, including a B-17 from San Francisco, and other military and civilian planes entered the search for the Beechcraft plane.

The Navy said the plane took off on a contact flight plane and was to have reported in at Fresno for an instrument flight plan from there to Alameda. Nothing was heard from the plane after the takeoff. It was overcast at the time.

Two Die In Plunge Down Water Tunnel

RANDALLSTOWN, Md., Feb. 3 (AP) —Two men plunged 200 feet to their death today, state police reported, when a life in a water tunnel project collapsed.

The dead were identified as:

John H. Houck, 30, Randallstown, and William Newell, Jr., 36, Stevensville, Md.

Police said the men, both engineers, were coming up a shaft when the cable on the crane-operated elevator snapped. The men were spilled off the platform and fell 200 feet to the bottom.

Girl Bride Who Slashed Husband Doesn't Want To Be Child Again

MASON, Mich., Feb. 3 (AP)—A blue-eyed little girl, who doesn't want to be called a child again, couldn't understand today why she can't go back to her husband and live like a grown-up.

She is Etta Long, a 12-year-old bride and soon to be a mother.

"He is nice and tall," the demure girl said of her husband, Weldon, 23. "He has dark hair and a mustache."

But wouldn't a little girl still in bobby-socks rather go back to her grade-school playmates whom she deserted for marriage last October?

"Of course not," snapped Etta with a toss of her brown curls. "I'm grown up now."

Matron Doris Mudgett, of the juvenile home where Etta is held, said a doctor had examined the girl and found her pregnant about three months.

Etta wriggled the slim gold wedding band on her finger as she recalled the "big church wedding."

"Everybody from both our families was there," she said.

But a few days ago, she and her husband quarreled and he was cut with a knife.

"I thought he was going to hit me so I cut him," Etta said, fingering her fuzzy pink sweater.

She was taken into custody while ice-skating with her former sixth grade playmates. Then, Sheriff Allan MacDonald said, it was discovered that she was born September 30, 1936, in Williamson, W. Va.

She was married last October 23 to Long ,a six-foot unemployed sawmill worker. Her mother signed an affidavit that she was 16, the sheriff said, and may face perjury charges as a result.

Sheriff MacDonald said he had a notarized copy of a birth certificate which he said proved the girl was only 12.

The mother was reported to be "visiting relatives" and was not available for comment on the case.

Truman Rules Out Stalin Talk Outside Of U.N.

President Endorses Acheson's Rejection Of Premier's Offer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — President Truman said positively today that this government won't spurn the United Nations for separate talks with Russia or any other country.

Mr. Truman told a news conference that Secretary of State Dean Acheson's detailed rejection of Prime Minister Stalin's indirect "peace" talk offer had his full endorsement.

Cardinal Mindszenty Appealed To U.S. Envoy To Help Him Flee Hungary, Prosecution Claims

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 3 (AP) —The prosecution charged tonight that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, now on trial for treason, had attempted to get United States Minister Selden Chapin to help him escape prison and flee Hungary by plane.

The court recorded Cardinal Mindszenty as acknowledging the attempt after he made a reply which was barely audible. The court then adjourned until 10 a. m. (4 a. m. EST) tomorrow.

(Reached by telephone from Prague, Chapin said he had no knowledge of any letter written by the Cardinal asking his (Chapin's) aid in helping him escape from prison. "Not only did I never receive such a letter, I never knew it was written," Chapin said.)

Hungary's Roman Catholic primate pleaded partial guilt earlier to the government charges against him. He firmly denied, however, that he had plotted to overthrow Hungary's Communist-dominated regime.

All of the things charged against him, the Cardinal said, occurred early in 1947, "when many people thought that a third world war was inevitable."

Offers To Withdraw

Cardinal Mindszenty said that in the future he would have regard for the sovereignty of the Hungarian government. He also offered to withdraw from his office for a time if such a move would help establish peace between the government and the Catholic Church.

Pay Tax Rate "Freeze" Bill Sent To Lane

Governor Is Sure To Sign Measure And Prevent Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 3 (AP)—The General Assembly gave Maryland taxpayers the news they've been waiting to hear tonight—they owe the state only two per cent of last year's income.

The house made it final, concurring in some minor amendments attached to the tax "freeze" bill by the Senate.

As soon as Gov. Lane signs the measure, it will become law and prevent a rise of one-half per cent in the personal income rate.

Lane is sure to approve. He announced it would be a good idea to maintain the two per cent rate as soon as it became clear the treasury surplus, now more than $20,000,000, would be even larger by June 30.

The act repeals a 1947 law which boosted the tax on earned income with returns due this April 15.

Forms To Be Changed

Chief Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker said printers are prepared to make an immediate change in the forms they have been turning out. Thousands setting the rate at 2½ per cent have already been distributed, McCusker said, but the vast majority of taxpayers will receive correct blanks.

Effect of the "freeze" will be to cut about $3,215,000 from revenues expected this year, McCusker said. Lane drew up his 1950 budget with that in mind.

Before the measure came up in the House there were rumors some delegates unhappy about the extent of a tax cut would try to work it over again in a conference committee. Nothing happened, however, and nobody voted against it.

Sen. Storm (D-Frederick) refused to yield in his attempt to lower the tax bill on unearned income. He lost yesterday, when the Senate rejected an amendment to the tax bill, so he introduced a separate measure today.

It would require a two per cent return on the first $1,000 of unearned income and five per cent above that. The rate is now a flat five per cent.

School Issue Arises

The Senate also got into a discussion of how much money should be spent to build new schools.

Sen. Stromberg (D-Howard) declared this "is the biggest question facing the Legislature and the state." All county schools must adopt a 12-year system by next year, he said, and previous legislatures have failed to provide for the increased demand for classroom space.

Fiscal affairs took up most of a quiet day in the State House.

Former Sen. Joseph M. George, now a member of the State Roads Commission, told the Senate Finance Committee that $800,000,000 will be needed for roads in the next 15 to 20 years. Under the current highway program, $260,000,000 will be spent in the next five years.

Sen. Carter (D-Balto 3rd) asked the Legislature to urge Congress to cut down federal spending.

If the proposed $42,000,000,000 budget goes through, he said in a resolution, "Maryland's share of this tax burden will be more than five times the next tax receipts of the state in 1948."

12-Year-Old Bride Held

Etta Long (above), 12-year-old bride and soon to be a mother, is being held in the juvenile home at Mason, Mich., while officers investigate the stabbing of her husband, a 22-year-old unemployed sawmill worker. Etta told Sheriff Allan MacDonald she cut her husband with a knife during a quarrel. She was taken into custody while ice-skating with her former sixth grade playmates. (Story at bottom of page.)

President Says He Has Powers To Halt Strikes

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Truman said today he has ample powers to halt national emergency strikes — and Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) replied that "the very suggestion is a threat to the liberty of the American people."

At issue in the hot argument was whether new labor legislation, now being considered on Capitol Hill, should contain a provision enabling the President to seek injunctions to prevent strikes imperilling the public welfare.

Labor union leaders are fighting against such a provision, which was contained in the Taft-Hartley Act the administration is seeking to repeal. Taft and other Republicans say it should be in the new legislation.

Mr. Truman told a news conference it is unnecessary to put it in the bill because he has plenty of power as Commander-in-Chief and President.

Taft spoke out at a night session of the Senate Labor Committee, which is studying the administration bill to replace the Taft-Hartley Act with an "improved" Wagner Act.

He said that in time of peace, the President has no power, without a specific statute, to seek a strike-halting injunction or to seize strike-bound plants.

Truman Stands By Clark

"The very suggestion that any such power exists is a threat to the American people," Taft said.

"There is no authority anywhere to create a prima facie case of such powers on the part of the President."

The President stood by his Attorney General, Tom Clark, who had said in a letter to the Senate committee that the President's "inherent powers" would take care of the situation.

Clark's letter had stirred a hot controversy. Taft, an author of the Taft-Hartley bill which the administration measure would repeal, denounced the letter as an attempt to face two ways.

He said the administration was trying "to please the people" by saying there is power to halt strikes, and "please the labor unions" by leaving such power out of the labor bill.

The Taft-Hartley law authorizes the government to seek 80-day court orders to block critical strikes. The administration bill would substitute a 30-day cooling off procedure. The President would call on the disputing parties to stay on the job while emergency boards tried to work out a settlement.

Taft, in a talk to a luncheon meeting of GOP women, said the authority should be in the law. He predicted that before Congress gets through with the bill.

"It will contain most of the provisions" of the Taft-Hartley law.

"At least that's my hope," he added.

Morse Changes His Mind

The administration measure, besides repealing the Taft-Hartley law, would revive the New Deal Wagner Act with "improvements."

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) said at a stormy meeting of the Senate Labor Committee that the administration bill "hasn't a ghost of a chance" in

Italian Inventor Claims Apparatus "Annuls" A-Bomb

VENICE, Italy, Feb. 3 (AP)—Edoardo Vecchiato, a 50-year-old inventor of Vicenza, Italy, claimed today he has developed a secret defense mechanism against the atomic bomb.

He told reporters details of the mechanism were delivered to Italian government last January 8 and later handed over to "a western power."

Vecchiato was quoted as saying the apparatus could be installed aboard an airship to arrest automatically the vertical movement of an atomic bomb and "annul its effects." He gave no other details.

Navy To Stress Defense Against Undersea Attack

Reshuffling Will Cut Expenditures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Navy today put new stress on "anti-submarine readiness" as it ordered 72 ships mothballed to make way for other vessels better adapted for defense against undersea attack.

Secretary of the Navy Sullivan disclosed the slimming down operation has the added objective of trimming fleet expenditures to come within the $15,000,000,000 budget ceiling President Truman set for the armed forces. The Navy was allotted $4,600,000,000 for the next fiscal year starting July 1 as compared with nearly $5,100,000,000 for the current period.

Sullivan said 15 major ships — three 27,000-ton aircraft carriers, nine light cruisers and three anti-aircraft cruisers — had been ordered to the reserve fleet. The other 57 are smaller auxiliary craft such as minesweepers and amphibious and patrol vessels.

He said these reductions, however, will be offset by additions of 30 fighting ships to the operating fleet. These include 24 destroyer types, one light carrier, one 27,000 ton carrier, one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser and two submarines.

Sullivan said these swapovers will bring the operating fleet down from 755 to 731 warships and supporting vessels.

The exchange, however, indicates no loss of fihting power but rather a shift of emphasis on faster, lighter, vessels in line with the "anti-submarine readiness" program Sullivan said the Navy plans to stress in the coming year. For example, he reported the Navy will operate 170 destroyer types in comparison to the 146 now on fleet duty.

The Navy Secretary also said the budget retrenchment made it necessary to reduce Navy personnel by 30,000 and to cut back air strength by about 400 planes. In addition he said nine air stations, mostly in the Pacific, would be shut down, with three others put on a stand-by basis.

By making these reductions now, he said the Navy will be able to operate at the full strength authorized in the new budget.

For the next fiscal year Mr. Truman set these ceilings: 288 combat vessels as compared with 290 now; 7,450 planes, as compared with 8,580 now, and a manpower total of 527,000 for the Navy and Marines. At present the Navy has 420,000 men and the Marines 84,000.

Norway To Make Its Own Decision

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 3 (AP) — Foreign Minister Halvard Lange, discussing the possibility Norway will be invited to join a North Atlantic alliance, said today Norway alone will decide her answer.

Lange denounced Norwegian Communists. He charged they have given Moscow erroneous information about Norway's politics.

Without referring to a recent Russian note asking clarification of Norway's attitude, Lange told Parliament:

"When we take our stand, it cannot be decided for us by what other nations want us to do or not to do. The deciding element must be our own estimation of what secures Norway's interests and best contributes to prevent war."

Lange said the breakdown last weekend of talks on a Scandinavian defense pact means that Norway, Sweden and Denmark will have to solve security problems in the way each believes best serves her own purposes. Sweden sought an alliance based on neutrality. Norway favored affiliation to a wider security system, within the framework of the United Nations.

166 DPs In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3 (AP)—The number of displaced persons on Maryland farms was brought to 166 today with the arrival of 38 more refugees from the Ukraine.

18 Million New Homes Needed, Foley Asserts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Raymond M. Foley, Federal Housing Administrator, told Congress today the nation needs between 17 and 18 million new dwellings within the next 10 years.

He said the government must provide outright grants as well as loans to cities to help them clear and redevelop slum areas.

Testifying before the Senate Banking Committee, Foley said:

"In city after city, the rates of infant mortality, disease, juvenile delinquency, crime and fires are at least twice as great in slum and blighted areas as in the city at large."

He mentioned Boston and Newark, N. J., as examples of the need for a nationwide slum clearance program.

Acting Chinese Leader's Peace Efforts Stalled

President Virtually Without Government

Nanking, Feb. 3 (AP) — Acting President Li Tsung-Jen was virtually without a government today.

His efforts to beg peace from the Chinese Communists were stalled and the Nanking offices of his government were almost all closed.

Only at the Foreign Office, where Vice Minister George Yeh was still keeping office hours, was there any semblance of activity.

Sun Going To Canton

An informed source said leaders of the government's control and legislative yuans had asked Premier Sun Fo to return to Nanking from Shanghai but Sun replied he was going to Canton and advised them to do likewise.

The government has announced it will be open for business in Canton Saturday (February 5). However, Chinese press reports quoted the new governor there, Hsueh Yueh, as saying he had received no instructions on such a move.

(Hsueh, in his first press conference in Canton, expressed impatience at the influx of government personnel. He said officials carried large amounts of gold yuan and were causing serious inflation.

(Hsueh added he had asked Nanking to limit the transfer of currency southward hereafter. He also declared there was too much authoritarianism and feudalism in China's political fabric, which he said badly needed rehabilitation.)

Garrison Taking Control

As the time approached for the announced opening in Canton, it appeared that the Nanking garrison was taking fuller control of this capital.

An informed source said the garrison commander had ordered the arrest of Wang I-Tung, unofficial Nanking representative of the anti-government Marshal Li Chi-Shen. Wang was accused of "illegal activities seeking a local peace settlement." Last week he openly urged a Nanking city delegation to go north to Communist territory to beg a local surrender.

Woman In 60th Year Gives Birth To Sixth Child

HELENA, Ark., Feb. 3 (AP)—A 59-year-old Helena woman has given birth to her sixth child. She described the event as "an answer to a prayer."

The mother is Mrs. Fred J. Turley, a nurse whose other five children all are dead. The father is a 65-year-old barber.

The baby, born Saturday night, is a five-pound, four-ounce boy who's doing fine.

Mrs. Turley, a native of Nevada, will be 60 in April.

Two of her daughters were killed in a bus accident in 1941. A son and two daughters died in service in World War Two.

Five Scientists On Missing Plane

INYOKERN, Calif., Feb. 3 (AP) — Five civilian scientists and two crewmen aboard a Navy plane are missing and feared to have crashed on a flight from the naval ordnance test station here to Alameda, Calif.

The scientists were all employed at the test station and resident of California, according to Commander W. G. Whitley, of the Inyokern station. Names of the scientists and crew members were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

A spokesman at 11th Naval District headquarters in San Diego said the plane carried only four hours fuel supply and it "must be down somewhere."

More than 60 planes, including Hamilton Field and March Air Force base rescue squadrons and 50 carrier-based craft from Alameda Naval Air Base, began a search of the mountainous territory near Inyokern. Four Coast Guard planes, including a B-17 from San Francisco, and other military and civilian planes entered the search for the Beechcraft plane.

The Navy said the plane took off on a contact flight plane and was to have reported in at Fresno for an instrument flight plan from there to Alameda. Nothing was heard from the plane after the takeoff. It was overcast at the time.

Snow Squalls Halt Haylift In Nevada

[By The Associated Press]

Winter slapped down the Nevada haylift Thursday but pulled its punches in the Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming snow disaster area where steady relief progress was made.

Other sections of the nation had much less trying conditions. Rain and snow fell in the Midwest and the Pacific coastal area. It was unseasonably chilly in the East. And the South recovered somewhat from recent unprecedented cold.

In Congress, a second $500,000,000 appropriation was passed to pay for the Herculean task of reviving snow-choked expanses of the West.

Truman Appoints Mon Wallgren To Head Vital Resources Board

M. C. WALLGREN

The post has been temporarily filled by Assistant to the President John Steelman.

The vital resources board was set up to chart the path of United States preparedness for another war. It was empowered to blueprint the nation's needs and resources, both as to manpower and material goods, to meet any new emergency.

After working on the problem for many months, the board asked for power from President Truman to enforce its decisions on all other branches and agencies of the government.

President Truman rejected the request and restrained the board to its original purpose of surveying and making recommendations on the nation's resources.

In making the appointment today, the President said he felt that Wallgren was particularly well fitted for the $14,000-a-year job.

Wallgren, a member of the House of Representatives from 1933 to 1941, served in the First World War, rising from a private to first lieutenant.

In November, 1940, he was appointed to the Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Lewis B. Schwellenbach, who resigned to become Secretary of Labor. Wallgren was elected to a full Senate term from 1941 to 1947.

However, Wallgren resigned his Senate seat to become Governor of the State of Washington in January, 1945.

Israel-Arab Talks Planned By Bunche

RHODES, Feb. 3 (AP)—A United Nationsl spokesman said today Mediator Ralph J. Bunche hopes to start armistice talks by next Wednesday between Israel and all Arab nations opposing her, despite the snag in Israeli-Egyptian negotiation over boundaries.

(Haifa sources said Israel has declined to grant further concessions in the Rhodes bargaining and threatened to withdraw Friday unless Egypt yields. This was not confirmed in dispatches from Rhodes.)

The Israeli-Egyptian talks are now in their fourth week. Egypt has demanded withdrawal of Jewish troops from territory assigned to Arabs under the United Nations partition plan; Israel insists on holding strategic points gained in her October and December offensives.

Giant Navy Plane, Carrying 90 Persons, Spans Nation In Nine Hours, 35 Minutes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Navy's giant Constitution landed at National Airport at 9:30 p. m. (EST) tonight, nine hours and 35 minutes out of San Francisco, nonstop, with the largest passenger load ever to span America by air.

The 72 passengers and 18 crewmen covered the 2,557-mile airways route at an average speed of 268 miles an hour.

The 184,000-pound transport was eased on to the runway so skillfully that some passengers were not aware it was down.

The flight was the first regular operational trip in a six months series of transcontinental runs to be made as part of the Navy's evaluation of the largest aircraft it ever has owned. The Constitution, largest in the Lockheed family of planes, will be used regularly as a passenger transport between Patuxent River, Md., Naval Air Station and Moffett Field, near San Francisco.

The passengers were accommodated entirely on the upper deck, capable of seating 92, in a cabin with grey walls, rose carpet and dark blue seats.

They had coffee and cookies for a takeoff snack, T-bone steak and all that goes with it for lunch, sandwiches and ice cream before landing.

The plane can accommodate 168 passengers if used entirely for personnel, but in its normal operation the two vast holds of the lower deck will be used for cargo. The Navy has two ships in the Constitution class.

The Constitution was readied immediately for a ferry flight to Patuxent where it will be given an inspection in preparation for the return flight to Moffett Field scheduled for 9 a. m. Sunday. The plane already has had more than 600 hours of test flying, including a trip to Washington and New York last summer.

Although the Constitution is the largest transport to go into scheduled service, it is drarfed by the Air Force XC-99, a 300,000-pound behemoth developed from the B-36 bomber. The XC-99 is now in the early stages of flight testing at the Consolidated Vultee plant at San Diego, Calif.

Today's flight set neither a speed nor air lift record, but is distinguished by the fact it carried the most passengers ever hauled on a regular transcontinental flight operation.

Board Will Again Try To Settle Rail Dispute

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—A presidential emergency board will try a second time Monday to iron out a 10-month dispute between the nation's railroads and their 1,000,000 non-operating employes.

Negotiators for the carriers and 16 unions said Dr. William M. Leiserson, chairman of the fact-finding board, which made earlier recommendations for settlement, has promised that the three-man board will interpret and clarify the report it made to President Truman December 17.

Other members of the panel are David L. Cole, Paterson, N. J., and George A. Cook, Sarasota, Fla.

Girl Bride Who Slashed Husband Doesn't Want To Be Child Again

MASON, Mich., Feb. 3 (AP)—A blue-eyed little girl, who doesn't want to be called a child again, couldn't understand today why she can't go back to her husband and live like a grown-up.

She is Etta Long, a 12-year-old bride and soon to be a mother.

"He is nice and tall," the demure girl said of her husband, Weldon, 23. "He has dark hair and a mustache."

But wouldn't a little girl still in bobby-socks rather go back to her grade-school playmates whom she deserted for marriage last October?

"Of course not," snapped Etta with a toss of her brown curls. "I'm grown up now."

Matron Doris Mudgett, of the juvenile home where Etta is held, said a doctor had examined the girl and found her pregnant about three months.

Etta wriggled the slim gold wedding band on her finger as she recalled the "big church wedding."

"Everybody from both our families was there," she said.

But a few days ago, she and her husband quarreled and he was cut with a knife.

"I thought he was going to hit me so I cut him," Etta said, fingering her fuzzy pink sweater.

She was taken into custody while ice-skating with her former sixth grade playmates. Then, Sheriff Allan MacDonald said, it was discovered that she was born September 30, 1936, in Williamson, W. Va.

She was married last October 23 to Long a six-foot unemployed sawmill worker. Her mother signed an affidavit that she was 16, the sheriff said, and may face perjury charges as a result.

Sheriff MacDonald said he had a notarized copy of a birth certificate which he said proved the girl was only 12.

The mother was reported to be "visiting relatives" and was not available for comment on the case.

Two Die In Plunge Down Water Tunnel

RANDALLSTOWN, Md., Feb. 3 (AP) —Two men plunged 200 feet to their death today, state police reported, when a life in a water tunnel project collapsed.

The dead were identified as:

John H. Houck, 30, Randallstown, and William Newell, Jr., 36, Stevensville, Md.

Police said the men, both engineers, were coming up a shaft when the cable on the crane-operated elevator snapped. The men were spilled off the platform and fell 200 feet to the bottom.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can "just talking" really help you?

Answer: Very much, but under two conditions: that your talk is not mere theorizing, but a true expression of your feelings, and that you talk to a person who can help you understand the feelings you "get off your chest" instead of getting you worse mixed up. The latter may happen if you talk to someone you love or someone who loves you, especially if he offers you advice, because in this case your real feeling may conflict with your desire to please him. "Letting go" to a psychiatrist is the way to ease nervous tension.

Can you tell when you have "an original idea"?

Answer: Never surely. For your ideas rise from your unconscious mind and represent at most a rearrangement or fresh combination of past memories and experiences, so you never can be certain whether any one of them is not the simple recollection of something you have heard or read. Again, two or several people may have the same "original idea" at the same time because their minds got the same or similar impressions and "put two and two together" in the same way. When you realize this, you'll go slow in saying someone else has "stolen your ideas."

Does self-knowledge help cure a delinquent?

Answer: Yes, say three investigators from Chicago in the Journal of Consulting Psychology. The records and later progress of 151 juvenile offenders were examined on the basis of eight factors: heredity, physical condition, intelligence, family environment, cultural background, social and educational experience, and "self-insight" and while all proved to have some importance, "self-insight" ranked first as a cause of improvement. Psychotherapy, which helps him see himself as he is, is thus what the young offender needs most.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Consulting Psychologist

Can "just talking" really help you?

Answer: Very much, but under two conditions: that your talk is not mere theorizing, but a true expression of your feelings, and that you talk to a person who can help you understand the feelings you "get off your chest" instead of getting you worse mixed up. The latter may happen if you talk to someone you love or someone who loves you, especially if he offers you advice, because in this case your real feeling may conflict with your desire to please him. "Letting go" to a psychiatrist is the way to ease nervous tension.

Can you tell when you have "an original idea"?

Answer: Never surely. For your ideas rise from your unconscious mind and represent at most a rearrangement or fresh combination of past memories and experiences, so you never can be certain whether any one of them is not the simple recollection of something you have heard or read. Again, two or several people may have the same "original idea" at the same time because their minds got the same or similar impressions and "put two and two together" in the same way. When you realize this, you'll go slow in saying someone else has "stolen your ideas."

Does self-knowledge help cure a delinquent?

Answer: Yes, say three investigators from Chicago in the Journal of Consulting Psychology. The records and later progress of 151 juvenile offenders were examined on the basis of eight factors: heredity, physical condition, intelligence, family environment, cultural background, social and educational experience, and "self-insight" and while all proved to have some importance, "self-insight" ranked first as a cause of improvement. Psychotherapy, which helps him see himself as he is, is thus what the young offender needs most.

Congressmen To Push Savage River Funds

Two area Congressmen have combined forces to push a move to obtain funds this year for the Savage River Dam project.

Rep. Staggers (D-WVa) told a reporter that he and Rep. Beall (R-Md) are conferring with Army engineers and members of Congress in an effort to have $1,700,000 appropriated for the dam during the year beginning July 1.

The two plan to appear before the House appropriations committee when hearings start.

The dam, started before the war as a WPA project, is about 60 per cent completed. It is located in Garrett county near Bloomington.

Staggers said the dam is important for industrial purposes and pollution abatement as well as flood control.

Army engineers opened bids Tuesday on another phase of the project—excavating and building embankments. Low bidder was announced as Hunkin-Conkey Co. and Shofner, Gordon and Hinman, Blairsville, Pa., at $862,727.50.

A new geyser burst forth in the middle of a parking lot in Yellowstone National Park in 1946.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

We just played two Bowls in a row.

Yesterday it was the Gater Bowl in Jacksonville and today the Orange Bowl here in Miami. I may stop using a microphone altogether and just work with a ladle.

We tried to get into Miami last night instead of today, but just as we were ready to take off, the airfield was blanketed by a ceiling-zero fog.

(Note: Los Angeles papers, be sure to play this up.)

Since we couldn't take off last night, we all slept doubled-up on the plane and I had a strange experience. I woke up in the middle of the night with the strange sensation that somebody's toes were in my mouth. Then I found out they were mine.

With about two hours of sleep we landed in Miami and were greeted at the airport by Dizzy Dean with his golf clubs and an invitation to play at the Riveria Country Club. I did my best, but I could play only nine holes. That's all I had in my head.

Driving out to the course I got a chance to see some of these fabulous Miami homes and they're really terrific. You know, they say, you can't take it with you. Well, you don't have to. It's here already.

We're staying at Neil Lang's Roney Plaza and is that place lush! I sat down to dinner and the green salad consisted of 20 dollar bills with French dressing.

The show was wonderfully received with 15,000 people in the audience, but the microphone had an echo and I kept hearing all my jokes come back to me. At first I thought I was getting spirit messages from Joe Miller.

Tax Structure Already Too High For Everybody

Talk of an excess profits tax has all but died out in Washington. And after scanning higher corporation taxes some Administration men are getting cold feet. The reason is that the signs of a leveling off process are growing.

The Truman Administration can hardly see its way clear to hiking taxes when purchasing power may need a shot in the arm. The President vetoed the Republican tax slash (like the Taft-Hartley bill, it was passed over his veto) last year on the argument that it increased purchasing power at a time when the fight was on inflation.

Now there is a growing feeling in Washington that the fight is going to be on deflation. If that is true, then Mr. Truman should now favor lowering taxes.

Higher taxes will decrease purchasing power and employment. Fortune Magazine issues the warning that if corporation taxes are increased, corporations will quit investing for expansion and unemployment will go up sharply.

Looking over the field, the Washingto nexperts would like to increase excise taxes on jewelry, furs, luggage, communications and other items. The trouble with that is that demand for these items has slackened because of high prices reflecting burdensome taxes. More taxes on them would be fatal.

It has been figured out by one authority, with some assistance from Washington, what proportion of every dollar you spend is for taxes. Of course the result is not quite right, because the particulars (in part) are found in a compilation running "about 9,000 pages, 250,000 words, over 5,000 sections." Nor is that all. Add federal administrative regulations, 500,000 more words. Add decisions of the United States Tax Court, "more than 50 volumes, averaging over 1,000 pages."

This authority sums it up: 115,116 tax authorities, 500 different kinds of taxes, yearly total $55,200,000,000, most of which the consumer absorbs when he buys things.

To get away from those astronomical figures, let's take your shoes. On the leather in them in the eight categories between rancher and retailer, 502 different taxes—federal, state and local—are exacted. There is more. All along the line other taxes are taken on 280 basic materials entering into the manufacturing of the shoes. A casual glance around discovers many other taxes, 205 on a new car, 201 on a gallon of gasoline, 154 on a cake of soap, 127 on a roast of beef, 125 on a cotton dress, 53 on bread.

Hidden taxes, most of them, and tough to digest, yet one point is easy to get: You pay no direct taxes, let us say, and therefore can view with unconcern—perhaps with satisfaction—every unwarranted wage demand, every socalled "liberal" tax increase. But what happens in each case is that hundreds of hidden taxes tsart after you are on your way to market, and make off with 31 cents out of every dollar you would spend before you get there.

But it is too much to expect the Washington boys to give up and concede that the tax structure in America is already higher than the consumer can bear. They thrive on government expansion. The health of the country now calls for less government spending and lower taxes, but there are few signs that espousal of such a course would be productive of votes.

The late Tojo received several votes in the recent Japanese election. Lack of communication with his present abode will prevent him from hearing the news.

Installation Of Video On Dashboard Of Autos

Some call it television, some call it video, and some call it worse names than that. Barroom customers in the big cities seem to like it fine, but one taproom in New York City has been doing a thriving business since putting a sign outside reading: "Positively No Television," and cynics have been heard to sneer that driving the customer to drink is unfair competition.

Sports managers are uneasy. Television owners can see more of a fight or a football game at home than they could from choice seats in a stadium, and worry less about the weather, too. If prices of sets are reduced and they are installed in most homes, many professional sports may be forced out of business. Or so say the pessimists.

Horace P. Whitworth, chairman of the Allegany delegation to the Maryland General Assembly, is looking even further ahead. He has a bill pending before the Legislature to ban television sets in automobiles. What chance will a pedestrian or a careful driver have, it is claimed, if Betty Grable's legs are flashed on the other car's screen?

It must be admitted that that is some reasoning. Auto radios have their attractions, especially for youthful parkers, but they drain the battery and distract the driver. Dashboard video would be worse. If television manufacturers have any regard for the public safety, they'll keep their sets out of cars or invent a gadget to keep them from being turned on when the motor is running.

Book publishers are worrying about television, too. They cite the case of the book-of-the-month subscriber who didn't renew his subscription after buying a television set. They fear that the homely scene of Daddy reading to the kiddies while Mummy washes the dishes (or vice versa) will vanish from American life. The vanishing art of conversation, they warn, may also go the way of the passenger pigeon.

Some of these dire forebodings may prove to be greatly exaggerated. It is to be fervently hoped they all will be. For there are times when, looking toward the brave new world of the future, the average citizen doesn't feel brave at all.

There is some little danger that Harry will take that joke election a little too seriously.

The Ohio River has again started emphasizing the two middle letters of its name.

Moscow says America's failure in China is another example of American futility. Sounds almost like a compliment coming from the reds.

Wistfully we ponder the Happy Hyperboreans who (if the ancients had it right) lived beyond the north wind in a land of perpetual summer.

Mortality Rate Of The Sexes

WHITE females, according to a recent, Metropolitan life insurance company bulletin, now have a life expectancy of 70.28. This is the first time that the biblical span of three score and ten has been attained in the intervening centuries. The figure for white males is 65.12. Does this mean that actually men are the weaker sex? Some of the statistics published in another publication of this organization would seem to bear this out. The total death rate for the period 1941-1945, exclusive of deaths due to enemy action, is given at 699.3 per 100,000 for white males and 455.9 for white females. In practically every disease listed in this survey, the percentage of male deaths is higher. My guess is that the answer lies in the fact that men work too hard.

The number of males who succumbed during this four year interval to the group of heart, blood vessel, and kidney disorders referred to as "cardiovascularrenal" was 300.6 as compared with 196.1 per 100,000 females. The cancer toll was 87.7 for males and 81.8 for females while tuberculosis figures were 42.7 to 21.3. Pneumonia accounted for 29.5 males to 15.5 females; suicide, 10.4 to 4.0; syphilis, 7.5 to 2.2; stomach ulcer, 6.4 to 0.9; and appendicitis 6.7 and 4.2. Even in poliomyelitis, which has such a low mortality, the rate was 1.1 males to 0.6 females. But the men have the edge in diabetes and gallstones since twice as many women as men die from these maladies.

The incidence of certain diseases is often sex-linked. For example, pyloric stenosis, a condition in which an enlarged valve at the exit of the stomach prevents food from reaching the intestine, is more than four times as common in boy babies. More men are afflicted with Parkinson's disease, infectious mononucleosis (glandular fever), skin cancer, cirrhosis of the liver and kidney stones. Hemophilia ((uncontrollable bleeding), which is transmitted to the offspring through the mother, is almost entirely a male disorder; and 95 per cent of all cases of gout are found in men. Pneumonia is equal in both sexes living under comparable conditions but males—due to occupation, exposure, or manner of living—are more inclined to develop the ailment. In coronary occlusion, the incidence is 81 per cent in males to 19 in females; retinal detachment attacks 63 per cent of men to 37 per cent of females, possibly because men are more subject to injuries. Hookworm, infectious jaundice, also are partial to men as well as the fungous invasions — actinomycosis, blastomycosis, and coccidioidomycosis.

But as Gray, the poet, said: "To each his sufferings"; diseases that favor women include thyroid abnormalities—goiter and overactivity or sluggishness of the gland. Chorea is two and one-half times as common in girls as boys. Rheumatoid arthritis affects three times as many women as men and Heberden's nodes usually select feminine fingers. Obesity, including the special type called "adiposa dolorosa," prefers women as do movable kidney, Raynaud's disease, congenital dislocations of the hip, otosclerosis (a disturbance of the ear bone, creating deafness and a peculiar ailment, disseminated lupus erythematosus, involving the skin, blood vessels, and lymphatic channels.

More women harbor gallstones, possibly due to overweight, sedentary habits, or dietary indiscretions; as well as plantar warts on the soles of the feet, perhaps because of wearing high heels. Chlorosis, the green-sickness of a few generations ago, was an exclusively feminine illness; in those days women stayed indoors to preserve their lily-white complexions and were tightly bound in order to exhibit the wasp-waistline figure then in vogue.

NOSE SHAPE

Mrs. E. writes: Is there any chance of making the nose of a month old baby grow into a pointed shape? My infant's nose is flat, and if it can be changed, I would like to know how.

Reply

The die is cast. The structure will grow longer in time provided he has inherited a nose of this shape. Most infants have pudgy noses and it is difficult to say what they will look like until full growth is attained.

NO DANGER

M. G. writes: Is it true that after a person has a chest X-ray taken, he becomes sterile?

Reply

No, a thousand times no. Sterility can be produced, however, through the use of large doses of X-ray over the glandular areas.

THE SAME

Mrs. M. writes: I was told at the clinic that I have a cardiac condition. Does this mean heart disease?

Reply

Yes. "Cardia" is taken from a Greek word meaning 'the heart."

SMOKERS' PATCHES

L. D. writes: Why does leucoplakia return after it has disappeared entirely?

Reply

Recurrences may be expected if the causative factor has not been eliminated. These white plaques on the tongue or membranes of the mouth are usually due to irritation from the habitual ingestion of hot foods or drink, smoking, or friction from teeth or dentures. A physician should be consulted as the lesions may become cancerous.

Treat The Cause

E.H. writes: I have an enlarged liver. Is there something I can take to ease the discomfort associated with this condition?

REPLY

This depends upon the underlying cause because a number of disturbances may be responsible for overgrowth of this organ.

Negotiations On Austrian Peace Treaty Will Be Barometer Of Cold War, In Opinion Of State Department; Chinese Communists Treat Foreigners Well

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—February 7 has been marked on the State Department calendar with a red circle. This is the date the diplomats are going to watch to see whether the Russians really want to get along with the USA.

On that date the United States, France and Britain began negotiations with Russia for an Austrian peace treaty, and the State Department has decided to let these negotiations serve as a barometer of the cold war.

So far the Russians have been talking peace but acting tough. While Togliatti in Italy and Communist leaders in France have been announcing that Russia can get along with the west, and while Stalin has said he would be willing to meet Truman, actually there has been not the slightest change in Russian policy.

But when the big powers sit down to negotiate an Austrian peace treaty, the State Department thinks Russia will have a chance to show whether she really means what she says. If Russian delegates are reasonable regarding Austria, Secretary of State Acheson is preparing to propose a meeting in New York of the Big Four Foreign Ministers—Russia, Britain, France, and the USA—about April 5, when the United Nations holds a special assembly session.

Note—Other U. S. observers don't agree with the State Department that Austria is a good barometer of the cold war. They point out that, since Yugoslavia broke away from the iron curtain, Russia has no reason to be tough in Austria. It was Tito's influence that previously toughened up Russian policy against Austria.

Along Pennsylvania Avenue

President Truman is happy as a schoolboy over the world-wide reception given to his plan to build up backward areas. After White House aides showed him stacks of newspaper clippings, the President remarked: "This idea is so good I should have thought of it a couple of years ago.". . . Secretary of State Dean Acheson has agreed to name a woman as Ambassador to one of the top European countries. . . . The story on what happened to the Gallup Polls, the predicters and the newspapers during the late election has just been published by Morris Ernst—"The People Know Best." Healthy reading for newspapermen. . . . After the real estate lobby demanded an investigation of New York City's Rent Advisory Board, Chairman Joseph McGoldrick wired the Senate Banking and Currency Committee welcoming such a probe. But he added that the investigation should also include the real estate lobby.

Chinese Communist Visits U. S. Consulate

The State Department has just received an awkward cable from American Consul General Angus Ward in Mukden, China.

Consul Ward cabled that American citizens, American property and American diplomats in Communist-held northern China are receiving remarkably good treatment at the hands of Chinese Communists. In fact, Ward cabled that one of the leading Communist generals of the North had visited the Consulate that day to pay his respects.

The Chinese General was most polite, spent an hour assuring Ward of the Communist desires for friendship with the USA, and their hope of peaceful cooperation and trade. Following this, Ward took the Communist General on a tour of the American Consulate.

His visitor seemed much impressed, particularly by an exhibit of the U. S. Information Service which featured news dispatches and propaganda, translated into Chinese, telling America's story to the Chinese people.

"Now, Mr. Consul," The Chinese Communist General said, "I am delighted that you Americans believe in the freedom of the press. I think this is a very fine exhibit. We believe in freedom of the press, too."

Consul Ward smiled happily. Then he stopped smiling.

"Since we all believe in the freedom of the press," continued the Chinese Communist general, "I have a few documents and articles that I'd like to put up with your exhibits so that the people can see both sides of the story. That would only be freedom of the press. I know you will be glad to do it."

Consul Ward had no answer. He engaged in some polite double-talk, then hastily wired the State Department for instructions.

Capital Chaff

The Republicans who wangled the Lincoln Day dinner invitation for Governor Dewey were Michigan's Congressman George Dondero, Chairman of the Lincoln Day committee, and his close friend, GOP National Chairman Hugh Scott. Other Republicans are irked because Dewey was invited. . . . Not a word has been said about it, but 200 American fighter planes have been sent to Italy from Germany; also nearly 1,000 tons of U. S. ammunition have gone to the Italian Army. General Clay decided on the shipments after one of his aides conferred with the Italian Chief of Staff in Rome. . . . The USA has started secret negotiations with Panama to secure new American bases. Panama canceled its bases agreement last year, at which time U. S. troops promptly pulled out. Now Panamanians are offering new bases in return for a loan. Army-Navy, in turn, want to set up radar equipment in Panama—outside the Canal Zone—to warn against enemy airplanes.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(INS)—Four New York communities—Schenectady, Ithaca, Glens Falls and Jamestown—are making a fine contribution to international understanding.

With the blessing and aid of New York's state education department, those towns sent some of their young men and women to Europe this past summer. They went not as government representatives, nor representatives of an agency or college or anything else. They went as plain people in search of other plain people.

Since their return they have explained the people of Europe to thousands of the members of their communities, just as they explained their people to the Europeans last summer. They brought back the hopes, problems and customs of a Europe fighting desperately to survive and, through our aid, succeeding.

"The importance of helping people or different countries to understand each other better is too obvious to require comment," Gov. Dewey wrote to the first batch of such ambassadors as they were about to leave. "Never in the history of the world has it been quite so important as it is today. The state education department is to be congratulated upon instituting this program."

In the hope that it will spread to other U. S. cities, the department has outlined how its project works:

1.—The local Community Service Council of Young Adults, a group operating under the auspices of the municipal school system and the state bureau of adult education, approaches the community at large with a proposal that it send one or more young people abroad as ambassadors of the town.

The Council of Young Adults promotes the project and raises funds to finance the trip of the ambassador or ambassadors selected. The New York ambassadors got along nicely on $750 for the whole trip.

Results: The people of the community become increasingly aware of their stake in peace and international understanding and their need to know more about other peoples. The Council of Young Adults learns more about its community, gains experience in promoting an educational activity, in carrying on a publicity campaign, in raising funds. The young adults gain status as a group in the community, and learn to cooperate with other groups.

2.—A committee of the townspeople selects one or more young adults as ambassadors, depending on amount of money raised.

Results: Attention is focused on the young adult age group and its role in community life.

3.—The young adults selected to go abroad are briefed on the historical, cultural, social, economic and political backgrounds of their home towns.

Results: Young adult community leaders gain an insight into the nature and workings of their community; they depart better-equipped to educate people overseas on what American democracy is at the "grass-roots" level.

4.—The community ambassadors travel overseas, take up residence with a European family, and live for six weeks in a typical European community executing their mission of international education. They report their experiences to the American community via newspaper articles and letters.

Results: People overseas learn directly from an American community representative what the U.S. is really like.

5.—The ambassadors return, report their experiences to civic groups, service clubs, religious organizations and, through press and radio, to the townspeople.

Results: The community and state receive the benefits of an education in international understanding, not through books or through information from a distant agency, but on a personal level from people they know and have seen grow up in their home-town.

The ambassadors gain status in the community, as well as experience in journalism, radio, public speaking, group work. Increasing numbers of people become aware of the need for greater familiarity among peoples, and of the potentialities of this kind of international education.

If your town is interested, contact Lawrence L. Harvie, associate commissioner, New York State University, State Education Department, Albany, N. Y. It is, indeed, an imaginative and heartening program.

"Fair Deal" Forgotten In Mediation Board Proposal

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Mediation—which, when successful, means that the parties are brought together into voluntary agreement—depends for its effectiveness on absolute trust in the fairness and impartiality of the mediators, especially in labor-management disputes.

That's why President Truman's conspicuous abandonment of the most vital principal in any so-called "fair deal" program has caused astonishment. For he has authorized his Secretary of Labor to request Congress to turn over the Mediation and Conciliation Service to a pro-union and biased agency for supervision and control.

The draft of the new bill which would abolish the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service as an independent agency and put it into the Department of Labor as just another bureau contains the following:

"The United States Conciliation Service shall be administered under the general direction and supervision of the Secretary of Labor. General policies and standards for the operation of the service shall be formulated and promulgated by the Director of Conciliation, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. . .

"The director and the service shall be impartial.' . ."

Employer Convictions Stiffened

Nothing is said about the need for impartiality by the Secretary of Labor who is to "administer" the conciliation service and who must approve the "general policies and standards for the operation of the service."

It is not surprising that Cyrus Ching, present head of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, who was appointed by President Truman, testified this week before the Senate Labor Committee that the present and preceding secretaries of labor "almost without exception" have sided with labor unions on legislative and administrative programs on which employers and unions differed. He added that it was generally accepted and understood that the two new assistant secretaryships of labor, recently created, were to be filled by AFL and CIO men, respectively. He declared that this had "stiffened the convictions of many employers that the Department of Labor, in issues arising between employers and unions, would favor the unions." He asked:

"How is the Department of Labor to convince the skeptical employers that it holds no brief for the unions with which they must bargain?"

Mr. Ching said it was a mistake to place a mediator in an "organizational environment which may possibly throw a shadow on his disinterestedness." He might have gone further and pointed out that it is a mistake to select mediators who have political pull or the backing of labor unions and who are planted in the conciliation service to see to it that they do what labor-union leaders want them to do.

One of the main reasons why the nation suffers from strikes is that employers have no confidence in the mediators. The President, who is so anxious to relieve labor unions of the restrictive features of the Taft-Hartley Act, would have been on solid ground had he insisted that coercion was less and less desirable and that he believed reliance on voluntary processes would be even more desirable in the future than in t he past. But when Mr. Truman allows the mediation service to become an adjunct of a pro-union department, he destroys the effectiveness of his argument for a return to voluntary processes.

Cannot Be Really Impartial

The men chosen to mediate who are pro-union are not dishonest. They merely have become so imbued with the union viewpoint that they cannot really be impartial mediators. The selection of personnel for mediating services is the most important of all factors involved in the controversy. That, in truth, is behind the seemingly innocent attempt merely to put the conciliation service into the Department of Labor "for housekeeping purposes." As Mr. Ching rightly pointed out, whoever controls the purse strings can control the agency itself. Here are his words:

"A poor housekeeper can make it awfully uncomfortable for you. The housekeeper who controls the budget and the personnel pretty well controls the whole service."

Mr. Truman has made a mistake in yielding to the bureaucrats who want to grab the U. S. Conciliation Service and put it where it could be controlled by labor unions. This issue represented a very good opportunity for the President to make his slogan, "a fair deal," mean something disinterested and nonpolitical. As it is, the episode throws suspicion on the entire administration bill as an effort to deal with labor-management relations on a one-sided basis and not in accordance with the pledge in the Democratic platform for a balanced law.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

IT WAS astonishing that a couple of thousand top-notch business men at an economic club dinner in New York fell for an English dialect and a hatful of witticisms and applauded a speech of brilliant quibbles delivered by Geoffrey Crowther, editor of the London "Economist," on British socialism. It has for years struck me that whenever an Englishman talks in his native dialect, Americans imagine that that is, of itself, something wonderful, forgetting that in France even the babies talk French.

To avoid the dialect, I got hold of Mr. Crowther's speech and discovered what I suspected, that it is one of those on-the-other hand speeches. For instance, Mr. Crowther compares British socialism with the American Postoffice, our public schools, and our roads, which is nonsense, as he knows, because British socialism, supported by American dollars, seeks to nationalize the means of production and distribution of a nation and to destroy private enterprise, as a philosophic proposition and a practical operation, whereas our postoffice is operated to do cheaply and at a loss what is, in fact, being done expensively and at a profit by our express companies, telephone, telegraph, teletype, and private messenger services, the advantages of the expensive service over the chaper one being many, if you have the price.

Also, while our public schools are paid for out of taxation, this country supports an increasing number of private and parochial schools, from the kindergarten to the university, paid for privately by those who prefer them. In this respect, while we pay taxes for a public school system, we have not nationalized education. Mr. Crowther states the eight spheres in which Great Britain is engaging in socialism, (omitting the ninth, which is one of the most important, namely, socialized medicine," That one, Mr. Crowther forgot, I suppose, on the assumption that it would open the audience's eyes to the whole business.

Mr. Crowther nowhere in his long speech explained that for decades Great Britain has moved away from private enterprise; that she lacked a Sherman Anti-Trust law, which maintains competition, fights monopoly, opposes cartels. The British lazily accepted the policy of monopoly and cartel. They failed to modernize their plant and equipment because competition did not drive them to do it. They failed to keep up-to-date and that is why they lost markets to the Germans and the Japanese, both of whom were more efficient in the fields in which the British specialized.

Mr. Crowther might have made out a case for Great Britain, namely, that Great Britain, having fought two wars, lacked the capital to re-establish herself in industry and commerce without our aid. But if he had stated the case that way, we should have been forced to ask why the British are blocking the union of western European nations, which is the only plan thus far propounded that can save Europe from economic stagnation, or why Great Britain insists upon our aid with no tangible return while she also insists upon maintaining the silver bloc countries to our economic detriment. That would have been a tough one.

He ended on this theme:

". . . If you believe in democracy, you believe that it puts its errors right in the end. This experiment has not yet appeared before the court of first instance. Let us suppose that the American people were to elect to office an administration pledged to experiments of a novel and, as many people thought, dangerous kind, and suppose that that administration were re-elected—I am only supposing—to a second, a third, a fourth and even a fifth term of office. Would you then despair of the republic?"

He said this about one hour after he had heard Herbert Hoover explain that 14,000,000 Americans receive an annual check from the American government. Maybe it was too late to change his speech, but no one who heard Herbert Hoover or who listened to Paul Hoffman, ECA administrator, at that dinner describe his problems, could quite believe that democracy is not imperiled when large numbers of voters receive an annual check from their government. He apparently believes that it is a natural instinct of man to shoot Santa Claus.

Keeping Faith With Oneself

There is no quality to character quite so great as that of integrity—having certain self-made ideals to live up to, and never departing from them, no matter what the temptation is to do so. How many great writers there have been who would not stoop to writing something just for monetary gain. Usually, however, they nearly starved, or died poor—but with their integrity intact.

William Randolph Hearst once wrote an illuminating editorial about Charles A. Lindbergh. He told of offering, with associates, $500,000 to him just to allow the filming of a picture depicting his life. This was right after Lindbergh had made his amazing solo flight to Paris from New York. But the young flier had previously said that said I would not go into pictures," Mr. Hearst tried to argue him away from that decision, telling him what an inspiration it would be to youth.

"I wish I could do it if it would please you, but I cannot, because I said I would got go into pictures," Lindbergh replied. "All right," replied Mr. Heart, "but you tear up the contract; I have not the heart to do it." Lindbergh, who was then standing before the fireplace in Mr. Hearst's home, tore up the half-million dollar contract and threw it into the fire! That was an act of integrity that few men could ever do. But that one act proved the mettle of the man who did something that no one else had ever done as he did, up to that time.

One can sleep peacefully at night time who, during the day, has kept faith with himself. It is always a courageous thing to do under every circumstance. You can almost read the sign on some people's faces—"Not for Sale!"

There are many trade-names worth millions of dollars alone merely because they reflect the integrity of the firms back of them. Many of them today are household names. The best security that any bank can ask for is the integrity of the borrower. Keep faith with yourself and you will not want for others to have faith in you.

Tax Structure Already Too High For Everybody

Talk of an excess profits tax has all but died out in Washington. And after scanning higher corporation taxes some Administration men are getting cold feet. The reason is that the signs of a leveling off process are growing.

The Truman Administration can hardly see its way clear to hiking taxes when purchasing power may need a shot in the arm. The President vetoed the Republican tax slash (like the Taft-Hartley bill, it was passed over his veto) last year on the argument that it increased purchasing power at a time when the fight was on inflation.

Now there is a growing feeling in Washington that the fight is going to be on deflation. If that is true, then Mr. Truman should now favor lowering taxes.

Higher taxes will decrease purchasing power and employment. Fortune Magazine issues the warning that if corporation taxes are increased, corporations will quit investing for expansion and unemployment will go up sharply.

Looking over the field, the Washingto nexperts would like to increase excise taxes on jewelry, furs, luggage, communications and other items. The trouble with that is that demand for these items has slackened because of high prices reflecting burdensome taxes. More taxes on them would be fatal.

It has been figured out by one authority, with some assistance from Washington, what proportion of every dollar you spend is for taxes. Of course the result is not quite right, because the particulars (in part) are found in a compilation running "about 9,000 pages, 250,000 words, over 5,000 sections." Nor is that all. Add federal administrative regulations, 500,000 more words. Add decisions of the United States Tax Court, "more than 50 volumes, averaging over 1,000 pages."

This authority sums it up: 115,116 tax authorities, 500 different kinds of taxes, yearly total $55,200,000,000, most of which the consumer absorbs when he buys things.

To get away from those astronomical figures, let's take your shoes. On the leather in them in the eight categories between rancher and retailer, 502 different taxes—federal, state and local—are exacted. There is more. All along the line other taxes are taken on 280 basic materials entering into the manufacturing of the shoes. A casual glance around discovers many other taxes, 205 on a new car, 201 on a gallon of gasoline, 154 on a cake of soap, 127 on a roast of beef, 125 on a cotton dress, 53 on bread.

Hidden taxes, most of them, and tough to digest, yet one point is easy to get: You pay no direct taxes, let us say, and therefore can view with unconcern —perhaps with satisfaction—every unwarranted wage demand, every socalled "liberal" tax increase. But what happens in each case is that hundreds of hidden taxes tsart after you are on your way to market, and make off with 31 cents out of every dollar you would spend before you get there.

But it is too much to expect the Washington boys to give up and concede that the tax structure in America is already higher than the consumer can bear. They thrive on government expansion. The health of the country now calls for less government spending and lower taxes, but there are few signs that espousal of such a course would be productive of votes.

The late Tojo received several votes in the recent Japanese election. Lack of communication with his present abode will prevent him from hearing the news.

Installation Of Video On Dashboard Of Autos

Some call it television, some call it video, and some call it worse names than that. Barroom customers in the big cities seem to like it fine, but one taproom in New York City has been doing a thriving business since putting a sign outside reading: "Positively No Television," and cynics have been heard to sneer that driving the customer to drink is unfair competition.

Sports managers are uneasy. Television owners can see more of a fight or a football game at home than they could from choice seats in a stadium, and worry less about the weather, too. If prices of sets are reduced and they are installed in most homes, many professional sports may be forced out of business. Or so say the pessimists.

Horace P. Whitworth, chairman of the Allegany delegation to the Maryland General Assembly, is looking even further ahead. He has a bill pending before the Legislature to ban television sets in automobiles. What chance will a pedestrian or a careful driver have, it is claimed, if Betty Grable's legs are flashed on the other car's screen?

It must be admitted that that is some reasoning. Auto radios have their attractions, especially for youthful parkers, but they drain the battery and distract the driver. Dashboard video would be worse. If television manufacturers have any regard for the public safety, they'll keep their sets out of cars or invent a gadget to keep them from being turned on when the motor is running.

Book publishers are worrying about television, too. They cite the case of the book-of-the-month subscriber who didn't renew his subscription after buying a television set. They fear that the homely scene of Daddy reading to the kiddies while Mummy washes the dishes (or vice versa) will vanish from American life. The vanishing art of conversation, they warn, may also go the way of the passenger pigeon.

Some of these dire forebodings may prove to be greatly exaggerated. It is to be fervently hoped they all will be. For there are times when, looking toward the brave new world of the future, the average citizen doesn't feel brave at all.

There is some little danger that Harry will take that joke election a little too seriously.

The Ohio River has again started emphasizing the two middle letters of its name.

Moscow says America's failure in China is another example of American futility. Sounds almost like a compliment coming from the reds.

Wistfully we ponder the Happy Hyperboreans who (if the ancients had it right) lived beyond the north wind in a land of perpetual summer.

Mortality Rate Of The Sexes

WHITE females, according to a recent Metropolitan life insurance company bulletin, now have a life expectancy of 70.28. This is the first time that the biblical span of three score and ten has been attained in the intervening centuries. The figure for white males is 65.12. Does this mean that actually men are the weaker sex? Some of the statistics published in another publication of this organization would seem to bear this out. The total death rate for the period 1941-1945, exclusive of deaths due to enemy action, is given at 699.3 per 100,000 for white males and 455.9 for white females. In practically every disease listed in this survey, the percentage of male deaths is higher. My guess is that the answer lies in the fact that men work too hard.

The number of males who succumbed during this four year interval to the group of heart, blood vessel, and kidney disorders referred to as "cardiovascularrenal" was 300.6 as compared with 196.1 per 100,000 females. The cancer toll was 87.7 for males and 81.8 for females while tuberculosis figures were 42.7 to 21.3. Pneumonia accounted for 29.5 males to 15.5 females; suicide, 10.4 to 4.0; syphilis, 7.5 to 2.2; stomach ulcer, 6.4 to 0.9; and appendicitis 6.7 and 4.2. Even in poliomyelitis, which has such a low mortality, the rate was 1.1 males to 0.6 females. But the men have the edge in diabetes and gallstones since twice as many women as men die from these maladies.

The incidence of certain diseases is often sex-linked. For example, pyloric stenosis, a condition in which an enlarged valve at the exit of the stomach prevents food from reaching the intestine, is more than four times as common in boy babies. More men are afflicted with Parkinson's disease, infectious mononunleosis (glandular fever), skin cancer, cirrhosis of the liver and kidney stones. Hemophilia ((uncontrollable bleeding), which is transmitted to the offspring through the mother, is almost entirely a male disorder; and 95 per cent of all cases of gout are found in men. Pneumonia is equal in both sexes living under comparable conditions but males—due to occupation, exposure, or manner of living—are more inclined to develop the ailment. In coronary occlusion, the incidence is 81 per cent in males to 19 in females; retinal detachment attacks 63 per cent of men to 37 per cent of females, possibly because men are more subject to injuries. Hookworm, infectious jaundice, also are partial to men as well as the fungous invasions — actinomycosis, blastomycosis, and coccidioidomycosis.

But as Gray, the poet, said: "To each his sufferings"; diseases that favor women include thyroid abnormalities—goiter and overactivity or sluggishness of the gland. Chorea is two and one-half times as common in girls as boys. Rheumatoid arthritis affects three times as many women as men and Heberden's nodes usually select feminine fingers. Cbesity, including the special type called "adiposa dolorosa," prefers women as do movable kidney, Raynaud's disease, congenital dislocations of the hip, otosclerosis (a disturbance of the ear bone, creating deafness and a peculiar ailment, disseminated lupus erythematosus, involving the skin, blood vessels, and lymphatic channels.

More women harbor gallstones, possibly due to overweight, sedentary habits, or dietary indiscretions; as well as plantar warts on the soles of the feet, perhaps because of wearing high heels. Chlorosis, the green-sickness of a few generations ago, was an exclusively feminine illness; in those days women stayed indoors to preserve their lily-white complexions and were tightly bound in order to exhibit the wasp-waistline figure then in vogue.

NOSE SHAPE

Mrs. E. writes: Is there any chance of making the nose of a month old baby grow into a pointed shape? My infant's nose is flat, and if it can be changed, I would like to know how.

Reply

The die is cast. The structure will grow longer in time provided he has inherited a nose of this shape. Most infants have pudgy noses and it is difficult to say what they will look like until full growth is attained.

NO DANGER

M. G. writes: Is it true that after a person has a chest X-ray taken, he becomes sterile?

Reply

No, a thousand times no. Sterility can be produced, however, through the use of large doses of X-ray over the glandular areas.

THE SAME

Mrs. M. writes: I was told at the clinic that I have a cardiliac condition. Does this mean heart disease?

Reply

Yes. "Cardia" is taken from a Greek word meaning 'the heart."

SMOKERS' PATCHES

L. D. writes: Why does leucoplakia return after it has disappeared entirely?

Reply

Recurrences may be expected if the causative factor has not been eliminated. These white plaques on the tongue or membranes of the mouth are usually due to irritation from the habitual ingestion of hot foods or drink, smoking, or friction from teeth or dentures. A physician should be consulted as the lesions may become cancerous.

Treat The Cause

E.H. writes: I have an enlarged liver. Is there something I can take to ease the discomfort associated with this condition?

REPLY

This depends upon the underlying cause because a number of disturbances may be responsible for overgrowth of this organ.

Negotiations On Austrian Peace Treaty Will Be Barometer Of Cold War, In Opinion Of State Department; Chinese Communists Treat Foreigners Well

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—February 7 has been marked on the State Department calendar with a red circle. This is the date the diplomats are going to watch to see whether the Russians really want to get along with the USA.

On that date the United States, France and Britain began negotiations with Russia for an Austrian peace treaty, and the State Department has decided to let these negotiations serve as a barometer of the cold war.

So far the Russians have been talking peace but acting tough. While Togliatti in Italy and Communist leaders in France have been announcing that Russia can get along with the west, and while Stalin has said he would be willing to meet Truman, actually there has been not the slightest change in Russian policy.

But when the big powers sit down to negotiate an Austrian peace treaty, the State Department thinks Russia will have a chance to show whether she really means what she says. If Russian delegates are reasonable regarding Austria, Secretary of State Acheson is preparing to propose a meeting in New York of the Big Four Foreign Ministers—Russia, Britain, France, and the USA—about April 5, when the United Nations holds a special assembly session.

Note—Other U. S. observers don't agree with the State Department that Austria is a good barometer of the cold war. They point out that, since Yugoslavia broke away from the iron curtain, Russia has no reason to be tough in Austria. It was Tito's influence that previously toughened up Russian policy against Austria.

President Truman is happy as a schoolboy over the world-wide reception given to his plan to build up backward areas. After White House aides showed him stacks of newspaper clippings, the President remarked: "This idea is so good I should have thought of it a couple of years ago.". . . The story on what happened to the Gallup Polls, the predicters and the newspapers during the late election has just been published by Morris Ernst—"The People Know Best." Healthy reading for newspapermen. . . . But he added that the investigation should also include the real estate lobby.

Chinese Communist Visits U. S. Consulate

The State Department has just received an awkward cable from American Consul General Angus Ward in Mukden, China.

Consul Ward cabled that American citizens, American property and American diplomats in Communist-held northern China are receiving remarkably good treatment at the hands of Chinese Communists. In fact, Ward cabled that one of the leading Communist generals of the North had visited the Consulate that day to pay his respects.

The Chinese General was most polite, spent an hour assuring Ward of the Communist desires for friendship with the USA, and their hope of peaceful cooperation and trade. Following this, Ward took the Communist General on a tour of the American Consulate.

His visitor seemed much impressed, particularly by an exhibit of the U. S. Information Service which featured news dispatches and propaganda, translated into Chinese, telling America's story to the Chinese people.

"Now, Mr. Consul," The Chinese Communist General said, "I am delighted that you Americans believe in the freedom of the press. I think this is a very fine exhibit. We believe in freedom of the press, too."

Consul Ward smiled happily. Then he stopped smiling.

"Since we all believe in the freedom of the press," continued the Chinese Communist general, "I have a few documents and articles that I'd like to put up with your exhibits so that the people can see both sides of the story. That would only be freedom of the press. I know you will be glad to do it."

Consul Ward had no answer. He engaged in some polite double-talk, then hastily wired the State Department for instructions.

Capital Chaff

The Republicans who wangled the Lincoln Day dinner invitation for Governor Dewey were Michigan's Congressman George Dondero, Chairman of the Lincoln Day committee, and his close friend, GOP National Chairman Hugh Scott. Other Republicans are irked because Dewey was invited. . . . Not a word has been said about it, but 200 American fighter planes have been sent to Italy from Germany; also nearly 1,000 tons of U. S. ammunition have gone to the Italian Army. General Clay decided on the shipments after one of his aides conferred with the Italian Chief of Staff in Rome. . . . The USA has started secret negotiations with Panama to secure new American bases. Panama canceled its bases agreement last year, at which time U. S. troops promptly pulled out. Now Panamanians are offering new bases in return for a loan. Army-Navy, in turn, want to set up radar equipment in Panama—outside the Canal Zone—to warn against enemy airplanes.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—INS)—Four New York communities—Schenectady, Ithaca, Glens Falls and Jamestown—are making a fine contribution to international understanding.

With the blessing and aid of New York's state education department, those towns sent some of their young men and women to Europe this past summer. They went not as government representatives, nor representatives of an agency or college or anything else. They went as plain people in search of other plain people.

Since their return they have explained the people of Europe to thousands of the members of their communities, just as they explained their people to the Europeans last summer. They brought back the hopes, problems and customs of a Europe fighting desperately to survive and, through our aid, succeeding.

"The importance of helping people or different countries to understand each other better is too obvious to require comment," Gov. Dewey wrote to the first batch of such ambassadors as they were about to leave. "Never in the history of the world has it been quite so important as it is today. The state education department is to be congratulated upon instituting this program."

In the hope that it will spread to other U. S. cities, the department has outlined how its project works:

1.—The local Community Service Council of Young Adults, a group operating under the auspices of the municipal school system and the state bureau of adult education, approaches the community at large with a proposal that it send one or more young people abroad as ambassadors of the town.

The Council of Young Adults promotes the project and raises funds to finance the trip of the ambassador or ambassadors selected. The New York ambassadors got along nicely on $750 for the whole trip.

Results: The people of the community become increasingly aware of their stake in peace and international understanding and their need to know more about other peoples. The Council of Young Adults learns more about its community, gains experience in promoting an educational activity, in carrying on a publicity campaign, in raising funds. The young adults gain status as a group in the community, and learn to cooperate with other groups.

2.—A committee of the townspeople selects one or more young adults as ambassadors, depending on amount of money raised.

Results: Attention is focused on the young adult age group and its role in community life.

3.—The young adults selected to go abroad are briefed on the historical, cultural, social, economic and political backgrounds of their home towns.

Results: Young adult community leaders gain an insight into the nature and workings of their community; they depart better-equipped to educate people overseas on what American democracy is at the "grass-roots" level.

4.—The community ambassadors travel overseas, take up residence with a European family, and live for six weeks in a typical European community executing their mission of international education. They report their experiences to the American community via newspaper articles and letters.

Results: People overseas learn directly from an American community representative what the U.S. is really like.

5.—The ambassadors return, report their experiences to civic groups, service clubs, religious organizations and, through press and radio, to the townspeople.

Results: The community and state receive the benefits of an education in international understanding, not through books or through information from a distant agency, but on a personal level from people they know and have seen grow up in their home-town.

The ambassadors gain status in the community, as well as experience in journalism, radio, public speaking, group work. Increasing numbers of people become aware of the need for greater familiarity among peoples, and of the potentialities of this kind of international education.

If your town is interested, contact Lawrence L. Harvie, associate commissioner, New York State University, State Education Department, Albany, N. Y. It is, indeed, an imaginative and heartening program.

"Fair Deal" Forgotten In Mediation Board Proposal

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Mediation—which, when successful, means that the parties are brought together into voluntary agreement—depends for its effectiveness on absolute trust in the fairness and impartiality of the mediators, especially in labor-management disputes.

That's why President Truman's conspicuous abandonment of the most vital principal in any so-called "fair deal" program has caused astonishment. For he has authorized his Secretary of Labor to request Congress to turn over the Mediation and Conciliation Service to a pro-union and biased agency for supervision and control.

The draft of the new bill which would abolish the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service as an independent agency and put it into the Department of Labor as just another bureau contains the following:

"The United States Conciliation Service shall be administered under the general direction and supervision of the Secretary of Labor. General policies and standards for the operation of the service shall be formulated and promulgated by the Director of Conciliation, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. . .

"The director and the service shall be impartial. . ."

Employer Convictions Stiffened

Nothing is said about the need for impartiality by the Secretary of Labor who is to "administer" the conciliation service and who must approve the "general policies and standards for the operation of the service."

It is not surprising that Cyrus Ching, present head of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, who was appointed by President Truman, testified this week before the Senate Labor Committee that the present and preceding secretaries of labor "almost without exception" have sided with labor "unions on legislative and administrative programs on which employers and unions differed. He added that it was generally accepted and understood that the two new assistant secretaryships of labor, recently created, were to be filled by AFL and CIO men, respectively. He declared that this had "stiffened the convictions of many employers that the Department of Labor, in issues arising between employers and unions, would favor the unions." He asked:

"How is the Department of Labor to convince the skeptical employers that it holds no brief for the unions with which they must bargain?"

Mr. Ching said it was a mistake to place a mediator in an "organizational environment which may possibly throw a shadow on his disinterestedness." He might have gone further and pointed out that it is a mistake to select mediators who have political pull or the backing of labor unions and who are planted in the conciliation service to see to it that they do what labor-union leaders want them to do.

One of the main reasons why the nation suffers from strikes is that employers have no confidence in the mediators. The President, who is so anxious to relieve labor unions of the restrictive features of the Taft-Hartley Act, would have been on solid ground had he insisted that coercion was less and less desirable and that he believed reliance on voluntary processes would be even more desirable in the future than in t he past. But when Mr. Truman allows the mediation service to become an adjunct of a pro-union department, he destroys the effectiveness of his argument for a return to voluntary processes.

Cannot Be Really Impartial

The men chosen to mediate who are pro-union are not dishonest. They merely have become so imbued with the union viewpoint that they cannot really be impartial mediators. The selection of personnel for mediating services is the most important of all factors involved in the controversy. That, in truth, is behind the seemingly innocent attempt merely to put the conciliation service into the Department of Labor "for housekeeping purposes." As Mr. Ching rightly pointed out, whoever controls the purse strings can control the agency itself. Here are his words:

"A poor housekeeper can make it awfully uncomfortable for you. The housekeeper who controls the budget and the personnel pretty well controls the whole service."

Mr. Truman has made a mistake in yielding to the bureaucrats who want to grab the U. S. Conciliation Service and put it where it could be controlled by labor unions. This issue represented a very good opportunity for the President to make his slogan, "a fair deal," mean something disinterested and nonpolitical. As it is, the episode throws suspicion on the entire administration bill as an effort to deal with labor-management relations on a one-sided basis and not in accordance with the pledge in the Democratic platform for a balanced law.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

IT WAS astonishing that a couple of thousand top-notch business men at an economic club dinner in New York fell for an English dialect and a hatful of witticisms and applauded a speech of brilliant quibbles delivered by Geoffrey Crowther, editor of the London "Economist," on British socialism. It has for years struck me that whenever an Englishman talks in his native dialect, Americans imagine that that is, of itself, something wonderful, forgetting that in France even the babies talk French.

To avoid the dialect, I got hold of Mr. Crowther's speech and discovered what I suspected, that it is one of those on-the-other hand speeches. For instance, Mr. Crowther compares British socialism with the American Postoffice, our public schools, and our roads, which is nonsense, as he knows, because British socialism, supported by American dollars, seeks to nationalize the means of production and distribution of a nation and to destroy private enterprise, as a philosophic proposition and a practical operation, whereas our postoffice is operated to do cheaply and at a loss what is, in fact, being done expensively and at a profit by our express companies, telephone, telegraph, teletype, and private messenger services, the advantages of the expensive service over the chaper one being many, if you have the price.

Also, while our public schools are paid for out of taxation, this country supports an increasing number of private and parochial schools, from the kindergarten to the university, paid for privately by those who prefer them. In this respect, while we pay taxes for a public school system, we have not nationalized education. Mr. Crowther states the eight spheres in which Great Britain is engaging in socialism, (omitting the ninth, which is one of the most important, namely, socialized medicine. That one, Mr. Crowther forgot, I suppose, on the assumption that it would open the audience's eyes to the whole business.

Mr. Crowther nowhere in his long speech explained that for decades Great Britain has moved away from private enterprise; that she lacked a Sherman Anti-Trust law, which maintains competition, fights monopoly, opposes cartels. The British lazily accepted the policy of monopoly and cartel. They failed to modernize their plant and equipment because competition did not drive them to do it. They failed to keep up-to-date and that is why they lost markets to the Germans and the Japanese, both of whom were more efficient in the fields in which the British specialized.

Mr. Crowther might have made out a case for Great Britain, namely, that Great Britain, having fought two wars, lacked the capital to re-establish herself in industry and commerce without our aid. But if he had stated the case that way, we should have been forced to ask why the British are blocking the union of western European nations, which is the only plan thus far propounded that can save Europe from economic stagnation, or why Great Britain insists upon our aid with no tangible return while she also insists upon maintaining the silver bloc countries to our economic detriment. That would have been a tough one.

He ended on this theme:

". . . If you believe in democracy, you believe that it puts its errors right in the end. This experiment has not yet appeared before the court of first instance. Let us suppose that the American people were to elect to office an administration pledged to experiments of a novel and, as many people thought, dangerous kind, and suppose that that administration were re-elected—I am only supposing—to a second, a third, a fourth and even a fifth term of office. Would you then despair of the republic?"

He said this about one hour after he had heard Herbert Hoover explain that 14,000,000 Americans receive an annual check from the American government. Maybe it was too late to change his speech, but no one who heard Herbert Hoover or who listened to Paul Hoffman, ECA administrator, at that dinner describe his problems, could quite believe that democracy is not imperiled when large numbers of voters receive an annual check from their government. He apparently believes that it is a natural instinct of man to shoot Santa Claus.

Keeping Faith With Oneself

There is no quality to character quite so great as that of integrity—having certain self-made ideals to live up to, and never departing from them, no matter what the temptation is to do so. How many great writers there have been who would not stoop to writing something just for monetary gain. Usually, however, they nearly starved, or died poor—but with their integrity intact.

William Randolph Hearst once wrote an illuminating editorial about Charles A. Lindbergh. He told of offering, with associates, $500,000 to him just to allow the filming of a picture depicting his life. This was right after Lindbergh had made his amazing solo flight to Paris from New York. But the young flier had previously said that said I would not go into pictures," Mr. Hearst tried to argue him away from that decision, telling him what an inspiration it would be to youth.

"I wish I could do it if it would please you, but I cannot, because I said I would got go into pictures," Lindbergh replied. "All right," replied Mr. Heart, "but you tear up the contract; I have not the heart to do it." Lindbergh, who was then standing before the fireplace in Mr. Hearst's home, tore up the half-million dollar contract and threw it into the fire! That was an act of integrity that few men could ever do. But that one act proved the mettle of the man who did something that no one else had ever done as he did, up to that time.

One can sleep peacefully at night time who, during the day, has kept faith with himself. It is always a courageous thing to do under every circumstance. You can almost read the sign on some people's faces—"Not for Sale!"

Labor Law Plan Satisfies AF Of L

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—The AFL leadership today outlined an area of possible compromise for use in case the administration labor law plan hits a snag in Congress.

William Green, the federation's president, said he felt sure the AFL will have "no serious objections" to continuing three Taft-Hartley law provisions now proposed to be repealed by the administration bill.

These three are the requirements for non-Communist affidavits from union leaders, for filing union financial reports, and guaranteeing employers "free speech" rights in relations with employes.

Green told reporters the AFL's Executive Council, in midwinter meeting here, was generally satisfied with the administration plan to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and restore the New Deal's Wagner Act with a few changes.

However, Green said the AFL probably will have several changes to suggest when he gives the federation's views to the Senate Labor Committee, possibly on February 10.

One thing the AFL wants, Green said, is specific legislative language to permit craft workers to set up separate union bargaining units in plants now considered as single bargaining units.

And he said the council here is studying the administration's bill provisions respecting secondary boycotts and jurisdictional disputes to determine if the federation wants more specific wording.

House Group Approves Export Control Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved a bill to extend export controls for 28 months, as requested by President Truman.

The action was taken, however, only after the President gave his personal assurance that henceforth the Agriculture Department rather than the Commerce Department, will say what amounts of farm products are available for export.

The vote in the committee was 16 to 6.

Mine Welfare Fund Sues Pa. Coal Company

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3 (AP) — The United Mine Workers welfare and retirement fund today sued a Western Pensylvania coal company for royalties and interest it claims is owed the fund.

The fund trustees, United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis, Cleveland Coal Operator Ezra Van Horn and Sen. Style Bridges (R-N.H.) told Federal District Court the Luxner Coal Company of Carmichaels, Pa., had violated an agreement requiring operators to pay the fund a certain amount for each ton of coal produced.

The trustees asked judgment of $8,384 and 20 cents for every ton of coal produced in the mine since July 1, 1948. The suit charged the company violated contract agreements during government operation of mines in May, 1946.

Siege Of Apartment Fortress Is Disclosed

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Daily News said tonight a former Philadelphia socialite has barricaded a sumptuous Manhattan apartment against her millionaire husband and kept him away—with rifles—for 11 weeks.

The News said in a copyrighted story that the siege was revealed in papers filed by Mrs. Edith Maria Reuss Lord, 41, in a separation suit against Robert P. Lord, 45, attorney and manufacturer.

The attractive, blonde Mrs. Lord made a fortress out of the apartment, the News said, after she and private detectives "recaptured" it from her husband, who had locked her out for two months.

"Axis Sally" Posed As Red Cross Worker

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—A former American soldier who was captured by the Germans testified today that "Axis Sally", posed as a Red Cross worker when she interviewed wounded United States prisoners for Nazi broadcasts.

The witness, Gilbert Lee Hansford, 27, Cincinnati, made the statement in testifying at the treason trial of Mildred E. Gillars, 48, in Federal Court here.

American Accidental Death Rate Dropped To New Low Last Year

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP) — The American accidental death rate was lower last year than in any year for which records were compiled.

The National Safety Council reported the 1948 accident toll was 98,000, a rate of 67.1 per 100,000 population. The previous low mark was 68.4 in 1921. Last year's total compared with 99,579 in 1947.

All types of accident fatalities declined, except those in the home. Home accident deaths were up one per cent over 1947.

Motor vehicle fatalities dropped two per cent despite an increase in travel miles; occupational deaths went down three per cent; public accident deaths other than motor vehicle dropped six per cent, and deaths of military personnel in accidents declined eight per cent.

The council estimated that the cost to the nation's economy from accident deaths, injuries and property damage in 1948 was $7,200,000,000. This figure included wage losses, medical expense, insurance costs, production delays and damage to industrial equipment.

Catastrophes were fewer in 1948 than in 1947, only one costing more than 50 lives — the Oregon-Washington flood. Five others took between 25 and 50 lives.

The motor vehicle death toll was 32,000 last year, compared with 32,697 in 1947 and nearly 3,000 below the all-time high of 39,969 in 1941.

The auto death rate per 100,000,000 miles was estimated at 8.1 per cent — the lowest on record. The council said 1948 total vehicle mileage in the United States was up seven per cent last year over 1947 and 19 per cent above that for 1941.

State Urged To Expand Road-Building Plans

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 3 (AP)—Roads Commissioner Joseph M. George today urged the state to quadruple its road-building program.

Maryland should spend $800,000,000 on better highways within the next 15 to 20 years, he told the Senate Finance Committee. The current $200,000,000 five-year program will "take care of about one-quarter of our reconstruction," George said.

George, a former senator and now a member of the Senate Roads Commision, testified at a hearing o na bill to give the counties half the proceeds from the tilting tax on motor vehicles.

Md. Press Association Opens Meeting Today

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Maryland Press Association opens its 40th annual meeting here tomorrow. Representatives of newspapers from all over the Free State expect to attend.

Virtually every phase of the business will be discussed in speeches and round table sessions covering printing, surveys, photography, advertising, newswriting and postal regulations.

One of the opening speakers will be E. Ralph Hostetter, secretary of the association and representative of the Cecil Whig, which is published in Elkton.

French "Love Expert" Gets 90 Days In Jail

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3 (AP)—Claude Marsan, self-styled French expert on wooing, was sentenced today to 90 days in jail for giving an indecent performance.

Marsan, 39, was convicted after a courtroom demonstration of his technique with Barbara Weir, 24, his pretty red-haired assistant. She was convicted, too, and drew a 30-day term. But the judge suspended it, put her on probation for two years, and fined her $50.

Truman Scores In His Reorganization Battle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Truman won a round tonight in his battle to obtain from Congress a free hand in reorganizing the executive branch of the government.

The House Committee on Executive Expenditures, rejecting insistent demands for the exemption of favored agencies from the reorganization axe, reported out a bill giving Mr. Truman the greater part of which he asked.

The lawmakers, however, reserved a special veto power over any reorganization plan involving the military establishment and a trio of independent agencies.

Reshuffling of any of those agencies would have to be handled separately from any other shakeup. This would give Congress a clear-cut issue for a vote on whether to let the proposal go through.

Union To Abide By Va. Anti-Closed Shop Law

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 3 (AP)—A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers today assured Gov. Tuck that it is the intention of the union to abide by Virginia's anti-closed shop law.

The letter to the Governor was sent by J. C. McIntosh, international representative of the IBEW. His letter was in reply to one sent by the Governor dealing with forthcoming contract negotiations between the union and Appalachian Electric Power Company.

McIntosh asked the Governor to reconsider his decision in which he refused to docket a first conference in the case until the electric company and the union agree on a date.

Times Changing

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 3 (AP)—Signs of changing times—

A Mobile automobile dealer placed an order with the Alabama State Employment Service today for two salesmen to sell new cars.

Office Manager William P. Stainback said it was the first such order since the war started.

Decision On Edwards' Statement Postponed

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3 (AP)—Whether a statement which Thomas A. Edwards said he gave police because of fear will be admitted at his trial for a double Glen Burnie murder reached the point of decision today only to be postponed.

The three Criminal Court judges recessed the trial until tomorrow after hearing arguments on admissibility of the 11-page statement.

The state spent three days in painstaking examination of about 40 witnesses to lay the foundation for presenting the statement. It is considered a major part of the state's case in seeking the conviction of the 23-year-old negro for the murders of John Mahlan and Mary Kline.

The court finally agreed to consider its introduction after once turning it down.

Priest Dies In Fire

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Feb. 3 (AP)—An early morning fire at St. Joseph Sanitarium killed a Catholic priest today and routed 65 other guests and staff members.

The victim was Rev. Father Thomas Barry, 52, Wickliffe, Ohio. Fire Chief Clayton E. Dubay said Fr. Barry apparently touched off the blaze by smoking in bed.

The city of Cartagena, Colombia, was the object of raids by all the pirate crews of the Spanish Main.

We ask 9 women and 522 men

(members of the 81st Congress)

to vote NO

You may soon be asked to decide whether the Government will build a large, fuel-burning electric power plant as a new part of the TVA at New Johnsonville, Tennessee.

We ask you, members of Congress, to vote a round, American NO to this project, for these main reasons:

1 The New Johnsonville plant would set a precedent for others, and could easily lead to the destruction of all the self-supporting electric companies. For no tax-paying company can compete with tax-free government agencies.

2 Your approval of this plant would give notice that the U. S. is turning to Socialism. If government has the right to get into the electric business, it can get into the steel, coal, shoe and any or all other businesses. Maybe some Americans want Socialism. We believe that most do not, because Socialism means government monopoly and the all-powerful state where individuals become less and less important.

3 Such a plant would give special privilege to the businesses and people in its area . . . by selling them electricity below real cost. The difference would be paid by people and businesses in other parts of the country, in federal taxes on everything from cigarettes and automobiles to wages and salaries.

4 Other Congressmen have voted NO to this project. They believed it unconstitutional. They believed it a long step into Socialism.

5 Committees of both Senate and House have on file a wealth of evidence that this proposed plant is unnecessary—

unnecessary for the TVA area unnecessary for the national defense unnecessary for the nation's welfare

The New Johnsonville question is a very complicated one. It involves personal beliefs, Party programs, and above all—what kind of government this nation is to have in the coming years.

We ask you, ladies and gentlemen of the 81st Congress, to fully inform yourselves on this project, consult your consciences, and

VOTE NO to the New Johnsonville plant
VOTE NO to its unfair special privileges
VOTE NO to Socialism in America

Labor Law Plan Satisfies AF Of L

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—The AFL leadership today outlined an area of possible compromise for use in case the administration labor law plan hits a snag in Congress.

William Green, the federation's president, said he felt sure the AFL will have "no serious objections" to continuing three Taft-Hartley law provisions now proposed to be repealed by the administration bill.

These three are the requirements for non-Communist affidavits from union leaders, for filing union financial reports, and guaranteeing employers "free speech" rights in relations with employes.

Green told reporters the AFL's Executive Council, in midwinter meeting here, was generally satisfied with the administration plan to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and restore the New Deal's Wagner Act with a few changes.

However, Green said the AFL probably will have several changes to suggest when he gives the federation's views to the Senate Labor Committee, possibly on February 10.

One thing the AFL wants, Green said, is specific legislative language to permit craft workers to set up separate union bargaining units in plants now considered as single bargaining units.

Board Plans Library's 25th Birthday Celebration

Open House To Be Held March 1

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Free Public Library, Wilbur V. Wilson, president, appointed Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker, James Alfred Avirett and Tasker G. Lowndes to serve as a special committee to formulate plans for the observance of the library's 25th anniversary March 1.

Mr. Lowndes, who has been treasurer of the library for 25 years, will act as chairman of the committee.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, who has been librarian since the library first opened, March 1, 1924, in the city-owned building at 72 Greene Street, now occupied by the Girl Scouts, said yesterday that more than 100 new books, as gifts and part of the regular routine will be on display for the celebration. There also will be an open house the night of the first and a special celebration for the children at the regular story hour, March 4.

The library was organized in May 1923 by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, who appropriated $2,000 for an initial budget, altered the building at 72 Greene Street for library use and appointed the directors.

Original directors were the late Mrs. Anna M. McCleve, Mrs. Margaret S. Upham, the late Albert A. Doub, Isaac Hirsch, the late Dr. Thomas W. Koon, Tasker G. Lowndes, the late Henry Shriver, John J. Tipton and Wilbur V. Wilson.

When the library opened 25 years ago, Miss Walsh said there were 1,650 books and today there are 45,000. At the conclusion of the first year there were 2,850 borrowers and today there are 12,000.

Elephants do forget, says the World Book Encyclopedia. If elephants had good memories it would be impossible to train them because they are bound and starved when first captured.

Jr. Extension Backs Danish Youth's Visit

The Allegany County Junior Extension 4-H Club met at the home of Miss Ada Ford Wednesday night at which time the club discussed sponsoring the visit to Allegany County of the Danish delegate and received reports on the Youth conferences.

Miss Hennie Hansen, Denmark, delegate under the International World Youth program, will visit the county under the sponsorship of Junior Extension during the month of May. It was announced that she will spend the entire month on a farm, working with the family in their everyday chores to learn the American way and contrast the methods of farm life in America and Denmark.

The club constitution was revised and approved by the club and read by William Powell and Charles Llewellyn. Three persons applied for membership.

Reporting on the Baltimore Youth Conference, Miss Marjorie Twigg and Mrs. Roy Shryock told of the panel discussion in which members were taught to recreate by recreation and have programs of interest to the people. They said Miss Dorothy Emerson emphasized that to get something out of a program one must put something into it, and urged leaders to plan programs the people want. Besides the two reporting, Miss Ford and William Heavener also attended.

Mrs. James Crable, 4-H leader representing Maryland clubs at the state's delegates' meeting at the University of Maryland, speaking of the meeting, emphasized they were taught there are three ships of life, leadership, fellowship and followship. She urged leaders not to force members to do anything, but instead to accomplish something by substituting another project in which the member is interested.

The necessity of young 4-H members keeping their charts was stressed by Barbara Long, clothing delegate to the National Congress of 4-H held in Chicago. She urged the Junior Extension to help younger 4-H members to work for the contests and to keep records which receive such high counts in winning. She also discussed the 4-H movie, "Green Promise," which will be released this spring. She spoke of Fred Waring's new song for the 4-H Congress, "A Place in the Sun," which he presented to the congress; and she showed her scrap book and souvenirs and told of the various activities while in Chicago.

William Powell assumed his duties as president. His staff includes Mrs. Colleen Nelson, vice president; Miss Twigg, secretary; Robert Heavener, treasurer; Miss Edith Lewis, assistant; Miss Regina Ferguson, assistant secretary; and Miss Dorothy Streett, Publicity chairman.

The next meeting will be held March 2 at the Flintstone school and the Recreation committee will plan the activities.

Hadassah To Have Film Of Jewish Refugee Children

Meeting To Be Held Feb. 7

The Cumberland Chapter of Hadassah will meet February 7 at 8:15 in B'er Chayim vestry room, at which time a film, "They Live Again," will be shown.

An authentic film, depicting the harrowing experiences of Jewish refugee children and their resurrection after a long trek across Euope and Asia to Palestine, the picture was produced by Hadassah, in conjunction with the March of Time and Pathe News. Paul Muni is the narrator.

The children were rehabilitated through the Youth Aliyah, which is celebrating its 15th anniversary between February 13-19. Since 1934 32,000 of the 60,000 homeless boys and girls of Europe have been removed to Europe. Most of them are war orphans and Youth Aliyah has been educating and supporting them until they can make their own way. Board Plans Library's 25th Birthday Celebration

Open House To Be Held March 1

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Free Public Library, Wilbur V. Wilson, president, appointed Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker, James Alfred Avirett and Tasker G. Lowndes to serve as a special committee to formulate plans for the observance of the library's 25th anniversary March 1.

Mr. Lowndes, who has been treasurer of the library for 25 years, will act as chairman of the committee.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, who has been librarian since the library first opened, March 1, 1924, in the city-owned building at 72 Greene Street, now occupied by the Girl Scouts, said yesterday that more than 100 new books, as gifts and part of the regular routine will be on display for the celebration. There also will be an open house the night of the first and a special celebration for the children at the regular story hour, March 4.

The library was organized in May 1923 by the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, who appropriated $2,000 for an initial budget, altered the building at 72 Greene Street for library use and appointed the directors.

Original directors were the late Mrs. Anna M. McCleve, Mrs. Margaret S. Upham, the late Albert A. Doub, Isaac Hirsch, the late Dr. Thomas W. Koon, Tasker G. Lowndes, the late Henry Shriver, John J. Tipton and Wilbur V. Wilson.

When the library opened 25 years ago, Miss Walsh said there were 1,650 books and today there are 45,000. At the conclusion of the first year there were 2,850 borrowers and today there are 12,000.

Elephants do forget, says the World Book Encyclopedia. If elephants had good memories it would be impossible to train them because they are bound and starved when first captured.

Jr. Extension Backs Danish Youth's Visit

The Allegany County Junior Extension 4-H Club met at the home of Miss Ada Ford Wednesday night at which time the club discussed sponsoring the visit to Allegany County of the Danish delegate and received reports on the Youth conferences.

Miss Hennie Hansen, Denmark, delegate under the International World Youth program, will visit the county under the sponsorship of Junior Extension during the month of May. It was announced that she will spend the entire month on a farm, working with the family in their everyday chores to learn the American way and contrast the methods of farm life in America and Denmark.

The club constitution was revised and approved by the club and read by William Powell and Charles Llewellyn. Three persons applied for membership

Reporting on the Baltimore Youth Conference, Miss Marjorie Twigg and Mrs. Roy Shryock told of the panel discussion in which members were taught to recreate by recreation and have programs of interest to the people. They said Miss Dorothy Emerson emphasized that to get something out of a program one must put something into it, and urged leaders to plan programs the people want. Besides the two reporting, Miss Ford and William Heavener also attended.

Mrs. James Crable, 4-H leader representing Maryland clubs at the state's delegates' meeting at the University of Maryland, speaking of the meeting, emphasized they were taught there are three ships of life, leadership, fellowship and followship. She urged leaders not to force members to do anything, but instead to accomplish something by substituting another project in which the member is interested.

The necessity of young 4-H members keeping their charts was stressed by Barbara Long, clothing delegate to the National Congress of 4-H held in Chicago. She urged the Junior Extension to help younger 4-H members to work for the contests and to keep records which receive such high counts in winning. She also discussed the 4-H movie, "Green Promise," which will be released this spring. She spoke of Fred Waring's new song for the 4-H Congress, "A Place in the Sun," which he presented to the congress; and she showed her scrap book and souvenirs and told of the various activities while in Chicago.

William Powell assumed his duties as president. His staff includes Mrs. Colleen Nelson, vice president; Miss Twigg, secretary; Robert Heavener, treasurer; Miss Edith Lewis, assistant; Miss Regina Ferguson, assistant secretary; and Miss Dorothy Streett, Publicity chairman.

The next meeting will be held March 2 at the Flintstone school and the Recreation committee will plan the activities.

Meeting To Be Held Feb. 7

The Cumberland Chapter of Hadassah will meet February 7 at 8:15 in B'er Chayim vestry room, at which time a film, "They Live Again," will be shown.

An authentic film, depicting the harrowing experiences of Jewish refugee children and their resurrection after a long trek across Euope and Asia to Palestine, the picture was produced by Hadassah, in conjunction with the March of Time and Pathe News. Paul Muni is the narrator.

The children were rehabilitated through the Youth Aliyah, which is celebrating its 15th anniversary between February 13-19. Plan Quarterly Meeting, Anniversary

Salon 325, 8 and 40, will be host to the Department of Maryland for the next quarterly meeting and will celebrate its eighth anniversary. The department meeting is to be held May 1 and the salon's anniversary will be observed February 15.

At the department meeting held at Cheverly January 30, the invitation for the May meeting was accepted; the local chapter was voted to have the best Child Welfare report of the department, Mrs. Pearl Allen is Child Welfare chairman for the salon; and $50 was donated to the streptomycin fund, which is the department project for the year.

Mrs. Betty Rider and Mrs. Catherine Barnard are co-chairmen for the anniversary celebration which will be held following the regular salon meeting February 15 at the home.

Eight members of the salon attended the department meeting in Cheverly. They are Mrs. Margaret Graim, chapeau; Mrs. Daisy Buskey, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Evelyn Brooks, Mrs. Ovelia Walker, Mrs. Clara Palmer, Mrs. Barnard and Mrs. Rider.

Valley Road Club Plans Parties, Class

Mrs. J. J. Coleman presided and appointed Mrs. George Kraft and Mrs. John S. Cook chairmen for the 23rd birthday party of the club, which will be celebrated with a luncheon March 2 at Central YMCA, beginning at 12:30. Reservations should be made with Mrs. C. B. Callis before February 28.

The garden meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Cook, Bowling Green, February 23, and will be a covered dish luncheon. Anyone not having a car should take the 10 o'clock bus to Cresap Park.

Mrs. Cook also talked on basic sewing and gave a demonstration. She reported a basic sewing class, open to the public, will begin February 7 at 10 a. m. in the office of Miss Maude A. Bean in the Court House. Mrs. Coleman announced she wants anyone planning to take the course to meet at her home, 208 Fayette Street, at 1 today so she can explain what they are to bring to the class as all will work on the same thing.

The meeting was opened with group singing of the National Anthem, "Grandfather's Clock," and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." A silent prayer was offered for the late Rev. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the RWSC at College Park, and the late Richard D. Robertson, husband of a member.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, retiring secretary; Mrs. E. O. Fritch gave the monthly welfare report; Mrs. Leslie Nave reviewed "The Bishop's Mantle," and next month "The Big Fisherman" will be reviewed, Mrs. W. L. Maddocks reported. Mrs. Shafferman spoke on adequate storage space for small apartments and suggested new furniture for small spaces.

Mrs. Franklin Kremer, Recreation chairman, spoke on "Birds," asking the members to try to feed them during the cold weather, and to try to identify birds native to this vicinity, and give a report next month. The constitution and by-laws were read by Mrs. Cook. Mrs. A. E. Kesecker, International Relations chairman, led a discussion on "Women in Congress."

"Pennies for Friendship" were collected to purchase reading material to be sent to foreign nations. Fifty-two members and four visitors attended. They are Mrs. Frank Werner, Mrs. L. E. Good, Mrs. Howard McCracken and Mrs. Ernest Thornton.

The program will include study of the life of the Chinese, and the work of the Methodist missions in China; a comparison of the way of life in America and China; and playing Chinese games as well as work on exhibits which will consist of bookets about the Chinese children, which each child will make, as well as models of Chinese homes and moving picture boxes with drawings or cut out pictures of the study course.

Health Board To Enforce Statute

Strict observance of Maryland laws requiring State Board of Health approval of plans for water and sewage services in new residential developments will eliminate many of the headaches connected with such projects, Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday.

Copies of statutes relating to the subject have been received from Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the Maryland Department of Health, he said.

Great difficulty is being experienced in many parts of the state where new residential developments are being opened, Dr. Riley explained, since in many cases no adequate provision is made for either water supply or sewage disposal.

Even in some of the largest developments by private builders, he declared, it has apparently been assumed that water supply and sewage disposal are of secondary importance and can be disposed of after other problems have been settled.

Some counties, he added, will be required to make heavy expenditures to furnish such services for developments which were built without such provisions.

It is not uncommon, he added, for purchasers of newly built residences to find that both water and sewage service are inadequate and that they have no recourse against the developer of the property.

The State Board of Health, Dr. Riley declared, intends to enforce the law which requires that before any land platted for subdivision is put on the market, the plat, together with a plan for water and sewage services, must be submitted and approved by the Board.

Cast Selected For AHS Play

Leading roles for the Senior Class play at Allegany High School have been announced by Miss Orpha Bonita Pritchard, class advisor. The play, "Feathers In A Gale," will be presented at the school auditorium March 18.

Hilda Stump, Ruth Rahn and Jean Burkett, are cast in the leading roles of the three widows, Annabelle Hallock, Phoebe Fuller, and Matilda Phinney.

Supporting roles will be played by Zeb Hibbitt, William Fisher; Captain Ebenezer, Robert Keefe; Rev. David Thacher, Earle Bruce; Captain Seth Barnabas, Wesley Abrams; Abner, Robert Bennett; Lucy, Marjorie Twigg; Mrs. Spoor, Peggy Davis; Abigail, Sue Millholland; and the crier, William Bailey.

The amusing expediments of the three widows to outwit the widows' vendue, the custom whereby impecunious widows were auctioned off once a year as domestic servants to the highest bidders, make the story an interesting and humerous one.

"Feathers in a Gale" is presented in five scenes, all taking place in a room of Annabelle Hallock's house in Sesuit, Cape Cod, in 1804.

Tryouts for the play were held last Thursday, Friday, in the auditorium. Positions on the staff will be announced later.

muting between Annapolis and Western Maryland.

The money saved from these accounts would more than pay for the rental space of an office in either Cumberland or Oakland, Kimble declared.

He said he would also ask the governor's committee to support the bureau headquarter's transfer.

If the committee isn't going to make a "real sincere study" of state mining laws," Kimble asserted "I will insist that the Senate committee open immediate hearings on the legislation I have already introduced."

If the committee will approve the program which Kimble has already outlined "all well and good," he declared; if not "I'm going to fight for immediate passage of my own legislation."

Jones Cites Violations

Earlier in the day, John T. Jones, president of District 16 United Mine Workers of America, declared an examination of federal reports on the larger mines in Maryland shows that an average of 19 violations of federal code and state law exists.

The figures were quoted by Jones after he examined reports made by federal mine inspectors up to and including January 14, this year. The examination came after two men were killed in a Westernport mining explosion.

Union officials said that in a number of cases the same violations are found at each inspection, although attempts are sometimes made to bring about corrections.

Jones also charged that Clyde J. Rowe, one of two mine inspectors in this area, spends from three to four months of each year inspecting scales in Maryland from Hancock eastward.

The UMW official contended that Rowe goes to the Eastern Shore to inspect scales and union officials said a check of expenditures by the state bureau will reveal payment of hotel bills and transportation expenses for Rowe.

Labor Group Backs Compensation Bill

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference last night urged support by members of the Allegany County Delegation of House Bill No. 160 on Unemployment Compensation.

Letters informing the legislators of the action and urging their active support of the legislation will be sent at once, John Estes, president, said.

Three members of the conference were named to investigate and report on proposed legislation known as the Labor and Industry Bill. They are F. Patrick Allender, Joseph Humbertson and W. J. Jones.

The conference also voted to hold occasional meetings in Westernport as guests of Local 676, United Paperworkers of America, CIO.

On national legislation, the conference voted to urge Maryland congressmen and senators to repeal the Taft-Hartley Law and replace it with the Wagner Act as amended in President Truman's program.

Money Restrictions Hit Swiss Hotels

LOCARNO, Switzerland (AP)—The general assembly of the Swiss Tourism Association unanimously expressed its regret recently that the French Government had forbidden the purchase of Swiss currency in France for pleasure travel to Switzerland. Currency restrictions in many European countries have severely hit the Swiss tourist industry since the war. Many European countries, notably Britain, France and the Netherlands, which formerly provided the bulk of Switzerland's foreign visitors, have banned or greatly restricted holiday expenditure by their citizens in Switzerland.

At the same time, Switzerland's own hard currency has greatly facilitated Swiss holiday expenditure abroad, so that the Swiss hotel industry is further affected by a reduction of Swiss guests.

PITCHING IN A PINCH

By JOHN W. WHEELER

There is a belief, held largely by newspaper editors and publishers, that most sports writers are screwballs. Now this isn't so, as there are many good men who walk firmly past the entrance to a bar on the way home and go straight to the family fireside where they read the comics to the kiddies and help the wife with supper.

But there is a scintilla of truth in the theory because the screwballs, like many minorities, make the most noise and attract the greatest attention. Not pretending to be an authority on the modern species, this writer turns back several years to prove his case, thoughtfully using as examples characters who have gone to their final reward. Most of them deserve it, too, whatever it may be.

Starting as a cartoonist, there was a young man who came from San Francisco named John Igoe, a handsome and ambitious youth until he fell in with some companions in New York like Tad (Tom A Dorgan, the great cartoonist) and Bud Fisher. As was his custom Tad promptly changed his name to Hype (short for Hypodermic), and the recruit tried to live up to it pretty successfully. Gradually he switched from cartoonist to boxing writer, combining his two talents for a time. He would also grace a World's Series with his presence which is what brings up the following story.

In 1919, we were trudging after the Cincinnati Red and White Sox, not realizing then that some of the Chicago boys had found bankrolls under their pillows, thoughtfully placed there, it is said, by an emissary of Abe Attell to induce them not to do their best. We left on a late train, but anyway several of us were in the smoking room when the conductor came in and, not being interested in our conversation, sat down and shortly was snoring. His cap was beside him and his lantern on the floor.

Hype Igoe put on the headpiece and started off through the train banging on drawing-room doors, awaking the passengers, and demanding their tickets. Sleepily they would search and then remember they had given up their ducats long ago.

"You got my ticket before," a passenger shouted.

"Oh, that's right, I did," Hype would agree and go along to the next victim.

Everybody thought it was funny except the passengers and the train crew who caught our man after he had gone through three cars in which echoed the anguished screams of his disturbed victims. He surrendered without a fight and went to bed. Strange how a stunt like this completely failed to amuse the conductor.

Mr. Igoe was covering a heavyweight fight in Milwaukee as the expert of the New York World, and, in the course of his preliminary duties, ran across a man in a saloon one evening with a Shetland pony for sale. Realizing how handy the pony would be in his work, he bought it for $50 and immediately jotted down the item on his expense account. Eventually and proudly he led his prize back to the hotel and handed a fellow five dollars to hold the pony while he consulted the clerk.

"If I give you ten dollars, can I take a Shetland pony up to my room for the night?" asked Hype, adding, "he is a very nice, quiet, sleepy Shetland pony."

Mr. Igoe went outside wearing an air of triumph, only to find that both the pony and the horse holder had disappeared without a trace. The stranger must have liked Shetlands.

— o —

Bill Phelon, a teetotaler but with plenty of imagination, covered baseball for the Cincinnati Times-Star when he wasn't raising and mating gila monsters and other strange creatures which he carried around with him. Bill Hanna, a quiet and nervous hypochondriac worked on the New York Herald and was walking up Broadway on night when he met Phelon coming down.

"How are you, Bill?" greeted Phelon.

"Hello, Bill," answered Hanna.

Then Phelon got on a trolley car going uptown and rode four or five blocks. When he dismounted he walked down Broadway again and passed Bill Hanna saying,

"How are you, Bill?" Startled Hanna blinked and muttered something.

Once more Tireless Phelon repeated his performance, and for the third time he passed Bill Hanna, greeting him cordially as if surprised to run into him. There was no response but a loud gasp or sigh. So that joke had an unfortunate ending, for Mr. Hanna, instead of going home, according to reliable witnesses, went to a hospital and gave himself up, where he spent a week or more steadying his nerves and recovering his balance.

PITCHING IN A PINCH

By JOHN W. WHEELER

There is a belief, held largely by newspaper editors and publishers, that most sports writers are screwballs. Now this isn't so, as there are many good men who walk firmly past the entrance to a bar on the way home and go straight to the family fireside where they read the comics to the kiddies and help the wife with supper.

But there is a scintilla of truth in the theory because the screwballs, like many minorities, make the most noise and attract the greatest attention. Not pretending to be an authority on the modern species, this writer turns back several years to prove his case, thoughtfully using as examples characters who have gone to their final reward. Most of them deserve it, too, whatever it may be.

Starting as a cartoonist, there was a young man who came from San Francisco named John Igoe, a handsome and ambitious youth until he fell in with some companions in New York like Tad (Tom A Dorgan, the great cartoonist) and Bud Fisher. As was his custom Tad promptly changed his name to Hype (short for Hypodermic), and the recruit tried to live up to it pretty successfully. Gradually he switched from cartoonist to boxing writer, combining his two talents for a time. He would also grace a World's Series with his presence which is what brings up the following story.

In 1919, we were trudging after the Cincinnati Red and White Sox, not realizing then that some of the Chicago boys had found bankrolls under their pillows, thoughtfully placed there, it is said, by an emissary of Abe Attell to induce them not to do their best. We left on a late train, but anyway several of us were in the smoking room when the conductor came in and, not being interested in our conversation, sat down and shortly was snoring. His cap was beside him and his lantern on the floor.

Hype Igoe put on the headpiece and started off through the train banging on drawing-room doors, awaking the passengers, and demanding their tickets. Sleepily they would search and then remember they had given up their ducats long ago.

"You got my ticket before," a passenger shouted.

Rice Molds With Creamed Ham Are Meal-On-A-Platter

The meal-on-a-platter service is an example of American homemakers' good management. In the first place the foods attractively arranged, one complimenting the other, add beauty to the meal. Then second, the platter-meal simplifies service, and thirdly, not to be overlooked, it cuts down on dish washing. You may say, what's one more dish? Well, maybe one more at a time isn't so much, but think about that "one more" over a year? That's a heap-a-pile of dishes!

For this meal-on-a-platter, we have thought of simple ingredients that the average kitchen would have, or the recipe could easily be adjusted to fit in with what is available. For instance, if ham is not waiting in the refrigerator, dried beef could be used or one of the canned meat products. Of course, a self-respecting kitchen shelf wouldn't be caught dead without a supply of polished white rice on it.

Rice Molds With Creamed Ham

One cup raw, polished white rice, 2½ cups water, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Cook the rice as described below. In a small skillet melt the fat and saute the onion. Mix onion, fat and seasonings in with the rice. Press into greased individual molds. Place the filled molds in a pan of hot water and allow to simmer on top of the stove while making the sauce.

Creamed Ham Sauce

Three-fourths pound of ham or 2 cups of cubed meat, 1 cup sliced mushrooms or a small can of stems and pieces, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 tablespoons flour, 2½ cups milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon salt or omit if the meat is highly seasoned, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Melt the butter or margarine in a skillet or heavy saucepan and add mushrooms. Saute lightly. Push back to one side and blend in the flour. Add milk gradually, stirring all the time. Cook until the sauce is smooth and has thickened. Add cubed ham and seasonings. Allow to simmer a few minutes to blend into happy union.

Fluffy White Rice

Put 1 cup of white rice, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 cups cold water in a two-quart saucepan. Cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until its boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more. During this time the rice will absorb the water and come out deliciously tender. Remove the lid to permit the rice to steam dry. Lift rice with a fork to test its consistency.

To serve, unmold the rice molds on a hot platter, and surround with the ham sauce. What a pretty dish of nourishment it is!

Krautfurters
(Serves 6)

12 frankfurters
3 cups sauerkraut
¾ teaspoon caraway seeds
½ cup catsup
12 slices bacon

Cut frankfurters lengthwise but do not cut all the way through. Combine sauerkraut, caraway seeds and catsup, mixing well. Stuff split frankfurters with sauerkraut mixture. Wrap a slice of bacon around each frankfurter, fasten with toothpicks. Broil about 10 minutes or until browned.

A good rarebit is always ideal for lunches and suppers. Here is a rarebit variation with a different twist, sure to go over big with guests, or your own family.

Baked Eggs, Spanish Rice Give Variety

Are you sitting there pondering what in the world you can have to eat for dinner? The gremlins whispered to me that you were fresh out of ideas, so I gave one of them this recipe to help you out.

This is a hearty dish. It's inexpensive, too, and more than that it's pretty to look at and should claim exclamations for itself — and for you, the maker. Here 'tis:

Baked Eggs With Spanish Rice
(For six servings)

1 cup raw polished white rice
1 No. 2½ can of tomatoes or 3½ cups of canned tomatoes
½ small onion, sliced
½ bay leaf
3 cloves
1 teaspoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
6 eggs
3 tablespoons grated cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Simmer tomatoes, onion, salt, bay leaf and cloves together for ten minutes. Strain through a sieve. In a saucepan, melt the butter or margarine and blend in the flour. Add strained tomatoes and cook, stirring constantly until the sauce thickens. Re-season to taste.

Cook the rice as described below and place in a greased casserole, making six depressions in the top surface of the rice. Break an egg into each depression. Pour tomato sauce around and over all—carefully now, so the eggs aren't disturbed in their nests. Sprinkle the grated cheese over the top of all and scatter the buttered bread crumbs over the cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, about 350 degrees until the eggs are firm. This usually takes about 20 minutes.

Fluffy White Rice

Put one cup of white rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups cold water in a two-quart saucepan. Cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until its boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more. During this time, the rice will absorb the water and come out deliciously tender. Remove the lid to permit the rice to steam dry. Lift rice with a fork to test its consistency.

There is an extra value to this dish—it can be increased to meet the needs of the large family or the proportions can be reduced for the twosome. And it serves well in the little individual casseroles, if you have them.

Cheese Krautfurters
(Serves 4)

1¾ cups sauerkraut
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
½ teaspoon caraway seeds
8 frankfurters
8 frankfurter rolls

Combine sauerkraut, cheese and caraway seeds; mix will. Split frankfurters lengthwise, but do not cut all the way through. Stuff with sauerkraut mixture. Broil 8-10 minutes. Serve in toasted frankfurter rolls.

A one-dish dinner, not exactly answering to the description of casserole, but still combining the meal elements in one dish, is Sauerkraut Royal. Apple and onion join with the kraut and frankfurters to make a tasty blend in this delicious top-of-the- stove meal.

The Precision-Mixed Way—Proven for 27 Years

For 27 years millions of housewives have used Flako Pie Crust Mix. They have never known pie-baking "ups and downs." They have never had to bother with measuring and sifting. Rice Molds With Creamed Ham Are Meal-On-A-Platter

The meal-on-a-platter service is an example of American homemakers' good management. In the first place the foods attractively arranged, one complimenting the other, add beauty to the meal. Then second, the platter-meal simplifies service, and thirdly, not to be overlooked, it cuts down on dish washing. You may say, what's one more dish? Well, maybe one more at a time isn't so much, but think about that "one more" over a year? That's a heap-a-pile of dishes!

For this meal-on-a-platter, we have thought of simple ingredients that the average kitchen would have, or the recipe could easily be adjusted to fit in with what is available. For instance, if ham is not waiting in the refrigerator, dried beef could be used or one of the canned meat products. Of course, a self-respecting kitchen shelf wouldn't be caught dead without a supply of polished white rice on it.

Rice Molds With Creamed Ham

One cup raw, polished white rice, 2½ cups water, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Cook the rice as described below. In a small skillet melt the fat and saute the onion. Mix onion, fat and seasonings in with the rice. Press into greased individual molds. Place the filled molds in a pan of hot water and allow to simmer on top of the stove while making the sauce.

Creamed Ham Sauce

Three-fourths pound of ham or 2 cups of cubed meat, 1 cup sliced mushrooms or a small can of stems and pieces, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 tablespoons flour, 2½ cups milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon salt or omit if the meat is highly seasoned, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Melt the butter or margarine in a skillet or heavy saucepan and add mushrooms. Saute lightly. Push back to one side and blend in the flour. Add milk gradually, stirring all the time. Cook until the sauce is smooth and has thickened. Add cubed ham and seasonings. Allow to simmer a few minutes to blend into happy union.

Fluffy White Rice

Put 1 cup of white rice, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 cups cold water in a two-quart saucepan. Cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until its boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more. During this time the rice will absorb the water and come out deliciously tender. Remove the lid to permit the rice to steam dry. Lift rice with a fork to test its consistency.

To serve, unmold the rice molds on a hot platter, and surround with the ham sauce. What a pretty dish of nourishment it is!

Krautfurters
(Serves 6)

12 frankfurters
3 cups sauerkraut
¾ teaspoon caraway seeds
½ cup catsup
12 slices bacon

Cut frankfurters lengthwise but do not cut all the way through. Combine sauerkraut, caraway seeds and catsup, mixing well. Stuff split frankfurters with sauerkraut mixture. Wrap a slice of bacon around each frankfurter, fasten with toothpicks. Broil about 10 minutes or until browned.

A good rarebit is always ideal for lunches and suppers. Here is a rarebit variation with a different twist, sure to go over big with guests, or your own family.

Baked Eggs, Spanish Rice Give Variety

Are you sitting there pondering what in the world you can have to eat for dinner? The gremlins whispered to me that you were fresh out of ideas, so I gave one of them this recipe to help you out.

This is a hearty dish. It's inexpensive, too, and more than that it's pretty to look at and should claim exclamations for itself — and for you, the maker. Here 'tis:

Baked Eggs With Spanish Rice
(For six servings)

1 cup raw polished white rice
1 No. 2½ can of tomatoes or 3½ cups of canned tomatoes
½ small onion, sliced
½ bay leaf
3 cloves
1 teaspoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
6 eggs
3 tablespoons grated cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Simmer tomatoes, onion, salt, bay leaf and cloves together for ten minutes. Strain through a sieve. In a saucepan, melt the butter or margarine and blend in the flour. Add strained tomatoes and cook, stirring constantly until the sauce thickens. Re-season to taste.

Cook the rice as described below and place in a greased casserole, making six depressions in the top surface of the rice. Break an egg into each depression. Pour tomato sauce around and over all—carefully now, so the eggs aren't disturbed in their nests. Sprinkle the grated cheese over the top of all and scatter the buttered bread crumbs over the cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, about 350 degrees until the eggs are firm. This usually takes about 20 minutes.

Fluffy White Rice

Put one cup of white rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups cold water in a two-quart saucepan. Cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until its boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more. During this time, the rice will absorb the water and come out deliciously tender. Remove the lid to permit the rice to steam dry. Lift rice with a fork to test its consistency.

There is an extra value to this dish—it can be increased to meet the needs of the large family or the proportions can be reduced for the twosome. And it serves well in the little individual casseroles, if you have them.

Cheese Krautfurters
(Serves 4)

1¾ cups sauerkraut
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
½ teaspoon caraway seeds
8 frankfurters
8 frankfurter rolls

Combine sauerkraut, cheese and caraway seeds; mix well. Split frankfurters lengthwise, but do not cut all the way through. Stuff with sauerkraut mixture. Broil 8-10 minutes. Serve in toasted frankfurter rolls.

A one-dish dinner, not exactly answering to the description of casserole, but still combining the meal elements in one dish, is Sauerkraut Royal. Apple and onion join with the kraut and frankfurters to make a tasty blend in this delicious top-of-the- stove meal.

Meal-a-Minute Served In Mile High Kitchen

FOOD ASSEMBLY LINE . . . Stewardess Lois Wharton speeds up meal production in galley of giant new clipper America.

AP Newsfeatures

SEATTLE, Wash. — The average housewife would throw up her hands in holy horror if faced with the necessity of cooking and serving three meals a day to 69 persons, with cocktails and snacks in between times.

Yet that's the chore soon to be undertaken by pretty Lois Wharton, stewardess slated for Pan American's giant new clipper America, shortly to be put in service.

Lois expects to accomplish this task with the greatest of ease, however. Through long training, she has learned all the tricks that no doubt will be employed by the housewife of 1959.

Lois really likes to cook, and uses the short-cuts she has learned preparing meals aloft to simplify entertaining in her own small modern apartment.

It's all in having the right equipment, says Lois. Her galley aboard the huge new double-deck clipper was worked out by engineers of Pan American, the Boeing Airplane Company and the Maxson Food System, who decided the job could be done only one way.

They spent large sums of money and many hours of time on a time and motion study reducing the preparation of a meal to its smiplest components. They engineered the galley so that meals could be prepared on the assembly line principle; and they developed pre-cooked frozen food and ready-prepared salads and desserts.

The production line for the meal starts on the right as you enter the semi-circular galley, located in the tail of the plane. There Lois will take pre-cooked frozen meals consisting of entree and two vegetables out of their deep-freeze oven, where they are heated for 18 minutes.

Glasss, cups, saucers, knives, forks, spoons, bread, butter and condiments are assembled in order on trays which move around to receive the main course out of the oven just as it is ready to serve. As the tray follows the production around, soup, fruit juice and coffee are added last. Meals are served at the rate of one a minute.

After her training in the super-efficiency of her mile-high kitchen, Lois has no fears of becoming laden down with housework if and when she leaves her job for marriage and a home. Says she:

"I'll just have an engineer do a time-and-motion study for me, and with the right equipment I should be able to take care of a house and do the cooking in half an hour a day."

Krautfurter Rarebit
(Serves 3-4)

1 10½ ounce can condensed tomato soup (1¼ cups)
¾ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
½ cup sauerkraut
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 frankfurters, cut into ¼ inch pieces

To the hot tomato soup add the remaining ingredients. Heat over a low flame, stirring constantly, until the cheese is melted and the mixture is thoroughly heated. Serve immediately over toast or crispy crackers.

"Krautfurter" Variation Of Old Favorite Kraut, Wieners

Perfect for an after the card game supper is the time honored combination of kraut and franks. Here's a delightful and attractive way to serve them up for company.

Tangy Krautfurter Casserole
(Serves 4)

4 frankfurters
2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
3 tablespoons diced onion
2½ cups sauerkraut
2 raw carrots, grated
¼ teaspoon caraway seeds
½ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cut frankfurters into ½ inch pieces. Melt butter in a frying pan; add frankfurter slices and onion and saute about 5 minutes or until browned. Add to sauerkraut, carrots and caraway seeds; mix well. Turn into a greased casserole. Combine chili sauce and lemon juice, pour over top of casserole. Bake in a 350°F. oven 25-30 minutes.

"Krautfurter"

Kraut and frankfurters are a perfect hot dish, but served cold, they have many a good possibility. This is particularly true in salad preparation, where the crisp tang of kraut makes a perfect foundation. There's an art to tossing a terrific salad, one that has your guests speculating as to what combination you used to get the delicious final result. Here's a really unusual salad mix that will add much to your reputation as salad tosser de-luxe.

Meal-a-Minute Served In Mile High Kitchen

FOOD ASSEMBLY LINE . . . Stewardess Lois Wharton speeds up meal production in galley of giant new clipper America.

AP Newsfeatures

SEATTLE, Wash. — The average housewife would throw up her hands in holy horror if faced with the necessity of cooking and serving three meals a day to 69 persons, with cocktails and snacks in between times.

Yet that's the chore soon to be undertaken by pretty Lois Wharton, stewardess slated for Pan American's giant new clipper America, shortly to be put in service.

Lois expects to accomplish this task with the greatest of ease, however. Through long training, she has learned all the tricks that no doubt will be employed by the housewife of 1959.

Lois really likes to cook, and uses the short-cuts she has learned preparing meals aloft to simplify entertaining in her own small modern apartment.

It's all in having the right equipment, says Lois. Her galley aboard the huge new double-deck clipper was worked out by engineers of Pan American, the Boeing Airplane Company and the Maxson Food System, who decided the job could be done only one way.

They spent large sums of money and many hours of time on a time and motion study reducing the preparation of a meal to its smiplest components. They engineered the galley so that meals could be prepared on the assembly line principle; and they developed pre-cooked frozen food and ready-prepared salads and desserts.

The production line for the meal starts on the right as you enter the semi-circular galley, located in the tail of the plane. There Lois will take pre-cooked frozen meals consisting of entree and two vegetables out of their deep-freeze oven, where they are heated for 18 minutes.

Glasss, cups, saucers, knives, forks, spoons, bread, butter and condiments are assembled in order on trays which move around to receive the main course out of the oven, just as it is ready to serve. As the tray follows the production around, soup, fruit juice and coffee are added last. Meals are served at the rate of one a minute.

After her training in the super-efficiency of her mile-high kitchen, Lois has no fears of becoming laden down with housework if and when she leaves her job for marriage and a home. Says she:

"I'll just have an engineer do a time-and-motion study for me, and with the right equipment I should be able to take care of a house and do the cooking in half an hour a day."

Krautfurter Rarebit
(Serves 3-4)

1 10½ ounce can condensed tomato soup (1½ cups)
¾ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
½ cup sauerkraut
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 frankfurters, cut into ¼ inch pieces

To the hot tomato soup add the remaining ingredients. Heat over a low flame, stirring constantly, until the cheese is melted and the mixture is thoroughly heated. Serve immedately over toast or crispy crackers.

"Krautfurter" Variation Of Old Favorite Kraut, Wieners

Perfect for an after the card game supper is the time honored combination of kraut and franks. Here's a delightful and attractive way to serve them up for company.

Tangy Krautfurter Casserole
(Serves 4)

4 frankfurters
2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine
3 tablespoons diced onion
2½ cups sauerkraut
2 raw carrots, grated
¼ teaspoon caraway seeds
½ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cut frankfurters into ½ inch pieces. Melt butter in a frying pan; add frankfurter slices and onion and saute about 5 minutes or until browned. Add to sauerkraut, carrots and caraway seeds; mix well. Turn into a greased casserole. Combine chili sauce and lemon juice, pour over top of casserole. Bake in a 350°F. oven 25-30 minutes.

"Krautfurter"

Kraut and frankfurters are a perfect hot dish, but served cold, they have many a good possibility. This is particularly true in salad preparation, where the crisp tang of kraut makes a perfect foundation. There's an art to tossing a terrific salad, one that has your guests speculating as to what combination you used to get the delicious final result. Here's a really unusual salad mix that will add much to your reputation as salad tosser de-luxe.

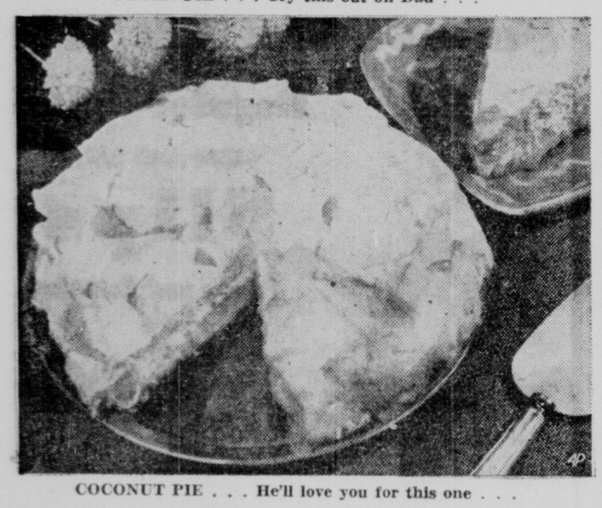
Way To Every Man's Heart

PECAN PIE . . . Try this out on Dad . . .



COCONUT PIE . . . He'll love you for this one . . .

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Rich and wonderful are the pies pictured here — Pecan and Coconut Cream. And they're easier to make than you might think. Use a packaged pastry mix for the crusts, if you like, or make your own. Although Pecan Pie is originally a Southern creation there isn't a part of the country that won't vote for it.

PECAN PIE

Ingredients: For Crust — 1 cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup shortening, 2 to 3 tablespoons ice water. For filling — 1½ cups dark corn syrup, 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup pecan nutmeats.

Method — To Make Crust — Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with fork or pastry blender until it is the size of peas. Add ice water a little at a time, mixing only enough to hold ingredients together. Place dough on lightly floured board and roll to about ⅛-inch thickness. Line a 9-inch heat-resistant glass crinkle edge pie plate with it. Tuck pastry under so that it just comes to top edge of pie plate and press pastry into flutes on pie plate. To Make Filling—Cook corn syrup and brown sugar together until mixture begins to boil. Remove from heat; stir in butter or margarine. Add ¼ teaspoon salt. Cool. Beat eggs; add beaten eggs to syrup mixture. Pour filling into unbaked pastry shell. Sprinkle pecan nutmeats on top of filling. Bake in moderate (350F.) over for about 50 minutes or until done.

COCONUT CREAM PIE

Ingredients: 5 tablespoons corn starch, ½ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups extra-sweet light corn syrup, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs (separated), 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup shredded coconut, 1 nine-inch baked pie shell.

Method: Put the corn starch, salt and 1 cup of the corn syrup into a saucepan. Stir until blended. Add butter or margarine and milk. Heat to boiling over direct heat and boil gently 1½ minutes, or until mixture becomes thick and clear, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks; gradually add hot custard and blend thoroughly. Return to heat and continue cooking 1 minute. Add vanilla and coconut. Pour into baked pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the remaining ¼ cup corn syrup. Spread meringue over top of pie, carefully sealing in all the filling by spreading so that meringue touches all edges of crust. Bake in slow (300F.) oven, about 25 to 30 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve cold.

Salmon Grapefruit Mold

1 envelope unflavored gelatine, 1 cup milk, 2 egg yolks, 1¼ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons milk vinegar, 2 cups flaked salmon, 1½ cups drained, diced grapefruit sections.

Soften gelatine in cold milk in top of double boiler. Put over boiling water and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Combine the egg yolks, salt, mustard and paprika and beat slightly. Add small amount of the milk to the egg yolk mixture and return to double boiler. Cook over hot, not boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened very slightly. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in vinegar and flaked fish. Fold in grapefruit sections. Turn into coffee can and chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with greens and serve with mayonnaise. YIELD: 6 servings.

Molded Vegetable Salad

1 No. 2 can mixed vegetables
Water
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup mild vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced onion.

Drain vegetables and add water to liquid to make 1 cup. Soften gelatine in liquid and place over boiling water, stirring constantly until dissolved. Stir in salt, sugar, vinegar, lemon juice and minced onion. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Stir in vegetables. Turn into No. 2 can and chill until firm. To unmold: Dip in warm water to the depth of the gelatine and loosen around edge with the tip of a paring knife; open can to allow air to come in at bottom. Place serving dish on top of can and turn upside down. If gelatine does not unmold readily, remove entire bottom of can and press out. YIELD: 6 servings.

Apricot Two-Tone Whip

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold apricot nector
1¼ cups hot apricot nectar
⅓ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatine in cold apricot nectar. Add hot apricot nectar, sugar and salt; stir until dissolved. Pour ½ of the gelatine mixture into individual custard cups; chill until almost firm. Chill remaining gelatine until slightly thicker than the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Beat with rotary beater until fluffy. Pour on top of clear gelatine in custard cups; chill until firm. Unmold and serve plain or with whipped cream or custard sauce. YIELD: 6 servings.

Orange Bavarian Cream

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1¼ cups orange juice
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 eggs, separated
⅔ cup icy cold evaporated milk

Soften gelatine in orange juice in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water. Add sugar, salt and orange rind and stir until gelatine and sugar are dissolved. Beat egg yolks slightly. Slowly pour small amount of the hot mixture over egg yolks. Return to double boiler and cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, about three minutes until the mixture is thickened very slightly. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Whip icy cold evaporated milk; fold in gelatine mixture. Turn into orange shells and chill until firm. Unmold and serve plain or garnish with whipped cream and orange sections. YIELD: 6 servings.

Pineapple Snow Pudding

1 No. 1 can crushed pineapple (1 cup)
Water
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg whites.

Drain pineapple well and add water to syrup to make 1¼ cups. Soften gelatine in ½ cup liquid. Heat remaining liquid to boiling; add to gelatine with sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Stir in lemon juice. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Add crushed pineapple. Whip until light. Beat egg whites until stiff; add gelatine mixture. Place the bowl in ice water; continue to beat until mixture begins to hold its shape. Turn into souffle cups or paper containers and chill until firm. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Sauerkraut Royal
(Serves 6)

¼ cup buttered or fortified margarine
9 frankfurters
⅓ cup diced onion
4 cups sauerkraut
½ cup sauerkraut juice drained from can
2 cups diced apple

Melt butter in a large skillet; split frankfurters in half lengthwise and brown in butter, turning to brown both sides. Also add onion and saute until browned. When frankfurters are browned remove them from pan; add sauerkraut, sauerkraut juice and apple to onion and mix well. Place frankfurters on top of sauerkraut; cover skillet and cook over low heat about 15-20 minutes or until apple is tender.

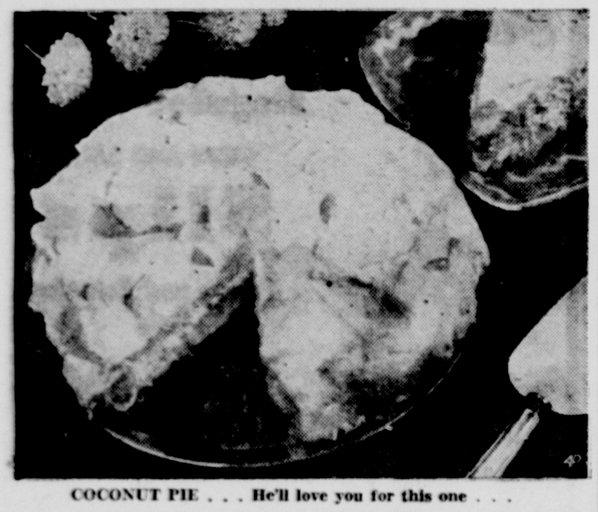
Way To Every Man's Heart

PECAN PIE . . . Try this out on Dad . . .



COCONUT PIE . . . He'll love you for this one . . .

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Rich and wonderful are the pies pictured here — Pecan and Coconut Cream. And they're easier to make than you might think. Use a packaged pastry mix for the crusts, if you like, or make your own. Although Pecan Pie is originally a Southern creation there isn't a part of the country that won't vote for it.

PECAN PIE

Ingredients: For Crust — 1 cup sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup shortening, 2 to 3 tablespoons ice water. For filling — 1½ cups dark corn syrup, 1 cup brown sugar, ¾ cup butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup pecan nutmeats.

Method — To Make Crust — Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with fork or pastry blender until it is the size of peas. Add ice water a little at a time, mixing only enough to hold ingredients together. Place dough on lightly floured board and roll to about ⅛-inch thickness. Line a 9-inch heat-resistant glass crinkle edge pie plate with it. Tuck pastry under so that it just comes to top edge of pie plate and press pastry into flutes on pie plate. To Make Filling—Cook corn syrup and brown sugar together until mixture begins to boil. Remove from heat; stir in butter or margarine. Add ¾ teaspoon salt. Cool. Beat eggs; add beaten eggs to syrup mixture. Pour filling into unbaked pastry shell. Sprinkle pecan nutmeats on top of filling. Bake in moderate (350F.) over for about 50 minutes or until done.

COCONUT CREAM PIE

Ingredients: 5 tablespoons corn starch, ½ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups extra-sweet light corn syrup, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs (separated), 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup shredded coconut, 1 nine-inch baked pie shell.

Method: Put the corn starch, salt and 1 cup of the corn syrup into a saucepan. Stir until blended. Add butter or margarine and milk. Heat to boiling over direct heat and boil gently 1½ minutes, or until mixture becomes thick and clear, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks; gradually add hot custard and blend thoroughly. Return to heat and continue cooking 1 minute. Add vanilla and coconut. Pour into baked pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the remaining ¼ cup corn syrup. Spread meringue over top of pie, carefully sealing in all the filling by spreading so that meringue touches all edges of crust. Bake in slow (300F.) oven, about 25 to 30 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve cold.

Salmon Grapefruit Mold

1 envelope unflavored gelatine, 1 cup milk, 2 egg yolks, 1¼ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons milk vinegar, 2 cups flaked salmon, 1½ cups drained, diced grapefruit sections.

Soften gelatine in cold milk in top of double boiler. Put over boiling water and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Combine the egg yolks, salt, mustard and paprika and beat slightly. Add small amount of the milk to the egg yolk mixture and return to double boiler. Cook over hot, not boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened very slightly. Remove from heat; cool. Stir in vinegar and flaked fish. Fold in grapefruit sections. Turn into coffee can and chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with greens and serve with mayonnaise. YIELD: 6 servings.

Molded Vegetable Salad

1 No. 2 can mixed vegetables
Water
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup mild vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced onion.

Drain vegetables and add water to liquid to make 1 cup. Soften gelatine in liquid and place over boiling water, stirring constantly until dissolved. Stir in salt, sugar, vinegar, lemon juice and minced onion. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Stir in vegetables. Turn into No. 2 can and chill until firm. To unmold: Dip in warm water to the depth of the gelatine and loosen around edge with the tip of a paring knife; open can to allow air to come in at bottom. Place serving dish on top of can and turn upside down. If gelatine does not unmold readily, remove entire bottom of can and press out. YIELD: 6 servings.

Apricot Two-Tone Whip

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold apricot nector
1¼ cups hot apricot nectar
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatine in cold apricot nectar. Add hot apricot nectar, sugar and salt; stir until dissolved. Pour ½ of the gelatine mixture into individual custard cups; chill until almost firm. Chill remaining gelatine until slightly thicker than the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Beat with rotary beater until fluffy. Pour on top of clear gelatine in custard cups; chill until firm. Unmold and serve plain or with whipped cream or custard sauce. YIELD: 6 servings.

Orange Bavarian Cream

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1¼ cups orange juice
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 eggs, separated
⅔ cup icy cold evaporated milk

Soften gelatine in orange juice in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water. Add sugar, salt and orange rind and stir until gelatine and sugar are dissolved. Beat egg yolks slightly. Slowly pour small amount of the hot mixture over egg yolks. Return to double boiler and cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, about three minutes until the mixture is thickened very slightly. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Whip icy cold evaporated milk; fold in gelatine mixture. Turn into orange shells and chill until firm. Unmold and serve plain or garnish with whipped cream and orange sections. YIELD: 6 servings.

Pineapple Snow Pudding

1 No. 1 can crushed pineapple (1 cup)
Water
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg whites.

Drain pineapple well and add water to syrup to make 1¼ cups. Soften gelatine in ½ cup liquid. Heat remaining liquid to boiling; add to gelatine with sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Stir in lemon juice. Chill until mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Add crushed pineapple. Whip until light. Beat egg whites until stiff; add gelatine mixture. Place the bowl in ice water; continue to beat until mixture begins to hold its shape. Turn into souffle cups or paper containers and chill until firm. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Sauerkraut Royal
(Serves 6)

¼ cup buttered or fortified margarine
9 frankfurters
½ cup diced onion
4 cups sauerkraut
½ cup sauerkraut juice drained from can
2 cups diced apple

Melt butter in a large skillet; split frankfurters in half lengthwise and brown in butter, turning to brown both sides. Also add onion and saute until browned. When frankfurters are browned remove them from pan; add sauerkraut, sauerkraut juice and apple to onion and mix well. Place frankfurters on top of sauerkraut; cover skillet and cook over low heat about 15-20 minutes or until apple is tender.

JUST BETWEEN US

By NANCY MOTTRAM

In a Jam? Don't Let It Go On

(Q) "Dear Nancy: This is a problem which I can't solve myself and hesitate to tell anyone about, because it might turn into an issue at home; but I'm at loss to know what to do. It seems that I have definitely gotten on the wrong side of one of my teachers, and I have difficulty about my homework and lessons in her class. It's not pleasant, and I can't do my best, and as a result, my parents have been quite angry with me. I wonder if you could help me."

Nancy Mottram

(A) The best and simplest thing to do is to get at the root of the trouble right now and straighten it out before it goes any further. Find out when she isn't busy, or else ask to talk to her after classes and explain your problem. One or both of you must have an idea as to what's wrong, and by talking it over privately, you can understand each other's viewpoint, and figure out a solution. It's necessary for your peace of mind, and when you tell her exactly how you feel, you can discuss the difficulties without bringing any other parties into it.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Some time ago, a boy I was going with broke up with me for another girl, and soon after, I heard they were going steady. Just a couple of days ago, I found out that they had decided to part company, and I've been trying to decide whether or not I should ask him to a dance our club is giving soon. You see, I still like him, but since he did the breaking up, I'm not sure if I should invite him. What do you think?"

(A) In spite of the fact that he's stopped dating the girl who took your place, he hasn't made any move to see you again. And it might not be such a good idea to invite him to your dance right after this break-up. He was the one who decided on the parting of the ways when you were dating him, and it would be better to let him call you, if you two are to start seeing each other again. Ask someone else instead, and wait and see if he shows any interest in you first.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: My cousin is coming to visit me very soon, and I've already arranged several dates for her while she's here. One of the boys who dated her on her last visit has asked to see her again, and though I know she didn't like him too well, I said I'd fix it up. I wrote her about it, and she refuses to date him. What can I do?"

(A) If she won't go through with it gracefully, there's nothing you can do but tell him it's all off. Explain that you discovered you have just enough dates for her to take up her extra evenings, and that you don't know what to do about it now. His feelings won't be hurt as they would if you quoted her reply, and her visit with you will be much more peaceful.

Nancy can help with all your teen-age problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Two Spanish refugees passed the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. "If I only had that man's millions," sighed one of them, "I'd be richer than he is." "That doesn't make sense," the other reminded him. 'If you had Mr. Rockefeller's millions, you'd be just as rich as he is — not richer."

"You're wrong," the first assured him. "Don't forget that I could give Spanish lessons on the side!"

When Heywood Broun was employed by the New York Tribune, he tried in vain to persuade Ogden Reid, the publisher, to raise the salaries of the entire staff. A few weeks later, Broun was invited to spend a weekend at the Reid estate in Purchase. As he drove into the private roadway, he noticed that a beautiful new fence was being built around the entire place. "Humphh," snorted Broun. "Millions for de fence, but not a cent for Tribune!"

JUST BETWEEN US

By NANCY MOTTRAM

In a Jam? Don't Let It Go On

(Q) "Dear Nancy: This is a problem which I can't solve myself and hesitate to tell anyone about, because it might turn into an issue at home; but I'm at loss to know what to do. It seems that I have definitely gotten on the wrong side of one of my teachers, and I have difficulty about my homework and lessons in her class. It's not pleasant, and I can't do my best, and as a result, my parents have been quite angry with me. I wonder if you could help me."

Nancy Mottram

(A) The best and simplest thing to do is to get at the root of the trouble right now and straighten it out before it goes any further. Find out when she isn't busy, or else ask to talk to her after classes and explain your problem. One or both of you must have an idea as to what's wrong, and by talking it over privately, you can understand each other's viewpoint, and figure out a solution. It's necessary for your peace of mind, and when you tell her exactly how you feel, you can discuss the difficulties without bringing any other parties into it.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Some time ago, a boy I was going with broke up with me for another girl, and soon after, I heard they were going steady. Just a couple of days ago, I found out that they had decided to part company, and I've been trying to decide whether or not I should ask him to a dance our club is giving soon. You see, I still like him, but since he did the breaking up, I'm not sure if I should invite him. What do you think?"

(A) In spite of the fact that he's stopped dating the girl who took your place, he hasn't made any move to see you again. And it might not be such a good idea to invite him to your dance right after this break-up. He was the one who decided on the parting of the ways when you were dating him, and it would be better to let him call you, if you two are to start seeing each other again. Ask someone else instead, and wait and see if he shows any interest in you first.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: My cousin is coming to visit me very soon, and I've already arranged several dates for her while she's here. One of the boys who dated her on her last visit has asked to see her again, and though I know she didn't like him too well, I said I'd fix it up. I wrote her about it, and she refuses to date him. What can I do?"

(A) If she won't go through with it gracefully, there's nothing you can do but tell him it's all off. Explain that you discovered you have just enough dates for her to take up her extra evenings, and that you don't know what to do about it now. His feelings won't be hurt as they would if you quoted her reply, and her visit with you will be much more peaceful.

Nancy can help with all your teen-age problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Rent Office Records Not Open To Public

Only landlords and tenants of a specific property or their representatives are entitled to information from the Area Rent Office concerning maximum rents and other data concerning the property involved, Walter R. Heath, area rent director, said yesterday.

Heath said records on file at the rent office are not open to the public.

For this reason, he added, persons legitimately entitled to information of this sort are asked to visit the rent office or to write a letter to the office asking the information. He explained that it is difficult to identify a telephone caller's voice.

Slain Man's Relatives To Protest Probation

The probation of Sherman McBrayer, Raceland, Ky., convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the slaying of Vincent O. See, Mooretield, W. Va., will be contested by relatives of the dead man, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Greenup, Ky.

Commonwealth Attorney L. H. Liles said the protests were scheduled to be presented personally before Circuit Judge J. W. Sowards yesterday.

State Senator Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, was also scheduled to appear in the case. McBrayer was sentenced to serve 12 years.

Sunday Liquor Sales Illegal In County

The Allegany County delegation to the Legislature has received numerous requests to outlaw Sunday sales of beer and liquor, Chairman Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., said yesterday.

Whitworth explained that under a law passed two years ago it is illegal to sell any intoxicant in the county on Sunday.

Whitworth said anyone noticing violations should report them to law enforcement officials.

It was 25 years ago—1923—that the first cluster type steel mill for rolling sheets up to 60 inches wide and strip in a wide range was given a successful trial.

Aldridge Criticizes Car Removal Orders

Sharp exception to police orders to tow away cars parked in loading zones in downtown Cumberland was raised yesterday in a statement by Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO.

Aldridge, who explained he had become personally involved in Cumberland's traffic problem, said he could not help but comment on the "blundering efforts" of Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the traffic division.

He added that all that was achieved by having cars towed off the street Wednesday was to remove approximately $25 to $30 from the tills of local merchants by having the cars removed.

Everyone, he continued, knows the conditions and complications of Cumberland's streets, yet Lt. Lilya waited until they were choked and clogged with snow to start a ticket crusade.

Aldridge suggested that Lt. Raymond R. Johnston be named to head the traffic division.

Chemical Society To Have Open Meeting

The meeting of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society tonight at 7:30 at Ali Ghan Country Club will be open to the public.

The society announced the meeting will be open because of the wide interest in this area in stream pollution problems.

Hodge is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and Yale University and has taught chemistry at Albany College, University of North Dakota and Oregon State College.

He was head of the chemical engineering department at West Virginia University from 1921 to 1945 and in 1944 and 1945 was head of the university's College of Engineering.

From 1945 he has been associated with the Mellon Institute on the Koppers Industrial Effluents Treatment Fellowship. He is the author of numerous papers on industrial waste disposal and stream pollution.

Doctor Advocates Branding Women

LONDAON — (AP) — Dr. James Wyatt, London obstetrician, thinks all women someday will be branded to show whether their rh (rhesus) blood factor is negative or positive.

A brand would avoid hasty transfusions of the wrong type of blood—a mistake that can be dangerous, Wyatt write in the "Practitioner," a British medical journal.

Senior Boys Give Assembly Program

A home room group of senior boys at Fort Hill High School entertained the senior high assembly at the school yesterday.

Taking both the male and female parts, the boys presented a variety program, centered around a nautical theme. Continuity was written in verse by Bill Wilson.

"Seafaring" was sung by Clarence Thompson. A quartette, composed of Glen Burke, James Alderton, Clarence Thompson, and Bill Wilson, sang "Sailing" and "Blow the Man Down." James Bolyard and Keneth Shipe danced "The Sailor's Hornpipe."

A mystery comedy, "Murder on the High Seas," climaxed the program. Allan Bosley enacted the role of Captain Merman. Others in the cast were Royce Courtney, Jack Holliday, Charles Lattimer, Bender Wotring, Darrell Baker, Bill Miller, and John Lizer.

Prologues were given by Riley Payne, James Nixon, Frank Nethken, William Mumper, and George McElfish.

The executive staff included Darrell Baker, Charles Lattimer, Clarence Thompson and Royce Courtney on the casting committee. John Findlay and Thomas Furlow mimeographed programs; Lee Mackereth, Robert Eyler, and Bill Wagus collected properties; James Morris, Richard Wheeler, LeRoy Blacklin did the stage work.

Assisting Miss Gerardine Pritchard, home room teacher, were Miss Annetta Yates, music; Mrs. Leonore Resser, dance; Theodore Foote, stage; Robert Price, programs; and Carl Tribut, assistant director.

Jobless List Hits 10-Year High Mark

More persons are listed as unemployed at the Maryland Employment office here than at any time since 1939, according to Patrick J. Carroll, office manager.

Carroll said 3,248 persons are on the active lists at the local office, 570 of these having applied during January.

The employment office was able to hake only 93 placements last month. Carroll said the figure was the lowest he could remember for any month since the office opened here in 1937.

Fleek Testifies Road Relocation Damaged Farm

Says Work Caus d Him Loss Of $5,000

KEYSER, W. Va. — The relocation of the Fountain-Headsville Road damaged the farm of Samuel A. Fleek more than $5,000, the Mineral County farmer stated yesterday when he took the witness stand in the condemnation suit against him by the West Virginia State Roads Commission in Circuit Court here.

The defendant stated it would cost $1,200 to replace a woven wire fence removed for the relocation and that he would lose $1,000 because the water supply to his stock has been cut off. The road also cut off part of some land he had subdivided in lots for a loss he places at $1,500. A shade tree, 30 or 40 feet from his front porch, which was cut down, was valued at $500, and he told the jury he had to feed his stock some $200 worth of hay when they were taken from the pasture to the barn lot.

Fleek declined to estimate the loss of a strip of land that was left between the old and new roads which is now, he said, "of no value" to him. He also declined to estimate his loss on some timber that had been cut for the right-of-way, or to a portion of his front yard.

A price of $650 was set for 1.7 acres of Fleek's land by a board of commissioners last summer. Following the appraisal Fleek appeared before the court and asked that another group of commissioners be appointed as the original appraisers were, he claimed, misadvised and acting under prejudiced circumstances as some of them were not duly qualified to act because of relationship by blood and marriage to the parties interested in settling the case. The original appraisers selected by the attorneys for Fleek and the State Road Commission were C. I. Homas, S. S. Smith, Russell Stickley and G. H. Ebert.

In November five men were chosen from a list of 13 disinterested freeholders to make a second appraisal of Fleek's land. They were Frank Jones, A. S. A. Holsinger, Albert Sites, John E. Umstot, and Harry Cumberlidge. The group appraised the land at $750. Fleek refused their appraisal.

Fleek is represented in the case by attorney N. Howard Rogers while Harry R. Taylor, Road Commission right-of-way attorney, and Mineral County Prosecuting Attorney Don Hott represent the State Roads. On cross-examination by Attorney Taylor yesterday Fleek said the assessed valuation of his farm is $2,000.

The case will go into its third day today with still more witnesses to be heard.

Also scheduled for trial today is the case of David Watkins, Cumberland, against Marco Pica, Morristown, N. J. Watkins is asking $1,000 for damage to his car which was involved in a collision with Pica's car on Knobley Mountain, Route 50, August 2, 1948. Watkins is represented by Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr.

The defendant stated it would cost $1,200 to replace a woven wire fence removed for the relocation and that he would lose $1,000 because the water supply to his stock has been cut off. The road also cut off part of some land he had subdivided in lots for a loss he places at $1,500. A shade tree, 30 or 40 feet from his front porch, which was cut down, was valued at $500, and he told the jury he had to feed his stock some $200 worth of hay when they were taken from the pasture to the barn lot.

Fleek declined to estimate the loss of a strip of land that was left between the old and new roads which is now, he said, "of no value" to him. He also declined to estimate his loss on some timber that had been cut for the right-of-way, or to a portion of his front yard.

A price of $650 was set for 1.7 acres of Fleek's land by a board of commissioners last summer. Following the appraisal Fleek appeared before the court and asked that another group of commissioners be appointed as the original appraisers were, he claimed, misadvised and acting under prejudiced circumstances as some of them were not duly qualified to act because of relationship by blood and marriage to the parties interested in settling the case. The original appraisers selected by the attorneys for Fleek and the State Road Commission were C. I. Homas, S. S. Smith, Russell Stickley and G. H. Ebert.

In November five men were chosen from a list of 13 disinterested freeholders to make a second appraisal of Fleek's land. They were Frank Jones, A. S. A. Holsinger, Albert Sites, John E. Umstot, and Harry Cumberlidge. The group appraised the land at $750. Fleek refused their appraisal.

Fleek is represented in the case by attorney N. Howard Rogers while Harry R. Taylor, Road Commission right-of-way attorney, and Mineral County Prosecuting Attorney Don Hott represent the State Roads. On cross-examination by Attorney Taylor yesterday Fleek said the assessed valuation of his farm is $2,000.

The case will go into its third day today with still more witnesses to be heard.

Also scheduled for trial today is the case of David Watkins, Cumberland, against Marco Pica, Morristown, N. J. Watkins is asking $1,000 for damage to his car which was involved in a collision with Pica's car on Knobley Mountain, Route 50, August 2, 1948. Watkins is represented by Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—(INS)—Ann Blyth, who just finished "Top O' The Morning" with Bing Crosby, returns to Universal-International to start "Come Be My Love" with Robert Montgomery.

Louella Parsons

In spite of her tender years, Ann is one whale of an actress and don't think Bill Goetz doesn't know it. When Frederic and Florence March were here, they said they would like Ann on Broadway. That's real praise, because the Marches do not usually like anything in Hollywood.

Bob Montgomery's pictures seem lucky for new girls. Wanda Hendrix gave her best performance with him in "Ride a Pink Horse." His new one, with Ann, is a light romance which starts the end of this month with Michael Gordon directing.

• — • — •

Eddie Sutherland, who has been in the motion picture business for 34 years, is deserting it for television and radio. Eddie and Edwina (Mrs. Sutherland) leave the end of this month for New York where he will join NBC as a director.

Eddie should be valuable to Video, because of his many years of experience as a director. He started as an actor with Marguerite Clark and Bebe Daniels. Then he became assistant to Charlie Chaplin, and finally became a director.

• — • — •

My exclusive story that Sam Goldwyn is forming a big international tie-up with Roberto Rossellini for Ingrid Bergman's next picture, annoyed Mr. Goldwyn, who told me off in no uncertain terms.

"But it's true, isn't it?" I asked.

"Yes, it's true, but you should have waited and printed it when everyone else did," he said.

That's not the way I do business, Sam, and you ought to know. When I know a story is true, I print it.

Alan and Gretchen Hale will become grandparents in August. His son, Alan, Jr., and his wife are expecting a baby at that time.

Lena Horne and Lennie Hayton were together at the Duke Ellington opening, and a few nights ago I saw them having dinner at a Beverly Hills cafe. That would seem to indicate there is no truth in the rumor that Lena goes to Reno to divorce Hayton.

Ingrid, who leaves April 1, will play a Swedish girl in the Rossellini picture. All the other members of the cast will be Italians.

• — • — •

Rosalind Russell, Freddie Brisson and Carl and Cleo Brisson all took off for La Quinta for a holiday. The Carl Brissons go directly from there to New York, where Carl has engagements.

Clark Gable had a big laugh when a pal of his came on the set on his birthday and handed him a North China daily news of 1937. It read: "'Parnell' hailed as the best picture of the year among Chinese fans." This is the all-time bad Gable picture, which Clark has been trying to forget for years.

Sitting at a table for two at Cafe Jay, oblivious to the rest of the world, were Nora Eddington Flynn and Dick Haymes. They apparently are more that way than ever. What will be the end no one knows.

Don Alvarado, who has been an assistant director at Warners for years, and before that was a good actor, plays a role of a Mexican official in "The Big Steal" at RKO. He has been lent by Warners.

One of Ida Lupino's birthday presents today from Collier Young was a director's chair with "Madame Director" written on it.

Everyone is wondering what John Huston meant when he received the critics award in New York for "Treasure Of the Sierre Madre." He called the awards "The Conscience Of Hollywood."

Dorothy Lamour and a party were on hand to applaud Victor Borge at the Cocoanut Grove. He is off to a good start and the place was crowded opening night.

That's all today.

It's Always Fair Weather With Love

WEATHER OR NOT . . . Sky swains can take heart. There's a Valentine for any kind of weather. Romantic belles can perk up—the chances are they will receive one of the 300,000,000 Valentines that make their way via Dan Cupid postman or the romantic suitor himself. If a girl is between 23 and 24 and a boy between 26 and 28 the chances are that Valentine will clinch the deal. The Census Bureau shows that these are peak years for marriageable Romeos and Juliets. But don't shun the love bug if you have passed the mark. More than 92 per cent of all Americans eventually marry. If a gal has reached 31 and a man 35, Census figures show they still have a 50-50 chance of eventually getting married. When she's 38 and he's 43, there still is a 25 per cent chance of them going to the altar. Dan's a busy man with his love magic—hot or cold, day or night, rain or shine his arrows find their targets for young or old.

Musical Ghost Laid

Since a lot of American newspapers printed stories about it, you may recall this particular apparition — the spirit, supposedly, of the great Nicolo Paganini, violin virtuoso of virtuosi who died in 1840.

Back in June, 1947, a movie company came to Genoa to make a film called "The Voice of Paganini." In it, Renato de Barbieri, ace Italian fiddler, was to play several Paganini compositions, on Paganini's own Guarnieri, which he willed to his beloved Genoa.

One night, in the great hall of the city's ducal palace, where Paganini himself often played, de Barbieri set about recording Paganini's "Le Streghe" (The Witches). At the opening notes, a mysterious voice echoed through the hall: "Sono Paganini, Sono Paganini" (I am Paganini).

There was pandemonium. A woman fainted. De Barbieri paused, started the sonata over again, played it through to the end. And the voice came again: "Bravo, bravo. Ah, le mie streghe, le mie streghe!" (Ah, my witches, my witches).

Knowing disbelief would meet their story, de Barbieri, Genoa's director of fine arts, the custodian of the Paganini Violin and the rest of the company routed out a notary and swore to what they had heard.

But then the movie people developed a curious reticence about the "ghost". Inquiries about the sound track met a wall of silence. Nobody would talk. And in time there were other, more important events, and reporters forgot the "ghost".

Now, at last, the story is out. An enterprising public relations man, it seems, concealed a ventriloquist—a well known Genoese, who weighs some 260 pounds — under the sound stage, with orders to "throw his voice" up to the Paganini violin.

Cattle means all domesticated quadrupeds, including cows, sheep, goats, horses, mules, and swine.

Come As You Are To See The King

MELBOURNE—(AP)—Australians have been told they will have to buy special clothes for the royal visit next year. It will be sufficient if Austrians wear their best suits, Acting Victorian Premier John G. McDonald told reporters.

McDonald said he was passing on advice from Buckingham Palace. The palace, he added, has advised that, while correct dress must be worn, the King and Queen have simple tastes.

If a girl is between 23 and 24 and a boy between 26 and 28 the chances are that Valentine will clinch the deal. The Census Bureau shows that these are peak years for marriageable Romeos and Juliets. But don't shun the love bug if you have passed the mark. More than 92 per cent of all Americans eventually marry. If a gal has reached 31 and a man 35, Census figures show they still have a 50-50 chance of eventually getting married. When she's 38 and he's 43, there still is a 25 per cent chance of them going to the altar. Dan's a busy man with his love magic—hot or cold, day or night, rain or shine his arrows find their targets for young or old.

Musical Ghost Laid

Since a lot of American newspapers printed stories about it, you may recall this particular apparition — the spirit, supposedly, of the great Nicolo Paganini, violin virtuoso of virtuosi who died in 1840.

Back in June, 1947, a movie company came to Genoa to make a film called "The Voice of Paganini." In it, Renato de Barbieri, ace Italian fiddler, was to play several Paganini compositions, on Paganini's own Guarnieri, which he willed to his beloved Genoa.

One night, in the great hall of the city's ducal palace, where Paganini himself often played, de Barbieri set about recording Paganini's "Le Streghe" (The Witches). At the opening notes, a mysterious voice echoed through the hall: "Sono Paganini, Sono Paganini" (I am Paganini).

There was pandemonium. A woman fainted. De Barbieri paused, started the sonata over again, played it through to the end. And the voice came again: "Bravo, bravo. Ah, le mie streghe, le mie streghe!" (Ah, my witches, my witches).

Knowing disbelief would meet their story, de Barbieri, Genoa's director of fine arts, the custodian of the Paganini Violin and the rest of the company routed out a notary and swore to what they had heard.

But then the movie people developed a curious reticence about the "ghost". Inquiries about the sound track met a wall of silence. Nobody would talk. And in time there were other, more important events, and reporters forgot the "ghost".

Now, at last, the story is out. An enterprising public relations man, it seems, concealed a ventriloquist—a well known Genoese, who weighs some 260 pounds — under the sound stage, with orders to "throw his voice" up to the Paganini violin.

Cattle means all domesticated quadrupeds, including cows, sheep, goats, horses, mules, and swine.

Come As You Are To See The King

MELBOURNE—(AP)—Australians have been told they will have to buy special clothes for the royal visit next year. It will be sufficient if Austrians wear their best suits, Acting Victorian Premier John G. McDonald told reporters.

McDonald said he was passing on advice from Buckingham Palace. The palace, he added, has advised that, while correct dress must be worn, the King and Queen have simple tastes.

Colbert And Ford Will Star In "No Time For Love"

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 — Claudette Colbert, an occasional radio visitor, gets back to the microphone Friday night via CBS. Along with Glenn Ford she will perform in the hour production of "No Time For Love," starting at the scheduled time of 9 o'clock.

Another CBS Friday drama spot, the playhouse at 10, is to have Claire Trevor, ex-radio regular, in The Dead Never Cry." It's a whodun-it.

Further in the drama schedule there is the MBS item, Great Scenes from Great Plays at 8 which this time is producing Les Tremayne, former First Nighter star, and Jessica Tandy, in "The World We Make."

Getting away from the drama, there's the usual fight at 10 on ABC. The scheduling calls for a welterweight-er between Paddy Young and Franie Palermo. This is a change from a former announced fight.

MBS says that at 3:30 it is putting in a weekly concert by the U. S. Naval academy band playing from Baltimore. . . . Also at 8:30 Yours for a Song, now occupying the former Leave it to the Girls time, MBS will have Norman Young and Georgia Gibbs to do the guest singing.

The Goldbergs On Television

Considerable well bred horror has been expressed at the thought that television would ultimately unleash visual soap opera on the American home, bringing about the final cultural downfall of the American housewife. Well, the first radio soap opera to plunge into television, "The Goldbergs," is in its third week on the C.B.S. network and, if this program is at all typical, we haven't anything to worry about. "The Goldbergs" is a fine show in all departments.

John Crosby

It is perhaps a little unkind to refer to "The Goldbergs" as soap opera in the first place, though the radio series fell into that category. It was one of the best, as well as one of the oldest, of daytime radio serials. Opening in November, 1929, it ran for seventeen years, after which Mrs. Gertrude Berg, who wrote the script and played the lead role of Molly Goldberg, called it quits, presumably out of sheer exhaustion.

In the fall of 1947, the Goldbergs bobbed up on Broadway as a play ("Me and Molly"). The critics found it rather slight for the main stem but it had a moderately successful run in New York and on the road. Incidentally, the Goldbergs have also been immortalized in a comic strip and in a number of vaudeville sketches. That family certainly gets around.

In television, it strikes me the Goldberg family has reached its ultimate and possibly most satisfactory means of expression. As usual Mrs. Berg writes the series and play Molly Goldberg. Opposite her as Molly's husband Jake is Philip Loeb, as deft and experienced an actor as can be found anywhere. Together they handle Mrs. Berg's immigrant English with extreme authority. The two Goldberg children, Sammy and Rosalie, are played by a pair of young Broadway veterans, Larry Robinson and Arlene McQuade, and they are about as competent as child actors ever get.

The Goldberg family, in the event you never caught them on the radio, the stage, the comic strips or vaudeville which seems hardly possible, live in a state of almost permanent desperation. The family crises are rather small but they tackle them with a ferocious Jewish energy and humor as if their lives depended on it. The family seeks an aparment and finds one. Molly tries to persuade Jake not to work so hard and fails.

The plots are all simple and credible without—at least up to this point—descending into the sentimental goo in which so much domestic comedy gets mired. Much of the Goldbergs' charm stems from the Jewish dialogue, a rich mismanagement of English, which after seventeen years I imagine Mrs. Berg can write in her sleep. It's difficult to reproduce accurately on paper, consisting, as it does, largely of eloquent shrugs, wild flutterings of the hands and skillful inflection.

"'Stop Worrying and Start Living.' That's a book?"

"So where should I leave it?"

Mrs. Berg is also extraordinarily expert at mangling a platitude. "Come will and come may, I must face it," she will say. "We're at the crossroads of the parting of the ways."

Worthington Minor, who appears to be directing about everything at C.B.S. except the elevators, seems to have solved the most difficult of directorial problems in television; he keeps the actors moving without losing them in the cameras or dwarfing them on the screen.

Judging by the Goldbergs, which is probably over optimistic, domestic serials may be one of the most popular types of dramatic show on television. For one thing, a permanent cast and permanent settings are a joy to any TV director to say nothing of the accounting department. For another, it makes the weekly chore fairly easy on the writers without being too hard on the listeners. My only hope is that other domestic comedies can keep up the pace set by the Goldbergs. I doubt it.

It is perhaps a little unkind to refer to "The Goldbergs" as soap opera in the first place, though the radio series fell into that category. It was one of the best, as well as one of the oldest, of daytime radio serials. Opening in November, 1929, it ran for seventeen years, after which Mrs. Gertrude Berg, who wrote the script and played the lead role of Molly Goldberg, called it quits, presumably out of sheer exhaustion.

In the fall of 1947, the Goldbergs bobbed up on Broadway as a play ("Me and Molly"). The critics found it rather slight for the main stem but it had a moderately successful run in New York and on the road. Incidentally, the Goldbergs have also been immortalized in a comic strip and in a number of vaudeville sketches. That family certainly gets around.

• — • — •

In television, it strikes me the Goldberg family has reached its ultimate and possibly most satisfactory means of expression. As usual Mrs. Berg writes the series and play Molly Goldberg. Opposite her as Molly's husband Jake is Philip Loeb, as deft and experienced an actor as can be found anywhere. Together they handle Mrs. Berg's immigrant English with extreme authority. The two Goldberg children, Sammy and Rosalie, are played by a pair of young Broadway veterans, Larry Robinson and Arlene McQuade, and they are about as competent as child actors ever get.

The Goldberg family, in the event you never caught them on the radio, the stage, the comic strips or vaudeville which seems hardly possible, live in a state of almost permanent desperation. The family crises are rather small but they tackle them with a ferocious Jewish energy and humor as if their lives depended on it. The family seeks an aparment and finds one. Molly tries to persuade Jake not to work so hard and fails.

The plots are all simple and credible without—at least up to this point—descending into the sentimental goo in which so much domestic comedy gets mired. Much of the Goldbergs' charm stems from the Jewish dialogue, a rich mismanagement of English, which after seventeen years I imagine Mrs. Berg can write in her sleep. It's difficult to reproduce accurately on paper, consisting, as it does, largely of eloquent shrugs, wild flutterings of the hands and skillful inflection.

"'Stop Worrying and Start Living.' That's a book?"

"So where should I leave it?"

Mrs. Berg is also extraordinarily expert at mangling a platitude. "Come will and come may, I must face it," she will say. "We're at the crossroads of the parting of the ways."

• — • — •

Worthington Minor, who appears to be directing about everything at C.B.S. except the elevators, seems to have solved the most difficult of directorial problems in television; he keeps the actors moving without losing them in the cameras or dwarfing them on the screen.

Judging by the Goldbergs, which is probably over optimistic, domestic serials may be one of the most popular types of dramatic show on television. For one thing, a permanent cast and permanent settings are a joy to any TV director to say nothing of the accounting department. For another, it makes the weekly chore fairly easy on the writers without being too hard on the listeners. My only hope is that other domestic comedies can keep up the pace set by the Goldbergs. I doubt it.

Truman Explains U. S. Democracy To Youngsters From Abroad

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Truman spoke a homely little lesson today on how democracy functions in the United States "so that no one has too much power."

His audience — a wide-eyed, delighted group of 34 teen-age youngsters from 17 Marshall Plan countries — broke into spontaneous handclapping at his words.

Only too well, they knew what he meant.

All of them, in more or less degree, have lived under the shadowy fear of dictatorships. But the President told them:

"The power is in the people themselves."

And then, unable to resist the temptation to crow a little over his election victory, Mr. Truman added with a chuckle:

"They demonstrated that completely in November."

Speaking informally to the youngsters in his oval room office at the White House, Mr. Truman said:

"I hope to see the time come when every section of the world will have a government that is a government of, and by, and for the people, as Mr. Lincoln said along in the 1860s.

"I sincerely hope x x x that eventually, when you get to be as old as I am, the United Nations will be functioning fully and completely in keeping the peace of the world — which we all want."

The boys and girls, each carrying a tiny flag of their own country, laughed delightedly as the President scolded them in his friendly off-the-cuff manner:

"I think you have been spending too much time in New York.

"New York is just the door of the United States. It is both the entry and the exit. You will find that that part of the country west of the Appalachian Mountains is most interesting, and I hope you had the chance to get to see the Grand Coulee Dam and the electrical installations in the Tennessee Valley. I also hope you had the opportunity to see something of the valleys of the Mississippi River.'

The youths, brought to the United States by the New York Herald Tribune as a reward for their prize-winning essays on the subject "The World We Want," have been touring the country. They plan to spend another month in New York before returning to their homes.

Mr. Truman explained how the American government works through three branches — legislative, executive and judicial — and he told them:

"It is not posed as the most efficient government in the world, but it is posed as one that is most just to the people of the United States."

Far from being shy, the youngsters from distant lands laughed and joked with the President and all demanded his autograph. He promised to send it to them.

For a young Turkish boy, Fuat Tekce, who somehow missed the party, Mr. Truman held a special one-boy reception later. Tekce told the President he had been "a little sick."

But a White House guard said he saw the boy arrive with his comrades and then suddenly tear back to his hotel — to fetch his diary for the President's signature.

A Theme To Ponder

CROSSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Miss Jane Underwood assigned to her high school sophomore class the writing of 50-word themes. She emphasized originality would pay off. Billy Higginsom wrote:

"Once upon a time I went for a walk. I walked and I walked and I walked (and so on) . . . and finally I got lost."

Miss Underwood graded the paper with a replying 50-word theme:

"Once upon a time I graded a theme. I thought and I thought and I thought . . . and finally I decided to give Billy Higginson a D-."

Paris Designers Reveal New Look At Opening Of Fashion Showings

PARIS, Feb. 3 (AP)—Paris fashion showings began today and from first glimpses there will be nothing revolutionary about "look '49".

Although it is too soon for final judgment, it looks like last year's dresses can be touched up sufficiently to keep you in style this spring without buying an entire new wardrobe.

Desses, Balanciaga and Paquin showed fashions today which stressed both the slim and full skirts of 1948.

Desses, the Greek designer, played tricks with stoles and had them growing out of different parts of the skirt and entwining the figure. He put hemlines 13 inches from the ground but Balanciaga and Paquin both showed suits and day dresses nearly 15 inches from the ground.

The panel is used on both suits and dresses and falls loose straight from the waist.

Variations include a six-inch deep peplum in front merging into a full length loose panel at the back. A crimson taffeta suit had a panel of closely gathered fullness flying away from the center of the waist.

Top, usually audacious, designers like Jacques Fath and Christian Dior were still to be heard from.

Balenciaga also shows all-around elbow length capes that button down the back or have frog fastening along the shoulder. They all remove to reveal boat-necked or strapless bodices beneath.

Suit jackets in all three collections have inset sleeves and deep peplums that stand well away from the hips. Shoulders in the Balanciaga show are sloping and peplums are cut-away.

Both Paquin and Balenciaga show a lot of grey worsted for suits. One in the Paquin show had the entire front of light grey and the back of donkey grey.

Don't give up hope. Thousands are amazed at results of doctor's
"WONDER FORMULA"

Today a group of physicians working in the laboratory of a great university has announced the development of a formula which does exactly that. This formula which is the result of endless experiments and tests on thousands of actual sufferers has been called Enca Cream. When this cream is applied to the skin, the following three-way action takes place:
(1) ENCA'S flesh-tinted film instantly hides unsightly skin blemishes, thus leaving a noticeably improved appearance.
(2) ENCA'S anti-biotic ingredients are held in contact with skin pores for hours to expose germs and inhibit their growth.
(3) With germ growth inhibited, pimply skin surface can start natural healing. Unsightly appearance tends to improve. Many are amazed to see prompt results. You can face the world with confidence.

I also hope you had the opportunity to see something of the valleys of the Mississippi River."

The youths, brought to the United States by the New York Herald Tribune as a reward for their prize-winning essays on the subject "The World We Want," have been touring the country. They plan to spend another month in New York before returning to their homes.

Mr. Truman explained how the American government works through three branches — legislative, executive and judicial — and he told them:

"It is not posed as the most efficient government in the world, but it is posed as one that is most just to the people of the United States."

Far from being shy, the youngsters from distant lands laughed and joked with the President and all demanded his autograph. He promised to send it to them.

For a young Turkish boy, Fuat Tekce, who somehow missed the party, Mr. Truman held a special one-boy reception later. Tekce told the President he had been "a little sick."

But a White House guard said he saw the boy arrive with his comrades and then suddenly tear back to his hotel — to fetch his diary for the President's signature.

A Theme To Ponder

CROSSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Miss Jane Underwood assigned to her high school sophomore class the writing of 50-word themes. She emphasized originality would pay off. Billy Higginsom wrote:

"Once upon a time I went for a walk. I walked and I walked and I walked (and so on) . . . and finally I got lost."

Miss Underwood graded the paper with a replying 50-word theme:

"Once upon a time I graded a theme. I thought and I thought and I thought . . . and finally I decided to give Billy Higginson a D-."

Paris Designers Reveal New Look At Opening Of Fashion Showings

PARIS, Feb. 3 (AP)—Paris fashion showings began today and from first glimpses there will be nothing revolutionary about "look '49".

Although it is too soon for final judgment, it looks like last year's dresses can be touched up sufficiently to keep you in style this spring without buying an entire new wardrobe.

Desses, Balanciaga and Paquin showed fashions today which stressed both the slim and full skirts of 1948.

Desses, the Greek designer, played tricks with stoles and had them growing out of different parts of the skirt and entwining the figure. He put hemlines 13 inches from the ground but Balanciaga and Paquin both showed suits and day dresses nearly 15 inches from the ground.

The panel is used on both suits and dresses and falls loose straight from the waist.

Variations include a six-inch deep peplum in front merging into a full length loose panel at the back. A crimson taffeta suit had a panel of closely gathered fullness flying away from the center of the waist.

Top, usually audacious, designers like Jacques Fath and Christian Dior were still to be heard from.

Balenciaga also shows all-around elbow length capes that button down the back or have frog fastening along the shoulder. They all remove to reveal boat-necked or strapless bodices beneath.

Suit jackets in all three collections have inset sleeves and deep peplums that stand well away from the hips. Shoulders in the Balanciaga show are sloping and peplums are cut-away.

Both Paquin and Balenciaga show a lot of grey worsted for suits. One in the Paquin show had the entire front of light grey and the back of donkey grey.

If you've "tried everything" for SKIN TROUBLES
Don't give up hope. Thousands are amazed at results of doctor's
"WONDER FORMULA"
Conceals unsightly skin while it exposes and inhibits growth of germs present in ACNE — thus aids natural healing
Doctors have discovered that in most cases of acne with its pimples, blackheads, itching and other unsightly conditions, there is a sub-surface infection due to certain types of germs. If these germs can be exposed and their growth inhibited, acnetorm eruptions can be controlled.
Today a group of physicians working in the laboratory of a great university has announced the development of a formula which does exactly that. This formula which is the result of endless experiments and tests on thousands of actual sufferers has been called Enca Cream. When this cream is applied to the skin, the following three-way action takes place:
(1) ENCA'S flesh-tinted film instantly hides unsightly skin blemishes, thus lending a noticeably improved appearance.
(2) ENCA'S anti-blotte ingredients are held in contact with skin pores for hours to expose germs and inhibit their growth.
(3) With germ growth inhibited, pimply skin surface can start natural healing. Unsightly appearance tends to improve. Many are amazed to see prompt results. You can face the world with confidence.
MONEY BACK GUARANTEE
So why suffer the humiliating handicap of skin disfigurement associated with acne? Get ENCA CREAM from your druggist today and use according to directions for one week. If you are not pleased with actual results, if unsightly skin does not feel and look better and better, then return the partly used tar and full purchase price will be refunded.

Folk, Sonny Lafferty And Lisanti To Fight In St. Mary's Show

Homer Boone of Lewistown, Pa., winner of five consecutive matches here, and Leon Daughtry, Golden Gloves welterweight champion of Washington, D. The show will be staged at the State Armory and will get under way at 8:15 o'clock.

Boone made his first appearance here in September, 1947, and was stopped by Brian Holsopple of Johnstown, Pa. He appeared in five more bouts here and won all of them, defeating "Skeets" Starkey, twice, Danny Merwood of Washington, D. C., Bill Mann, of this city, and Tojo Wade, of Johnstown.

In his only match here Daughtry gained the nod over "Skeets" Starkey in a five-round match.

Matchmaker Green stated that he hopes to match Jim Folk, Royale A. C. featherweight, in the other half of the double windup.

"Sonny" Lafferty, St. Mary's bantamweight ace, and Frankie Lisanti, 135-pound representative of the South End club, will appear on the program, Green said.

Tickets are on sale at McGee's Tavern, 976 Maryland Avenue.

Louis Stops Graves In Exhibition Bout

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—For the second time this week heavyweight champion Joe Louis tonight knocked out an exhibition opponent.

He scored a third round technical knockout over Bill Graves, 210-pound Daytona Beach negro, tonight. Monday night at Orlando Louis had kayoed Dixie Lee Oliver of St. Petersburg.

Unlike Oliver, who was out 10 minutes after his head hit the unpadded ring floor, Graves was able to leave the ring under his own power tonight. The most damage appeared to be a cut on his nose that bled through the last two stanzas.

Louis afterward apologized because his opponent hadn't put up a better fight and offered to donate $500 to each of a negro and white charity here.

Only about 2,500 persons saw the fight, postponed because of rain last night and held in a drizzle tonight.

Hughes Goes To Tulsa

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3 (AP)—Tommy Hughes, veteran pitcher, today was optioned to Tulsa in the Texas League by the Cincinnati Reds.

Hughes, a right handed hurler, was obtained in 1948 from Philadelphia of the National League, and did not win a game for the Reds. He lost four games and then was sent to Syracuse of the International League.

Brock Joins Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis., Feb. 3 (AP)—Charlie Brock, for nine years a star center for the Green Bay Packers, will return as an assistant coach and scout, Packer Coach Curley Lambeau announced today.

Brock, a former Nebraska standout, retired from the pro ranks after the 1947 season to become line coach at the University of Omaha, where college officials yesterday accepted his resignation.

Generals Appoint George Barclay As Head Grid Mentor

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 3 (AP)—George Barclay, for the last two years line coach at the University of Maryland, tonight was appointed head football coach at Washington and Lee University.

Barclay, 38 years old, was an All-America guard at the University of North Carolina in 1934. He succeeds Art (Pappy) Lewis, who resigned early in January to become line coach at Mississippi State Colelge.

Richard A. (Cap'n Dick) Smith, athletic director at Washington and Lee, said the contract was for two years but terms were not revealed.

Barclay signed a contract to play professional football with the Brooklyn Dodgers after his graduation from North Carolina. The Natrona Heights, Pa., star was injured in the fourth game played by Brooklyn in 1935. That ended his playing career.

David J. Corrigan, the poet laureate (not lariat) of Midland, whose recent contribution to this column on game conditions in Allegany county caused much comment among sportsmen, has taken his pencil in hand and jotted down these rhyming lines that should be of interest to anglers:

I see by the daily paper
That it won't be very long
When all the Izaac Waltons
Burst out aloud in song

The fifteenth of February
Is coming slow but sure
And every one is hoping
That the fishing won't be poor.

And later on in April
When you can fish for trout
You will read in your newspaper
"We have put five thousand out"

Perhaps they have, we'll never know
But one thing I can say,
There isn't a guy, unless he'd lie
Gets his limit every day.

And as the time rolls slowly by
We come at last to the first of July
A day that makes a real man quiver
To fish for bass, in the Potomac River.

It's a wonderful spot to spend weekends
As a lot of people can tell
If it wasn't for just one drawback
And that's that awful smell.

The waste from all the industries
Not only spoils the air
But kills a lot of nice big fish
That happen to venture there.

And that brings us to another thing
That we can't understand
If a man is caught with one small fish
He is taken right in hand.

But take these industries that kill
Hundreds of fish or more
The Commission doesn't do anything
They don't even get sore.

If they would help the fisherman
By straightening out this mess
His fun would surely be increased
And his griping would be less.

DAVID J. CORRIGAN,
Midland, Md.

Matchmaker Jim Klosterman is deserving of a pat on the back for the excellent fight card he presented Monday night at the State Armory.

It was a well balanced program with experienced mittmen in the four top numbers and novices in the four prelims.

We are glad to see Jim giving the newcomers a chance because some of the more experienced amateurs here have become a bit shopworn and the introduction of new faces injects life in the game. The novice matches between Jimmie Getson of 'Coney and Lee "Bloody Nose" Stevens and Carlton Shore and Owen Lewis of Lonaconing were humdingers and pleased the fans.

Lonaconing has hurtled back into the fight picture after a long absence, thanks to some expert coaching on the part of Joe McGreevy, the former South Atlantic A.A.U. champion, who was the ace of the Devon Club at Luke back in the 1930s. Joe has shown several promising boys here lately and let's hope they come back. Coney, you know, was the scene of many a good pro fight about 30 years ago when Jackie Clark, Fay Keiser and Harry Greb were entertaining the fistic faithful.

Gene Dorgan and Fritzie Zivic are casting their eyes on Cumberland with the hope that they can revive professional boxing here.

"We believe that the sport will go in Cumberland at popular prices," Zivic, former world's welterweight champion, opines. He predicts that a ringside top of $2.20 would attract large crowds.

Only one professional show was held here last year and that attracted 1,145 persons and a gross gate of $3,621. Sammy Angott and Rudy Zadell were the principlas in the 10-round main go.

Local basketball fans are wondering how the Wheeling Blues came to run up that record-breaking score of 107-71 against the Washington Jewels in an All-American Pro Basketball League game Monday night at Wheeling.

According to word from Wheeling four Washington players were marooned en route from Pittsburgh and the Jewels were forced to play the game with a makeshift lineup. The players who failed to get there for the game were "Mo" Becker, Bill Feeney, Dave Hornstein and Eddie Straloski.

The crowd yelled "we want a hundred" and that's why the Blues hit the century mark. Jimmie Carroll contributed 23 points, Jule Rivlin got 20 and Jimmie Quinlan 19.

Four of the Blues declined to accompany the team home Sunday night by airplane after a game in Ohio. The quartet, Herman, Tonkovich, Pelaez and Checkerella, ran into high water on the trip home and spent Sunday night wrapped

Pioneers Score 29-27 Win In PVC Contest

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 3—Romney High School's Pioneers provided a surprise tonight by nosing out Petersburg High's Vikings on their home floor in a Potomac Valley Conference game by the score of 29-27.

Petersburg played without the services of Henry Moomau, regular guard, who is hospitalized.

Don Maphis, Romney forward, romped off with high scoring honors by ringing up 12 points on five fielders and two free throws. Smith and Ours of Petersburg and Roach of Romney scored seven points each.

Handler And Parker To Coach Cardinals

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Two former assistant coaches, Phil Handler and Ray Parker, today were named co-coaches of the Chicago Football Cardinals, succeeding Jim Conzelman, who retired last month.

For Handler, of Fort Worth, Tex., it was a return to the Cardinal head coaching status he had for three war-time seasons, 1943, 1944 and 1945. He then was replaced by Conzelman who had a National Football League Champion in 1947 and the runnerup last year.

Handler has been connected with the Cardinals for 19 years and Parker, who is from Kemp, Tex., has been with the club 12 years.

COMING HERE — Harold "Pie" Traynor, star third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, right, and Frankie Gustine, above, former Pittsburgh infielder who was recently traded to the Chicago Cubs, will be among the guests at the Dapper Dan dinner to be held here Sunday. Traynor was voted to Baseball's Hall of Fame last year. He played for the Pirates from 1920 to 1937. Gustine is coach of the Waynesburg (Pa.) College basketball team.

Two Baseball Hall Of Fame Players Will Be Guests At Dinner On Sunday

Traynor And Grove Will Attend Affair

Two members of Baseball's Hall of Fame — Harold "Pie" Traynor and Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove—will be among the guests at the dinner to be held by the local Dapper Dan Club on Sunday at 4 p. m., at Anton's Dining Room, Maryland Hotel, it was announced last night by Magistrate Peter Carpenti, president of the organization which promotes sports events for charitables purposes.

Traynor, who was nicknamed "Pie" by a grocery clerk because the last item on the grocery list, which he took to the store for his mother, always was pie, was star third sacker of the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1920 to 1937. He figured in 1,941 games with the Buccaneers, batted .320, fielded .946 and played in major league all-star games in 1933 and 1934. "Pie" was voted to the Hall of Fame in 1948.

Grove Won 300 Games

Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, of Lonaconing, one of the pitching greats of the major leagues made the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1947. He played with the Philadelphia A's and Boston Red Sox from 1925 through 1941, a total of 17 years, and won 300 games while losing 141. During his long stay in the majors he established many records. His greatest year was 1931 when he won 31 and lost 4 with the Mackmen.

President Carpenti said that among other guests coming here for the dinner are Frankie Gustine, Pittsburgh infielder who was recently traded to the Chicago Cubs, Fritzie Zivic, of Pittsburgh, former world's welterweight boxing champion, and Al Abrams, Pittsburgh sports writer. Gustine is coach of the Waynesburg College varsity basketball team.

Carpenti expects 100 to attend Sunday's affair.

"Greasy" Neale Signs Three-Year Contract

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles announced today that Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale has signed a new three-year contract to pilot the National Football League Champions.

President James P. Clark of the Eagles said that in addition to the contract, the Eagles offered Neale the option of renewing that pact for three more years after it expires.

Neale has coached the Eagles since 1941. His team won the eastern division title in 1947 but lost 28-21 to the Chicago Cardinals in the league playoff. The Eagles reversed that count 7-0 last season in beating the Cardinals for the NFL championship.

Landefeld, Tichnell Get 20 Points Each, Former Heads Race

BARTON, Feb. 3 — Barton High School put up a stubborn fight tonight before bowing to Allegany High School of Cumberland in a W.M.I. League game by the score of 53-45.

With the score 51-41 in Allegany's favor and three minutes to play Coach Walter Bowers sent his reserves into the game but two quick goals by the home team brought the Allegany first stringer back into the fray.

Arnold Tichnell played an outstanding game at center, outscoring Bob Lookabaugh 20 to 8. The Barton sophomore ace dropped in nine fielders and two free throws while limiting his A.H.S. opponent to four fielders. Jimmie Clark, Barton substitute, played a nice floor game.

By scoring 20 points to tonight's game Eddie Landefeld, Allegany forward, took over first place in the W.M.I. scoring race with 90 points. He also leads the scorers of Cumberland schools with 172 points. Eddie tossed in eight fielders and four fouls against the Braves. Ned Clopton racked up a dozen tallies on six field goals.

Barton trailed at the quarter, 15-9, and midway in the second period tied it up at 16-16 and went ahead at 18-16 but the Campers soon found the range and took the long end of a 24-20 score at intermission. Coach Bowers' warriors led 41-29 when the third quarter ended.

The victory was Allegany's fifth in six starts in the W.M.I. League. Barton has won one and lost five.

Mangrum Leads In Tucson Open

Chicagoan Posts 64 For Opening Round

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 3 (AP)—Shooting one of his best rounds of 1949, Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, Ill., today took the first round lead in the $10,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament with a six under par 64.

One stroke behind were the long-hitting Chick Harbert, Detroit; Eric Monti, Santa Monica, Calif., and Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Within easy striking distance were 11 contenders with cards of 66.

Defending Champion Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., had to content himself with an even par 70.

About 3,500 spectators watched 42 of the field of 138 smash par 70 for the level 6,500-yard El Rio Country Club layout.

But most of the half dozen foreign players found the going rough. Only Jimmy Ukauka, Hawaiian star, was able to equal or break par. The veteran from Honolulu shot the hottest practice round of 62. Today he carded 68.

Maryland Boxers Beat Georgetown

6,000 Witness Terps Win By Five Points

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 3 (AP)—The University of Maryland's boxing team defeated Georgetown, 7½ to 2½, before 6,000 fans here tonight in a Washington neighborhood rivalry.

Al Glass, a fancy 125 pound youngster from Baltimore, and Rowland Hyde, a durable slugger from Sandy Spring, Md., scored the only knockouts of the card.

Glass shifted inside on Georgetown's Nick Szabo to land a hard right that numbed the lanky Hoya and Referee Jim Kelly stopped the bout after 1:28 of the second round. Hyde spotted Georgetown's rugged Frank Talbert the first round, then banged away with a right to the face to end it at 28 seconds of the third of their 153-pound scrap.

Southpaw Bob Smith won a minor upset when he held Georgetown's clever Billy Rose to a draw, at 175 pounds. Rose was unable to solve Smith's left-handed style and had to come on strong in the third stanza to gain the draw.

Ray Larrow, Georgetown's fast-moving heavyweight, won a clean-cut decision over Mont Whipp in the heavyweight class to give the Hoyas their last point.

A new type of head harness, designed to prevent eye and ear injuries was used for the first time by both teams in the match. The extra 145 pound bout and the 153 pound class were added by agreement of the coaches, Heinie Miller of Maryland and Marty Gallagher of Georgetown.

Louis Stops Graves In Exhibition Bout

He scored a third round technical knockout over Bill Graves, 210-pound Daytona Beach negro, tonight. Monday night at Orlando Louis had kayoed Dixie Lee Oliver of St. Petersburg.

Unlike Oliver, who was out 10 minutes after his head hit the unpadded ring floor, Graves was able to leave the ring under his own power tonight. The most damage appeared to be a cut on his nose that bled through the last two stanzas.

Louis afterward apologized because his opponent hadn't put up a better fight and offered to donate $500 to each of a negro and white charity here.

Only about 2,500 persons saw the fight, postponed because of rain last night and held in a drizzle tonight.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3 (AP)—Tommy Hughes, veteran pitcher, today was optioned to Tulsa in the Texas League by the Cincinnati Reds.

A Poet Goes Fishing — Fans Asked 100 Points

Fight Card Pleases — Snyder's Plans Foiled

By C. V. BURNS

David J. Corrigan, the poet laureate (not lariat) of Midland, whose recent contribution to this column on game conditions in Allegany county caused much comment among sportsmen, has taken his pencil in hand and jotted down these rhyming lines that should be of interest to anglers:

I see by the daily paper
That it won't be very long
When all the Izaac Waltons
Burst out aloud in song

The fifteenth of February
Is coming slow but sure
And every one is hoping
That the fishing won't be poor.

And later on in April
When you can fish for trout
You will read in your newspaper
"We have put five thousand out"

Perhaps they have, we'll never know
But one thing I can say,
There isn't a guy, unless he'd lie
Gets his limit every day.

And as the time rolls slowly by
We come at last to the first of July
A day that makes a real man quiver
To fish for bass, in the Potomac River.

It's a wonderful spot to spend weekends
As a lot of people can tell
If it wasn't for just one drawback
And that's that awful smell.

The waste from all the industries
Not only spoils the air
But kills a lot of nice big fish
That happen to venture there.

And that brings us to another thing
That we can't understand
If a man is caught with one small fish
He is taken right in hand.

But take these industries that kill
Hundreds of fish or more
The Commission doesn't do anything
They don't even get sore.

If they would help the fisherman
By straightening out this mess
His fun would surely be increased
And his griping would be less.

Midland, Md.

Matchmaker Jim Klosterman is deserving of a pat on the back for the excellent fight card he presented Monday night at the State Armory.

It was a well balanced program with experienced mittmen in the four top numbers and novices in the four prelims.

We are glad to see Jim giving the newcomers a chance because some of the more experienced amateurs here have become a bit shopworn and the introduction of new faces injects life in the game. The novice matches between Jimmie Getson of 'Coney and Lee "Bloody Nose" Stevens and Carlton Shore and Owen Lewis of Lonaconing were humdingers and pleased the fans.

Lonaconing has hurtled back into the fight picture after a long absence, thanks to some expert coaching on the part of Joe McGreevy, the former South Atlantic A.A.U. champion, who was the ace of the Devon Club at Luke back in the 1930s. Joe has shown several promising boys here lately and let's hope they come back. Coney, you know, was the scene of many a good pro fight about 30 years ago when Jackie Clark, Fay Keiser and Harry Greb were entertaining the fistic faithful.

Gene Dorgan and Fritzie Zivic are casting their eyes on Cumberland with the hope that they can revive professional boxing here.

"We believe that the sport will go in Cumberland at popular prices," Zivic, former world's welterweight champion, opines. He predicts that a ringside top of $2.20 would attract large crowds.

Only one professional show was held here last year and that attracted 1,145 persons and a gross gate of $3,621. Sammy Angott and Rudy Zadell were the principlas in the 10-round main go.

Local basketball fans are wondering how the Wheeling Blues came to run up that record-breaking score of 107-71 against the Washington Jewels in an All-American Pro Basketball League game Monday night at Wheeling.

According to word from Wheeling four Washington players were marooned en route from Pittsburgh and the Jewels were forced to play the game with a makeshift lineup. The players who failed to get there for the game were "Mo" Becker, Bill Feeney, Dave Hornstein and Eddie Straloski.

The crowd yelled "we want a hundred" and that's why the Blues hit the century mark. Jimmie Carroll contributed 23 points, Jule Rivlin got 20 and Jimmie Quinlan 19.

By FRED HAYDEN

A throng of 16,368—third largest of the meeting—saw the six-year-old gelding rally on the outside to score by a length and a half, thus giving Jockey Conn McCreary a double.

Bug Juice, teletimed in a speedy 1:23 3/5 under 117 pounds, returned $4.10 for two.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harry R. Leasure and Rachel Irene Leasure, his wife, and C. Edward Wharton, vs. The Unknown Heirs of Leo Campbell, sometimes known as Cleo Campbell. No. 21094 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The Object of this suit is to reform and correct a deed from Leo Campbell unto Harriett Wharton dated the 5th day of September, 1933.

The Bill states that certain property in Gilpintown, Allegany County, Maryland, was conveyed by said deed and that the description is ambiguous in that it conveys: "All that tract and parcel of land conveyed and described in a deed from Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date the 3rd day of March, 1924, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from the said Harriett Wharton to Leo Campbell, said deed bearing date the 30th day of September, 1931, and recorded in Liber No. 166, folio 467, of said land records," the said two deeds being for different parcels of land; and the Bill prays for the reforming and correcting of said deed by striking out the words: "Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date the 3rd day of March, 1924, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Md., and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from." The Bill further avers that to the best of the Orators' information the said Leo Campbell has left the State of Maryland and is now deceased, leaving no heirs known unto the Orators.

IT IS, THEREUPON, this 20th day of January, 1949, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant cause a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper in Alelgany County, Maryland, once in each of four (4) successive weeks, before the 22nd day of February, 1949, giving notice to the absent and unknown Respondents of the object and purpose of this suit and warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 10th day of March, 1949, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (INS)—There were 8,700 thoroughbreds born in this country last year and it is expected 9,000 may be born this year.

The average hoss player may think all of these babies may be pointed for the races. But the fact is many of them have been bred for hunters and saddle horses. This is particularly true of the get of little known thoroughbred sires ad dams.

How true this is may be judged from the fact that only 1,603 nominations were made for the Belmont Futurity and Matron Stakes of 1951. Nominations closed Jan. 19.

The Belmont Futurity is unique. There is not another race like it in the world. Conditions of the race call for subscription of $10 each for mare served last year. To continue eligibility of the colts foaled by payment of $65 must be made by Dec. 15, 1950, and another $125 by July 16, 1951. On top of that it costs $1,000 to start in the race.

That means it will cost $1,200 to start a colt, as yet unborn, in the Futurity of 1951. The Matron Stakes, of course, is only for fillies, but fillies also may be kept eligible for the Futurity by payment of an additional $200 by July 16,1951, provided the filly has been kept eligible for the matron stakes.

The Futurity has been run 59 times and 11 fillies have won it. Geldings, of course, are not eligible. A filly good enougl to win both the Futurity and the Matron can earn a fortune in just those two two-year-old classics.

For instance, First Flight earned $35,000 in the Matron in 1946 and a week later grabbed $73,000 more by winning the futurity.

Breeders of high class stock are naturally eager to nominate for both races because such nominations increase the colt or filly's value at the annual yearling sales. It stands to reason a filly, say, that is eligible to win $100,000 in two two-year-old races is worth far more than one not eligible.

Like everybody else, Wright likes to come up with a Futurity and a triple crown, as he did with Citation. It's nice to own such a horse, if you bought him at the yearling sales, but is is far more satifying if you've also bred the horse.

We hope we haven't given the impression that only culls are used in the hunter class, because there is a 19-year-old horse named Holystone which has been winning prizes at horse shows for many years.

And this Holystone, still sound as a silver dollar, is a son of Man O' War. Indeed, he resembles his sire more than any other colt that immortal horse sired. Holystone was a winner at two but then became sick and was converted into a hunter.

It will be interesting to note how many of the 9,000 foals due to be dropped this year will ever get to the races, how many will become hunters and how many just saddle horses.

But you may be sure that of the thousands who will eventually race on the big time and on the leaky roof circuits, probably not more than a dozen will start in the Futurity of 1951.

Selects Cup Team

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 3 (AP)—John Bromwich, Frank Sedgman and Bill Sidwell were named today to represent Australia in the 1949 Davis Cup tennis competition.

During the first half of the Basketball Association of America schedule, the teams in the circuit had a 32 per cent average on shots taken from the floor.

Bug Juice Takes Hialeah Seventh

Favorites Cop Four Events In Florida

By FRED HAYDEN

A throng of 16,368—third largest of the meeting—saw the six-year-old gelding rally on the outside to score by a length and a half, thus giving Jockey Conn McCreary a double.

Tight Squeeze, from the Rarco Stable, was a forward running second in the field of eight veterans traveling seven furlongs. A length behind, P. A. B. Widener, 3rd's Happy C. took the show.

Bug Juice, teletimed in a speedy 1:23 3/5 under 117 pounds, returned $4.10 for two.

Favorites continued to bring joy to their backers today. Bug Juice was the fourth to register in seven races. Six won yesterday.

Column, an entry with Curtain Time from the Marlet Stable, finished fourth. He and Bug Juice were the only starters named for the $50,000 added Widener of a mile and a quarter, which will be decided on Feb. 26.

The crowd was estimated at 16,200.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harry R. Leasure and Rachel Irene Leasure, his wife, and C. Edward Wharton, vs. The Unknown Heirs of Leo Campbell, sometimes known as Cleo Campbell. No. 21094 Equity, In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The Object of this suit is to reform and correct a deed from Leo Campbell unto Harriett Wharton dated the 5th day of September, 1933.

The Bill states that certain property in Gilpintown, Allegany County, Maryland, was conveyed by said deed and that the description is ambiguous in that it conveys: "All that tract and parcel of land conveyed and described in a deed from Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date the 3rd day of March, 1824, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from the said Harriett Wharton to Leo Campbell, said deed bearing date the 30th day of September, 1831, and recorded in Liber No. 166, folio 467, of said land records," the said two deeds being for different parcels of land; and the Bill prays for the reforming and correcting of said deed by striking out the words: "Barbara E. Twigg to Harriett Wharton, said deed bearing date the 3rd day of March, 1824, and recorded in Liber No. 146, folio 74, one of the Land Records of Allegany County, Md., and being the same property conveyed by and described in a deed from." The Bill further avers that to the best of the Orators' information the said Leo Campbell has left the State of Maryland and is now deceased, leaving no heirs known unto the Orators.

IT IS, THEREUPON, this 20th day of January, 1949, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant cause a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper in Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four (4) successive weeks, before the 22nd day of February, 1949, giving notice to the absent and unknown Respondents of the object and purpose of this suit and warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 10th day of March, 1949, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (INS)—There were 8,700 thoroughbreds born in this country last year and it is expected 9,000 may be born this year.

The average hoss player may think all of these babies may be pointed for the races. But the fact is many of them have been bred for hunters and saddle horses. This is particularly true of the get of little known thoroughbred sires ad dams.

How true this is may be judged from the fact that only 1,603 nominations were made for the Belmont Futurity and Matron Stakes of 1951. Nominations closed Jan. 19.

The Belmont Futurity is unique. There is not another race like it in the world. Conditions of the race call for subscription of $10 each for mare served last year. To continue eligibility of the colts foaled by payment of $65 must be made by Dec. 15, 1950, and another $125 by July 16, 1951. On top of that it costs $1,000 to start in the race.

That means it will cost $1,200 to start a colt, as yet unborn, in the Futurity of 1951. The Matron Stakes, of course, is only for fillies, but fillies also may be kept eligible for the Futurity by payment of an additional $200 by July 16,1951, provided the filly has been kept eligible for the matron stakes.

The Futurity has been run 59 times and 11 fillies have won it. Geldings, of course, are not eligible. A filly good enough to win both the Futurity and the Matron can earn a fortune in just those two two-year-old classics.

For instance, First Flight earned $35,000 in the Matron in 1946 and a week later grabbed $73,000 more by winning the futurity.

Breeders of high class stock are naturally eager to nominate for both races because such nominations increase the colt or filly's value at the annual yearling sales. It stands to reason a filly, say, that is eligible to win $100,000 in two two-year-old races is worth far more than one not eligible.

Walter J. Salmon nominated 56 mares for the Futurity of 1951. Warren Wright, who owns a horse named Citation, was next in line with 44.

Like everybody else, Wright likes to come up with a Futurity and a triple crown, as he did with Citation. It's nice to own such a horse, if you bought him at the yearling sales, but is is far more satifying if you've also bred the horse.

We hope we haven't given the impression that only culls are used in the hunter class, because there is a 19-year-old horse named Holystone which has been winning prizes at horse shows for many years.

And this Holystone, still sound as a silver dollar, is a son of Man O' War. Indeed, he resembles his sire more than any other colt that immortal horse sired. Holystone was a winner at two but then became sick and was converted into a hunter.

It will be interesting to note how many of the 9,000 foals due to be dropped this year will ever get to the races, how many will become hunters and how many just saddle horses.

But you may be sure that of the thousands who will eventually race on the big time and on the leaky roof circuits, probably not more than a dozen will start in the Futurity of 1951.

Selects Cup Team

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 3 (AP)—John Bromwich, Frank Sedgman and Bill Sidwell were named today to represent Australia in the 1949 Davis Cup tennis competition.

Bromwich, left off the 1948 team because of his refusal to travel by air, will be captain of the 1949 team, which will travel by ship.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3 (AP)—Truett (Rip) Sewell, 40, mainstay of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitching staff, today returned a signed contract containing an undisclosed salary boost for the 1949 season.

Last season Manager Billy Meyer rescued him from a coaching role and the veteran southerner went on to lead both leagues with a record of 12 victories and three defeats.

Students Clean Up With Laundry

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Because it's easier than it was in grandma's day and because there is money in it, three students at St. Michael's College here have gone into the laundry business. And they're cleaning up.

The three are Edward S. Forst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forst of (437 W. Roosevelt Blvd.) Philadelphia, Victor E. Petro, son of Mrs. B. Petro of Blue Island, Ill., and Edward J. Feldhake, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Feldhake of (1135 N. West Street), Lima, Ohio.

These doughty duds-dunkers operate on $600 worth of high powered laundry machinery. They use an automatic washer and an automatic dryer. The association was capitalized for $240—the down payment on the machinery. The school furnishes the water—hot and cold—and the only expense is soap and bleaches.

More Industrial Peace

NEW DELHI (AP) — Industrial relations in India during the first half of this year had recorded a definite improvement in comparison with the corresponding period last year, according to official figures released here. The official analysis said that the loss in production in terms of man-days lost was reduced by half during 1948. This trend was more noticeable since April. The official figures indicated that during the first three months of this year India lost 3,800,000 man-days while since April it was only 2,500,000.

The French Revolution attempted to substitute the "decade"—10-day periods—for the 7-day week. The attempt lasted only a few years.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Nellie Eichhorn, who passed away three years ago yesterday, Feb. 3, 1946.

God knows how much I miss you mother,
At the end of 3 long years.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Nellie Eichhorn, who passed away three years ago yesterday, Feb. 3, 1946.
My heart still aches with sadness,
My eyes shed many tears,
God knows how much I miss you mother,
At the end of 3 long years.
Her devoted daughter,
Mrs. Emma Brant.

Hogan Is Improving From Crash Injuries

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 3 (AP)—They said at the hospital today that Ben Hogan, golf's terrific atom, had a bright disposition. But as some pal of the links, knowing the durability and spirit of the little Texan, might quip: "why shouldn't he—he only has a fractured pelvis, broken collar bone, a fractured rib and a few other injuries?"

Anyway, the 137-pound Hogan was improving from the hard knocks suffered in a car-bus crash yesterday, and it was dollars to doughnuts he would be back on the tournament trail sooner than expected.

K. Of C. Stay On Top In Shuffleboard Race

The Knights of Columbus stayed out in front in the second half race of the National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County by winning two out of three games from the Military Order of Purple Heart Chapter last night.

Joe Love paced the winners with 30 points and George Battorf headed the Purple heart with 19.

Century A. C., Frostburg, first salf champions, made it three straight wins over the Goodfellowship Club. Gracie was high man for Frostburg with 24 points while Campbell's 11 led the losers.

South End Republican Club took two out of three from Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion. William Shipley sparked the victors with a 26 while Richard Matthew's 19 was high for the Legion.

The Owls scored a 3-0 victory over Ruth's Tavern. High scorers in the match was R. Nevy of the Owls with 22 and John Funk of Ruth's with 21.

The match between Stadium Inn and Viaduct Inn was postponed until next Monday.

Docusen And Dawson To Fight In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Bernard Docusen, New Orleans Filipino with quick and precise fists, will risk his No. 1 welterweight championship contender rating tomorrow night. He will tangle with Freddie Dawson, Chicago, in a ten round battle in the Chicago Stadium.

Docusen will enter the ring as favorite because of his superior speed and weight advantage. He expects to scale 145 pounds to 140 for Dawson, who is rated the heavier puncher.

Didja ever hear the one about John W. Snyder and his electric vibrator?

Bill McHugh, local attorney and Pride of New Orleans, relates the story and it takes us back to the days when Fay Keiser, local middleweight boxer, was in his prime, and John "Maryland, My Maryland" Snyder was his manager.

Snyder conceived the idea that the use of an electric vibrator would act as a stimulator to his breadwinner during the rest periods between rounds so on the day Keiser was scheduled to fight Harry Greb he went to Lonaconing and wired one of the ring corners for the purpose of introducing his new scheme—in his words a "revelation to the boxing world."

In the meantime, however, someone tipped off "Red" Mason, manager of the Greb, about Snyder's plan and just before the main bout that night Harry got into the ring first and took over the corner that was wired for Keiser. Snyder almost threw a fit when he saw Greb occupying the corner that was intended for Keiser. Fay's manager protested, insisting that Greb change corners but neither Harry nor Mason would budge.

The result was that Greb kept the corner that was wired for Keiser throughout the match—and Snyder never got an opportunity to startle the boxing world with his electric vibrator idea.

Michigan State is the second college team in history to win the National AAU cross-country championship—Indiana won the event in 1936.

Fight TB Compulsion

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—Conservative and other right-wing political groups in Switzerland are organizing a campaign against a proposal for compulsory free tuberculosis immunization of all citizens. The right wing parties declare that they have no objection to immunization as such, but claim that compulsory immunization would be a violation of civil liberties.

Laughter Verboten At Soviet News Reels

BERLIN (AP)—Laughing at Communist propaganda films in the Russian occupation zone is dangercus business. The hecklers are arrested and, if theatre owners fail to cooperate with police, their theaters are closed.

This was disclosed recently by the "Freie Presse," official organ of the Socialist Unity (Communist) party, published at Plauen, Saxony. The newspaper disclosed that the party had found it necessary to take disciplinary action after numerous disrespectful scenes in movie theaters.

In other theaters hooting and whistling greeted screen pictures of portly Wilnelm Pieck, Germany's No. 1 Communist and co-chairman of the Socialist Unity Party. The 72-year-old Pieck, with his huge stomach, has the appearance of an old-time bartender.

"He looks just like Goering," shouted some fans, inspiring general laughter. This was deplored by the "Freie Presse" as an "anti-democratic display."

Greek Road Building

ATHENS—(AP)—Markos has failed in his effort to halt American reconstruction of Greece's highways. This is the opinion of Col. D. W. Griffiths, chief of the Grecian district of the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

He says that during the last few months guerillas have intensified their assaults on American contractors, installations and employees. Twenty-five Greek laborers have been killed in Communist raids, ambushes and attacks while working on road projects in the remote and unprotected areas of Greece. Thirty-six Greek roadworkers have been wounded.

Nearly 400 of the 10,000 Greeks employed on reconstruction projects are "missing," Col. Griffiths reports. He says the "missing" were presumably abducted by the rebels.

The American colonel who has been in Greece more than a year says it is "by sheer luck" that no Americans have been killed or wounded to date. Col. Griffiths says, however, that "on the whole, the value of the property damaged through bandit action and the number of casualties among our labor force are relatively insignificant.

Reds Taboo Gossip

WARSAW (AP) — Leftwing Polish Socialists are out to break up "coffeehouse talk" in Warsaw. Favored spots where Warsawians gather for their coffee daily are centers of wild rumors and "rightist and nationalistic" talk, they say.

The Socialists, soon to merge with the Communist Workers party, have also resolved to "expel from the party the rightists and class alien elements, such as shopkeepers, restaurant and coffeeshop owners, factory owners and butchers." Tadeusz Cwik, secretary of the Warsaw branch of the Socialist Party, declared all party members must be "taught about the gains of the Soviet Union and the leading role of the Bolshevik Communist party."

Sheep Pursues Shepher

ROME (AP)—A sheep that turned its shepherd and chased him ,trying to bite him, is reported in dispatches from Sassari, Cagliari. Explanation for this un-sheeplike behavior: it had been bitten by a mad dog. And contracted hydrophobia.

Hitler's Car Located

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—A black, bullet-proof convertible sedan used by Adolph Hitler in his heyday was located today in a Syracuse garage, where its American sponsors "mislaid" it last summer.

There was a $200 storage bill.

The big Mercedes Benz was found at Ryan Brothers Storage Corporation garage. Detective Sgt. Arthur Casey said it had been left there last July by two American promoters who were sponsoring exhibitions to raise funds for French orphans.

Cardinal Mindszenty

(This assertion was repeated by McDermott tonight when questioned about the accusations against Chapin brought into the Mindszenty trial in Hungary today.)

U. S. Rejects Charges

(In its "yellow book" on Cardinal Mindszenty's case, the government charged Chapin sought military and other information from the Cardinal. Those charges were rejected by the United States State Department, which expressed full confidence in Chapin.)

The Cardinal was clad in the robes of a simple priest when he was brought in to face the court.

The trial had extended through the afternoon and into the evening when Prosecutor Gyula Elapi introduced a letter which he said the Cardinal had written in prison to Chapin January 26.

The letter asked the American minister to help in the escape plan and promised $4,000 to the pilot. The letter said the Cardinal would be accused of selling "secrets" to the Americans.

Speaking to the Cardinal in the dock, Presiding Judge Vilmos Olthys asked:

"Will you admit you wrote this letter?"

The Cardinal, who had spoken clearly and firmly earlier, muttered something. His reply was barely audible. Judge Olthys said he would accept the reply as meaning "yes."

Before the production of the letter, the prosecutor had asked the Cardinal whether he had tried to escape. The Cardinal requested that he be permitted not to answer the question.

President Says

the Senate unless plenty of compromises are made. He said "labor can't write this ticket."

Morse has opposed the injunctions provisions, but he was angry over the administration tactics nevertheless.

Last Sunday, Morse had praised what he termed the administration bill's "emphasis on voluntary procedures," but today he said:

"I am afraid there is not so much emphasis on voluntary procedures as at first there seemed to be."

President Truman said he would have no objection to spelling his injunctions powers out in the law, but didn't think it was necessary.

In another development, a House Labor Subcommittee headed by Rep. Kelley (D-Pa) approved a resolution to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and revive the Wagner Act unchanged pending consideration of amendments to the latter measure. This is the procedure favored by many union leaders. The subcommittee vote was on straight party lines.

Truman Rules

storms blocking feed for livestock is well on its way to being solved if we don't get any more storms, Mr. Truman said.

Asked if the situation is having any effect on the economy, including the meat supply, Mr. Truman replied that he can't answer until the total losses are known. Much will depend on the extent of injury to grass fed cattle and sheep, he said.

Cognac By Other Name

ROME—(AP)—Italian makers of strong drink are hunting for a synonym for "cognac." From time immemorial, they have labeled brandy so.

Now, under a new Italo-French trade pact that protects the name "cognac" in the Italian market, they will have to find something new by next July 1. Favorites at the moment are understood to be "coniac" (with an "i" instead of "g"), "viniac," "arzento," "brandy tre stelle" (three stars) and "arzento." The last is reported slighily in the lead.

Dr. A. H. Davidson, Lexington, Ky., veterinarian, made approximately 300 perforations with the electrically-heated needle in the recent "firing" treatment of Citation at Hialeah.

Hogan Is Improving From Crash Injuries

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 3 (AP)—They said at the hospital today that Ben Hogan, golf's terrific atom, had a bright disposition. But as some pal of the links, knowing the durability and spirit of the little Texan, might quip: "why shouldn't he—he only has a fractured pelvis, broken collar bone, a fractured rib and a few other injuries?"

Anyway, the 137-pound Hogan was improving from the hard knocks suffered in a car-bus crash yesterday, and it was dollars to doughnuts he would be back on the tournament trail sooner than expected.

In the meantime, there are plenty of star Texas golfers capable of carrying on to replace Hogan as the top man of the game.

Hogan, 1948's leading golfer and for a decade one of the greatest stars of the tourney swing, was hurt when his car crashed with a Greyhound bus 29 miles east of Van Horn, Tex., which is 158 miles southeast of here.

Ben's wife, Valerie, suffered only minor injuries.

Docusen And Dawson To Fight In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Bernard Docusen, New Orleans Filipino with quick and precise fists, will risk his No. 1 welterweight championship contender rating tomorrow night. He will tangle with Freddie Dawson, Chicago, in a ten round battle in the Chicago Stadium.

Docusen will enter the ring as favorite because of his superior speed and weight advantage. He expects to scale 145 pounds to 140 for Dawson, who is rated the heavier puncher.

Didja ever hear the one about John W. Snyder and his electric vibrator?

Bill McHugh, local attorney and Pride of New Orleans, relates the story and it takes us back to the days when Pay Keiser, local middleweight boxer, was in his prime, and John "Maryland, My Maryland" Snyder was his manager.

Snyder conceived the idea that the use of an electric vibrator would act as a stimulator to his breadwinner during the rest periods between rounds so on the day Keiser was scheduled to fight Harry Greb he went to Lonaconing and wired one of the ring corners for the purpose of introducing his new scheme—in his words a "revelation to the boxing world."

In the meantime, however, someone tipped off "Red" Mason, manager of the Greb, about Snyder's plan and just before the main bout that night Harry got into the ring first and took over the corner that was wired for Keiser. Snyder almost threw a fit when he saw Greb occupying the corner that was intended for Keiser. Fay's manager protested, insisting that Greb change corners but neither Harry nor Mason would budge.

The result was that Greb kept the corner that was wired for Keiser throughout the match—and Snyder never got an opportunity to startle the boxing world with his electric vibrator idea.

Laughter Verboten At Soviet News Reels

BERLIN (AP)—Laughing at Communist propaganda films in the Russian occupation zone is dangerous business. The hecklers are arrested and, if theatre owners fail to cooperate with police, their theaters are closed.

This was disclosed recently by the "Freie Presse," official organ of the Socialist Unity (Communist) party, published at Plauen, Saxony. The newspaper disclosed that the party had found it necessary to take disciplinary action after numerous disrespectful scenes in movie theaters.

In some theaters, for instance, salvoes of laughter greeted scenes in the weekly newsreel "The Eye-Witness" which showed Soviet ships purportedly unloading grain brought from the Soviet Union to feed the German population.

In other theaters hooting and whistling greeted screen pictures of portly Wilnelm Pieck, Germany's No. 1 Communist and co-chairman of the Socialist Unity Party. The 72-year-old Pieck, with his huge stomach, has the appearance of an old-time bartender.

"He looks just like Goering," shouted some fans, inspiring general laughter. This was deplored by the "Freie Presse" as an "anti-democratic display."

Greek Road Building

ATHENS—(AP)—Markos has failed in his effort to halt American reconstruction of Greece's highways. This is the opinion of Col. D. W. Griffiths, chief of the Grecian district of the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

He says that during the last few months guerillas have intensified their assaults on American contractors, installations and employees. Twenty-five Greek laborers have been killed in Communist raids, ambushes and attacks while working on road projects in the remote and unprotected areas of Greece. Thirty-six Greek roadworkers have been wounded.

Nearly 400 of the 10,000 Greeks employed on reconstruction projects are "missing," Col. Griffiths reports. He says the "missing" were presumably abducted by the rebels.

The American colonel who has been in Greece more than a year says it is "by sheer luck" that no Americans have been killed or wounded to date. Col. Griffiths says, however, that "on the whole, the value of the property damaged through bandit action and the number of casualties among our labor force are relatively insignificant.

Reds Taboo Gossip

WARSAW (AP) — Leftwing Polish Socialists are out to break up "coffeehouse talk" in Warsaw. Favored spots where Warsawians gather for their coffee daily are centers of wild rumors and "rightist and nationalistic" talk, they say.

The Socialists, soon to merge with the Communist Workers party, have also resolved to "expel from the party the rightists and class alien elements, such as shopkeepers, restaurant and coffeeshop owners, factory owners and butchers." Tadeusz Cwik, secretary of the Warsaw branch of the Socialist Party, declared all party members must be "taught about the gains of the Soviet Union and the leading role of the Bolshevik Communist party."

Cardinal Mindszenty

("The United States government," he continued, "categorically rejects such accusations against Mr. Chapin in whom it has full confidence."

(This assertion was repeated by McDermott tonight when questioned about the accusations against Chapin brought into the Mindszenty trial in Hungary today.)

U. S. Rejects Charges

(In its "yellow book" on Cardinal Mindszenty's case, the government charged Chapin sought military and other information from the Cardinal. Those charges were rejected by the United States State Department, which expressed full confidence in Chapin.)

The Cardinal was clad in the robes of a simple priest when he was brought in to face the court.

The trial had extended through the afternoon and into the evening when Prosecutor Gyula Elapi introduced a letter which he said the Cardinal had written in prison to Chapin January 26.

The letter asked the American minister to help in the escape plan and promised $4,000 to the pilot. The letter said the Cardinal would be accused of selling "secrets" to the Americans.

Speaking to the Cardinal in the dock, Presiding Judge Vilmos Olthys asked:

"Will you admit you wrote this letter?"

The Cardinal, who had spoken clearly and firmly earlier, muttered something. His reply was barely audible. Judge Olthys said he would accept the reply as meaning "yes."

Before the production of the letter, the prosecutor had asked the Cardinal whether he had tried to escape. The Cardinal requested that he be permitted not to answer the question.

Cognac By Other Name

ROME—(AP)—Italian makers of strong drink are hunting for a synonym for "cognac." From time immemorial, they have labeled brandy so.

Now, under a new Italo-French trade pact that protects the name "cognac" in the Italian market, they will have to find something new by next July 1. Favorites at the moment are understood to be "coniac" (with an "i" instead of "g"), "viniac," "arzento," "brandy tre stelle" (three stars) and "arzento." The last is reported slighily in the lead.

Mining Bills Await Lane's Law Study

Kimble Says Action Deferred "Out Of Courtesy" To Governor

Action on mining legislation now pending in Maryland's Senate Judiciary committee is being deferred "out of courtesy to the governor," Senator Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany) said last night, but he warned, "It must be the basis for any study" the governor's mining committee undertakes.

The Senator, who yesterday introduced a bill to have the Maryland Bureau of Mines headquarters transferred from Annapolis to Western Maryland, said he is awaiting the mining committee's meeting here Saturday before taking further action.

Kimble, himself a member of the governor's committee, said he is going to insist that the legislation now pending in Senate committee be made the basis of any study of Maryland's mines. Otherwise, he said, "I'll open an immediate fight to have the legislation passed in the General Assembly.

Another point that the Senator said he is going to push at the governor's committee meeting Saturday is an investigation into the physical ability of the chief engineer of the state mining bureau. Dr. John J. Rutledge is the bureau's chief engineer.

Cites Reason For Transfer

Kimble said he will ask the committee to go into the ability of the chief engineer to "effectively supervise" the enforcement of state mining laws and make proper observation of complaints.

In reference to the proposed transfer of the bureau's headquarters to Western Maryland, Kimble declared that the bureau should be located in the heart of the mining region.

With the chief of the bureau working in the mining area, the Senator declared, he will be available for immediate consultation with mining inspectors as well as operators and will also be in a position to take more intensive observations of mining conditions.

Expenses of maintaining a bureau headquarters in Western Maryland would come from savings in transportation and abolishing present offices maintained by two inspectors in the area now, Kimble declared.

He said that a check of the bureau's expenses shows that $180 was paid to each of the inspectors for office rent; that slightly under $600 was spent for transportation and another $600 for telephone communications.

Kimble said each inspector presently maintains an office in his home and received the money for office rent. "I do not mean to be critical of this," the Senator said. "If the men furnish office space they should receive payment."

Could Save Money

"However," he declared, "with a bureau office in the area the need for individual offices would no longer be necessary. He said he felt sure that at least $500 of the transportation bill was spent in com-

Tax Exemption Bill Decision Expected Today

Nicholson Cites Possible Loss

The House Ways and Means Committee is expected to reach a decision today on a bill which would exempt fraternal organizations from taxes, according to Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

A two-hour hearing on the bill was adjourned yesterday afternoon before final action was taken.

Whitworth reported that Somerville Nicholson, county supervisor of assessments, testified that exemption of such organizations from taxes would mean a loss of approximately $14,000 annually to the county.

The estimate was based on an assessable property valuation of $780,000, Nicholson said.

Exemption of that group of organizations would bring an "avalanche" of similar requests from other groups, Nicholson declared.

Cumberland residents who attended the hearing included Paul M. Fletcher, Estel Kelley, William Carscaden, Thomas Gilchrist, Sr., Harry Stegmaier and C. William H. Baer, a former member of the House of Delegates.

Whitworth, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, explained that two exemption bills are under consideration.

The first, House Bill 75, would include fraternal organizations in the present state law exempting benevolent and charitable groups from taxation.

Under that measure, property used for commercial purposes would be taxed but property used for club purposes only would be exempt.

The second measure, House Bill 31, in a special bill to exempt all property of the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and the Amvets from taxation.

Whitworth said he and Delegate William H. Geppert favor the first bill as it stands. The chairman said he has not yet polled other members of the county delegation on their views.

In regard to House Bill 31, Whitworth said he would favor the measure if an amendment was added excluding property used for commercial purposes.

Local Taxis Will Begin Rolling This Morning

Three Major Firms Agree On Contract

Taxicabs, which have been idled since Monday at midnight as a result of a contract dispute, will begin to roll again this morning at 8 o'clock.

The agreement to end the work stoppage was announced yesterday at 3:30 p. m. by James A. Holden, federal conciliator, following union ratification of a tentative agreement reached about 3 p. m. by company and union officials.

C. E. Stutzman, business agent for Local 453, Teamsters Union, which represents some 60 drivers of the Astor and Johnny's Cab Companies, termed the agreement satisfactory.

He said the only real change for men now on the payroll will be that the quota during summer months will be $90. New men, he said, will get 40 per cent of fares during their first year and will then be eligible to 45 per cent of all fares during weeks when they take in more than $100.

A third firm, the Yellow Top Cab Company, which employs 18 drivers, is now 100 per cent union and will sign the agreement, William Carpenter, manager, announced early last night. Normal operations will begin at 8 a. m., he said.

No Change In Fare

Holden commented that the agreement protects present employes against reduced earnings and at the same time affords the taxi operators some relief from high operating expenses.

The big problem, he said, was to keep fares at 50 cents and at the same time be fair to employes and taxi firms.

In general, the contract covering the Astor, Johnny's and Yellow Top firms will give present employes 40 per cent of fares up to $100 and 45 per cent of all fares after the $100 mark, except that in June through September, the $100 quota is dropped to $90 instead of $80.

New men will get 35 per cent of fares during their eight week probationary period and 40 per cent of all fares for the rest of their first year, when they will go on regular rates.

Service To Resume

Vacations of one week after one year and two weeks after three or more years will remain unchanged.

Fred W. Jenkins, spokesman for the firms, said service will not be resumed until 8 a. m. since it will be necessary to have full crews out when normal service is resumed.

Another reason, he explained, is the change in 12 hour shifts from 7 to 7 to 8 to 8. The change, he said, will give better taxi service by allowing drivers who would go off at 8 a. m. to work over until 9 a. m. when necessary to take care of the peak in business.

All firms have operated satisfactory emergency service since the work stoppage began with calls reported light.

The only mark of violence during the three-day strike occurred during the first hour of the stoppage when a rock shattered the window of a Yellow Top cab.

Local Man On Prison Parole Is Held Here

Baker Surrendered To Desk By Lawyer

A 31-year-old Cumberland man on parole from a prison sentence of one year to life in another state was being held in Allegany County Jail last night for questioning in a series of petty thefts, according to local police.

Booked as Robert Baker, 905 Maryland Avenue, the man, Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said, was surrendered to the desk yesterday morning by his attorney, Clarence Shutter.

Authorities said Baker broke away from city police and escaped January 27 after being arrested in the Grand Avenue area where residents complained that a prowler broke into a garage.

Police had been searching for the man since his escape and authorities said two items taken from the garage were found in a pickup truck owned and operated by Baker.

The prisoner was held briefly in city jail yesterday before being taken to the office of the State's Attorney for questioning.

Baker is presently on parole from an Illinois penitentiary where he was sentenced to serve from one year to life on a burglary count, local authorities declared. They added that Baker has served two of the three years of his parole.

Police said Baker was arrested on January 27 after they received the prowler complaint. He broke away from the arresting officers and fled before being delivered to headquarters.

Authorities declared they have received several complaints from the Grand Avenue-Oldtown Road area in recent weeks about breakings and enterings and the theft of small items. Police said destruction amounted to more than the items taken in some of the incidents.

Police said the man will likely be questioned further today in the office of the State's Attorney. They did not say if he would be returned to Illinois.

Kimble Uses "Clincher" To Kill County Rent Measure

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 3 (AP)—The so-called "clincher" was used for the first time in the 1949 session of the Maryland Legislature today to kill a House bill.

The "clincher" motion, which prohibits any further consideration of a rejected bill, was offered by Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany).

The measure had passed the House under sponsorship of the Allegany County Delegation. It would have restored Allegany County as one of those coming under a law providing for quick eviction of tennants who fail to pay their rent promptly.

Kimble outspokenly didn't like it. He had managed to exempt Allegany from the law several years ago.

The procedure was this:

The Senate Finance Committee reported unfavorably on the measure. Kimble then arose:

"I move that the motion by which the unfavorable report was adopted be reconsidered, and that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table."

The Senate sustained him in that complicated piece of business. Therefore, there can be no more discussion of the bill at this session.

The rent law in question (Allegany exempted) provides that when a tennant is indebted for nonpayment of rent, the landlord may go to a magistrate with a statement of debt. The tennant can be summoned to appear next day.

A continuance of one day is allowed, after that the case must be tried. If the magistrate finds for the landlord, he can issue a 48-hour eviction notice to the tennant.

Firemen's Aid Bill Reported Out Favorably

Garrett Bills Are Introduced

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday gave a favorable report to a measure which would authorize a $100 increase in allowances to each volunteer fire company in the county.

Requested by the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, the bill has the approval of the Board of County Commissioners.

It would increase the total annual allowances from $13,100 to $15,675.

State Senator Lawrence M. Fraley (R-Garrett) introduced two bills yesterday, according to the Associated Press.

One would increase from $25,000 to $50,000 the annual amount which the Garrett County Commissioners may spend for road machinery and equipment.

The measure was reflerred to Senators Fraley, Kimble (R-Allegany) and Storm (D-Frederick).

The other bill would eliminate a requirement for liability insurance on boats carrying passengers for pay on Deep Creek Lake. It was referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A bill was previously introduced calling for the increase of the Garrett County Board of Education from three to five members.

Heart Campaign Will Begin In County Monday

Group Seeks Funds To Start Clinic

The drive to raise upwards of $10,000 for the establishment of a heart clinic here to help treat rheumatic fever and sponsor an education and research program to help combat and control heart disease, will get underway next week, according to members of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association.

Through the co-operation of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, quarters have been obtained for the heart clinic, but funds in addition to the limited amount provided by the state are needed to establish and operate the clinic and education program.

Daniel D'Amicol is campaign chairman and said last night that community chairmen in all towns of the county are being contacted this week, and the campaign will get underway actively February 7.

Numerous organizations are cooperating with the effort, D'Amicol said, and a program of newspaper, radio and other publicity has been prepared to help acquaint people with the project.

Dr. Samuel Jacobson, president of the association, called attention to the increase in the number of deaths annually from heart disease, and the huge annual toll taken, particularly among children, by rheumatic fever.

He said there are a number of cases in Allegany County and neighboring areas which need special care and treatment, and funds raised by the association will be used in part to provide a home instructor or play-leader, to work with rheumatic fever patients in their homes.

Children suffering from rheumatic fever are taken from school and usually confined to bed for three to six months or longer. The Board of Education provides visiting teachers to help these children keep pace with their classmates in their studies. But most of the stricken child's day is spent idly and his recovery is retarded, the physician explains.

In the study of rheumatic fever and its treatment, it has been found that organized recreation activity of a harmless nature to the patient is important. Play leaders are employed to visit homes of rheumatic fever patients and map out programs for them.

The play leaders, or home visiting agents also assist the parents in working out problems dealing with the treatment and care of children suffering from rheumatic fever. Where this method is used, such as in Baltimore, the recovery of rheumatic fever cases is more rapid and successful, physicians claim.

Periodic examinations of children suffering from heart ailments will be a part of the work of the local clinic, Dr. Frantz explains, and county health nurses, physicians and others who contact heart cases, will refer them to the clinic for whatever help is needed.

The association will not operate the clinic, but will serve as an agency independent of the health department to raise funds, help provide needed equipment and supplies and provide the recreation instruction, D'Amicol said, as he explained the need for local funds.

Student Council Favored At AHS

Students at Allegany High School have decided in favor of student government and the establishment of a student council by a vote of 924 to 293, according to an announcement of an election held last week.

This action makes Allegany one of the 90 per cent of high schools in the United States participating in the program.

To vote, each student wrote either "yes" or "no" on a slip of paper and handed it to his home-room teacher, who tallied the votes. The results were then sent to the guidance office where students tallied the results for the school.

In order to have defeated the measure, those opposed would have had to mustred one-third of the vote or approximately 475 votes.

Only three home rooms (105, 107, and 120) had a majority voting against student council.

Then seniors ranked second in negative votes; tallying 54 votes against the project.

It was the more populous classes of the junior high who landslided the affirmative vote to its overwhelming victory. Giving up to 90 per cent majorities for the project, these classes easily balanced the large negative vote in senior high.

Although a number of students did not vote, mainly because of absence, they could not have defeated the measure had they all voted against it.

City Playground Group To Study Sale Of Bonds

Improvements Are Sought By Summer

A committee was named last night by the City Playgrounds Association to determine whether the $150,000 recreation bond issue can be sold in time to obtain funds for improving playgrounds before the summer season opens.

Mrs. Vivian L. Turley, president, appointed Robert Taylor, Bernard Fleigle, Mrs. Margaret Diehl and Bernard Bealky to the group.

In other action, a list of seven recommendations was approved concerning playground operation. Letters outlining the suggestions will be sent to the Park Board for its approval.

Mrs. Turley named Mrs. Bruce Fable, Mrs. Diehl and James Sills to a nominating committee which will report at the first meeting in April, when the annual election of officers will be held.

The association said it believes the playground appropriation would cover the salary of the director as well as play leaders, if individual associations furnished smaller equipment and handicraft materials for their respective playgrounds.

A total of $13,750 was appropriated to playgrounds for the 15-month fiscal period ending June 30.

Another recommendation suggested direct purchase of playground equipment at one time by the city, to achieve a saving by discount and also to have the equipment in readiness for the opening of the season.

Remainder of the list follows:

1. Require applicants for the post of play leader to take a proposed training course which is being planned by the Board of Education this spring, provided instructors can be obtained.

2. Change playground hours from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. to a new schedule of 10 a. m. until 8 p. m. Thus the 10-4 and 2-8 shifts would overlap for two hours in the afternoon, permitting instruction of handicrafts, which is not possible when only one playleader is on duty.

3. Hold a picnic at Constitution Park for children from all city playgrounds at the close of the season.

4. Continue Red Cross swimming classes at Constitution Park this summer.

5. Appoint four or five qualified young men to organize athletic activities for teen-aged boys and girls at the larger playgrounds.

Three Hurt In Sledding Mishap

Two teen-age youths and a 32-year-old man were injured last night in a sledding accident at the intersection of Central and Baltimore Avenues. Memorial Hospital attaches said the man's condition was critical.

Police listed the trio as E. R. Coakley, 32, 525 Eastern Avenue; Claude W. Lipscomb, 506 Pine Avenue, and George Harris, 483 Eastern Avenue. The driver of the car was listed as John Hafer, Baltimore Avenue.

Hospital attaches said Coakley was in a critical condition when he was admitted at 11:10 o'clock but described Lipscomb's injuries as minor. Harris was treated at Allegany Hospital and discharged.

Investigating authorities said the trio was sledding on Central Avenue between Monroe Street and Baltimore Avenue. They said the three violated a red-lantern block indicating the end of the roped-off area and coasted on to Baltimore Avenue.

Police took Coakley and Lipscomb to the hospital in the ambulance, but Harris at first declined treatment. Authorities did not determine immediately who was guiding the sled.

Police said Hafer was leaving Baltimore Avenue to turn into a side street when the sledding party collided with the car. Authorities said a large group of sportsmen were using the sledding area.

Detective E. M. Powell, Officer Louis Downey, William Valentine, Carl Stouffer and James Brown investigated the accident.

Auditions For Heidt Show Start Tonight

About 50 persons are expected to receive auditions tonight at the Garden Theater for the Horace Heidt show, which will appear here this month, according to Fred Perry, manager of the theater.

Perry said the first audition will be given tonight at 8:30. Another is scheduled for next Friday night at the same time and plans are under way to schedule several more during next week.

The winners of the auditions, who will be selected by the audience, will have an opportunity to appear on the show, which will be presented February 17 and 18 at Fort Hill High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Perry said.

Final arrangements for tonight's and next Friday night's auditions were made with Radio Station WTBO yesterday, Perry said.

Any persons who wish to apply for auditions may contact Perry.

Equity Suits Filed

Two bills of complaint were filed in Circuit Court yesterday as follows: Charlotte M. Wolford vs Vaughn A. Wolford, and Delores H. Self vs Raymond H. Self.

Teacher Files Suit For Injury

A suit for $50,000 damages was filed in Circuit Court yesterday for Miss Ina K. Spitznas, a public school teacher who was seriously injured in an automobile accident last October 7, while she was en route to Baltimore to a teachers meeting.

The suit, filed for Miss Spitznas by W. Earle Cobey, attorney, is entered against James H. Bunt, a non-resident of Maryland, and charges negligence.

The collision occurred between Bunt's car and an auto driven by another teacher, J. Stanley Hunter, in which Miss Spitznas was a passenger. The mishap happened about 7 a. m., 19 miles east of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40. Hunter's car was traveling eastward and Bunt was proceeding in a westerly direction.

The suit states Miss Spitznas suffered compound fractures of both legs and numerous other injuries, and has been unable to resume her duties as a teacher, is permanently injured, and has been subjected to considerable medical, surgical and hospital expense.

Collection Day TODAY

Legal Backing On Home Rule Cited

Three disinterested members of the Legislature, all well-known lawyers, were consulted by the Allegany County Delegation before it deleted home rule from Cumberland's proposed city charter, Chairman Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., said last night.

The lawyers agreed with the delegation that there was "grave doubt" of the constitutionality of the provision, Whitworth said.

"We are not going to pass any laws if we have reason to believe they are unconstitutional," he declared.

"Passage of such laws would only encourage litigation," Whitworth added.

He said legal advisers to the Cumberland Charter Commission, as well as Dr. Carl Everstine, Baltimore, who drafted the measure, previously expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the home rule provision.

Whitworth said the delegation expects a ruling within a few days from Attorney General Hall Hammond in the matter.

Referring to comments by some members of the Charter Commission that the question of constitutionality should be determined by the courts, not the delegation, Whitworth said:

"It is our job to pass upon the constitutionality of proposed laws inasmuch as we are to be the author of them."

Robert L. Davis, 123 North Centre Street, secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to use the first floor of a two-story brick building at 160 North Centre Street as a display room for audio-visual equipment. The premises were formerly occupied by a cleaning agency.

School House Bill Mystery To Delegates

The Allegany County Delegation has "no knowledge" of a so-called home rule school bill for the county, Chairman Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., said last night.

An item which appeared Wednesday in a local newspaper said there was some indication that the bill "may be killed" in the House of Delegates.

According to the news item, the bill, introduced by Senator Kimble (R-Allegany) would give the Board of County Commissioners the final say before a school building is abandoned, moved or reconstructed.

Such a measure, Whitworth explained, would involve state-wide policy with regard to schools and would therefore be referred to a standing committee in the House instead of to the delegation.

"We can make no commitments on any bill until we have an opportunity to study it," he added.

Doctor's Car Hit By Train

A Piedmont physician was in "good" condition last night in Memorial Hospital after his automobile was struck by a B. and O. freight train at the Childs Street crossing, Piedmont, yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

The attending physician said Dr. P. E. Berry suffered contusions and abrasions on the left leg and strained muscles in the shoulders and neck. He was admitted at 2 p. m.

Officer Thomas Walsh, Piedmont Police Department, said the doctor's car was struck and dragged about 30 feet west of the crossing after Dr. Berry failed to observe a stop signal given by the crossing watchman, Arthur Rhodes.

The policeman quoted Rhodes as saying that Dr. Berry descended a steep grade on the street and crossed the first tracks without seeing the approaching train. He said he gave the signal to stop but the doctor continued across the tracks.

Officer Walsh said Dr. Berry had been taken from the scene when he arrived. The physician was taken to the Cumberland hospital in an ambulance.

Police said the case is held open for further investigation.

Car Theft Reported

The theft of a 1941 Buick sedan owned by Eugene Wright, 617 Henderson Avenue, was reported to city police last night. The owner informed authorities that the vehicle was stolen at 8:20 p. m. from in front of 111 Decatur Street. Police in Pennsylvania and West Virginia were advised to be on the lookout for the stolen car.

Growing Challenge Of Education Can And Will Be Met, Miles Says

The growing challenge which education faces in the next 10 years can and will be met if we insist on good teachers adequate buildings and a broad curriculum, John R. Miles, director of research of the Committee on Education of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday.

He reported headway already on the tremendous problems caused by the tremendous increases and shifts in population.

The shift in population, he added, has thrown an almost intolerable burden on some areas, pointing to California, which has doubled in population since the war began.

National income, also, has increased, but the schools have not received their share of the additional money, he declared.

In 1947, Miles pointed out, the national income was $195 billion. Of the $49 billion spent, $13 billion went for tobacco, liquor and jewelry but only $4½ billion for education.

"If we want good schools," he continued, "we must decide on whether to finance them through local, state or federal funds." This must be answered, he pointed out, by deciding which level of government best understands local school problems.

The best position of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, he said, is not against federal aid for education as such, but rather that the problem can better be met through state and community support through their own resources.

Miles was introduced by Adolph Blunk, chairman of the Education Committee of the local Chamber of Commerce, members of which were guests at the Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting held in Central YMCA.

M. Sgt. Daehnke Appointed National Guard Instructor

The appointment of M. Sgt. Frederick C. Daehnke, 30, 408 Decatur Street, as sergeant-instructor for the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment, Maryland National Guard, has been announced by Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland, commanding officer.

Daehnke succeeds First Sgt. Robert D. Sawyers, former Regular Army instructor for the guard, who was transferred to the Indiana National Guard early last September.

In his new position Sgt. Daehnke will help in all phases of training and administration in all companies of the First Battalion, both in Cumberland and Frostburg.

A native of Baltimore, Daehnke has a long and diversified military record. In 1936, when he was 17, he enlisted in the Marine Corps and was sent to Parris Island, S. C. for recruit training.

After receiving advanced training at Quantico, Va., he took part in maneuvers on the West Coast and

The Weather

The first sign of a break in wintry weather came yesterday with most of the snow and slush on local streets melting rapidly. But that five degree low mark wasn't to be taken as a reminder of spring. The high for the day was 45 and at 10 p. m. the official reading was 35 degrees, a degree higher than the 6 p. m. 34 mark. Sleet, followed by rain and slightly warmer temperatures, is expected today.

Residents Recall Earlier Plea For Western Maryland Mental Hospital

Current interest in state mental hospital facilities has caused a number of area residents to recall a statement in 1926 by Dr. A. P. Herring, then state commissioner of mental hygiene, listing reasons why a new state mental hospital should be established in Western Maryland.

Dr. Herring pointed out that the four western counties, Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett, never had hospital facilities for either public or private mental patients.

As a result, those suffering from acute or uncontrollable forms of insanity had to be sent to jails or almshouses, or transferred long distances to state hospitals with suitable facilities.

"In contrast," Dr. Herring said, "most of these counties have one or more general hospitals for the treatment of surgical or medical patients."

All of the four counties except Garrett maintained county asylums at that time, where chronic types of mental patients were sent.

"There they receive no treatment other than custodial, and that of the crudest kind, while the per capita cost is higher than it would be in a state hospital, where they receive adequate care," Dr. Herring pointed out.

The statement concluded:

"A Western Maryland state hospital for mental diseases would afford an opportunity to expand the mental hygiene clinics in those four counties and will serve to prevent, as well as cure, mental disease in its inception, when recovery is possible."

Although periodic attempts have been made in the 23 years since Dr. Herring's statement was published, mental hospital facilities in this area have never been set up.
